MAN FROZE TO DEATH 100 YARDS FROM HOUSE

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP)—An Edmonton man froze to death just 100 yards from shelter after he and a companion walked seven miles Thursday in 50-below-zero weather.

M. A. Hendriks and Leon Peterson headed for Bell Rock after abandoning their stalled truck 32 miles from Fort Smith.

Sketchy reports indicated the men were 100 yards from the only occupied house in the community when Hendriks collapsed and died.

Peterson was in serious condition in Fort Smith Hospital.

BRITISH INDUSTRY REELS

Hundreds Injured On Icy Streets

LONDON (AP) — Europe's cold wave crippled British industry today, packed hospitals and threatened major embarrassment for Prime Minister Wilson's government.

Cuts in gas supplies disrupted the English Midlands, the hub of British industry. Thousands of workers were laid off for the rest of the week as assembly lines halted in automobile and engineering plants.

Hospitals reported hundreds of fracture cases brought in from the icy streets. Some set up special wards for old people with hypothermia, a dangerous drop in body temperature. One London hospital reported 212 casualties from falls Thursday night, most of them broken wrists. Brighton, on the south coast, had 160.

Hundreds of cars were abandoned in snowdrifts around Dover on the English east coast. Ice and snow delayed trains throughout Britain.

In Norway, the intense cold seemed to be lifting slightly and the temperature reached 14 degrees. Oslo's weather for the last three months was the coldest since official records started 132 years ago.

43 SHIPS ICEBOUND

By these standards Britain, with temperatures only a few degrees below freezing, was enjoying a "heat wave" but the consequences were considerable.

Cuts by the government gas and electricity authorities gave the Conservative Opposition a springboard for attack on Wilson's Labor government, which has a majority of only two votes in the House of Commons.

Conservatives said the attack will start as soon as Parliament returns Tuesday from the Christmas recess. It will culminate Thursday in an attempt to bring the government down by forcing a vote of censure.

One issue the Opposition will raise is what happened to the winter emergency committee set up by the government after similar power cuts last November.

The government's answer is that it is concerned only with long-term solutions. The main cause of the current trouble is failures in two major gas plants in the Midlands.

$60 Million Increase In Education Grants

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal grants to universities will be bosted to $100,000,000 from the present $40,000,000 in the 1966-67 year if Parliament approves, Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday night.

He said this would be an interim arrangement to help universities pending a federal-provincial conference on education. It would bring the federal per capita grant to $5 from the present $2, he announced in the Commons.

Meanwhile, a special formula had been worked out by which more money would be given provinces with a high percentage of out-of-province students.

It would be applied by the Association of Universities and Colleges in all provinces except Quebec. But special arrangements would be made so Quebec would get an equal increase.

Mr. Pearson, speaking in the throne speech debate, said an interim arrangement to boost grants had been suggested in December.

The government hoped to work out long-term approaches through a federal-provincial conference on education to be arranged in the next few months.

The Economic Council of Canada in its second annual review had recommended that education at all levels be given a high priority. Education was a crucially important factor in the economy.

The prime minister said there

Boost in Aid Hailed by Uvic

A spokesman at the University of Victoria this morning welcomed news that the federal government is increasing grants for higher education.

Dean R. T. Wallace said the increase in grants may signal "a turning point in university development."

The federal government announced Thursday that operating grants would go up from $2 to $5 per capita for the academic year of 1966-67.

Dean Wallace, who is acting president of the university in the absence of President Malcolm Taylor, (in Ottawa on a business trip) said Canadian universities have emphasized the need for more money for higher education.

He said this early response by the federal authorities "is most gratifying." He also hailed the decision of the federal government to review university development along with the provinces.

Dean Wallace said: "All parties recognize the importance of further national investment in our human resources."

He added, "our own provincial government and the academic community in British Columbia have shown by their actions that B.C. is ready to meet the challenge of our times."

Operating grants from the province to Uvic have increased 126 per cent over the past two years.

Tax Series Starts In Times Saturday

Property taxes. Soaring property taxes.

The subject — a sore one — is foremost in every homeowner's mind as the time nears when he will be opening tax notices with trepidation.

Are they out of line?

Are municipalities doing enough to keep taxes down?

Is the provincial government generous enough with the municipalities?

The Times recently assigned reporter Pete Loudon to find the answers to these questions and a lot more which have been plaguing what has been called "the poor-put-upon-homeowner."

His findings—in a four-part series—will start Saturday in The Times.

BIG RAISE BY BENNETT NEEDED

VANCOUVER (CP) — University of B.C. president John B. Macdonald said Thursday the provincial government should follow the federal government's lead in increasing grants to universities.

Dr. Macdonald said in a statement the increase in per capita federal grants to $5 from $2 a "useful temporary measure."

He said the grant increase still falls short of the Bladen commission's recommendation of a $6 per capita grant for 1966-67.

"It is crucially important, as indicated by the prime minister, that the provinces as well as the federal government recognize the pressing needs of the universities for annual increases in financial support," Dr. Macdonald said.

"In the light of Premier Bennett's statement that education is among the highest priorities of his government, we should be able to anticipate a significant increase in provincial supportment to complement the assistance being provided by the federal government."

U.S. Patrol Attacked

SAIGON (AP)—The Viet Cong jolted the lunar new year ceasefire today by attacking a U.S. marine patrol near Da Nang and engaging South Korean marines in a two-hour close quarter battle near the central coast.

Two U.S. marine sergeants were killed when the guerrillas caught a marine platoon in a flooded rice paddy.

HUNGER HAUNTS INDIA

NEW DELHI (AP) — India's food crisis has thrown more than 12,000,000 people into "dire distress" and threat of starvation, government figures disclosed today.

A food ministry spokesman said a survey of drought-stricken areas shows at least 100,000,000 of the country's 480,000,000 people will feel a severe pinch before the crisis is past.

The survey is continuing, the spokesman said, and final figures in both categories are bound to increase despite emergency measures to get more U.S. food grains into India.

People in "dire distress" will have to be moved into relief camps or fed almost entirely by relief supplies now being rushed to many parts of the country, the spokesman said.

SET UP CAMPS

Relief camps already are being set up in Rajasthan and Gujarat states in western India, the area hardest hit by the 1965 drought.

In Admeer district of Rajasthan, the government found 806 villages out of 956 were living under "scarcity conditions." In Bikaner district, 497 out of 529 were hard hit.

Of 16 districts in Gujarat state, 11 had crop yields less than 25 per cent of normal.

Other hard - hit states are Madhya Pradesh, Masharashtra, Andhra Pradesh and Mysore.

In many areas, the government also has started emergency shipments of drinking water and cattle fodder.

SHIP IN RICE

The government meanwhile announced 15,000 tons of rice is being shipped from Orissa state in the east to Kerala state, a southwest Communist hotbed where food demonstrations are erupting.

More than 1,000 pro-Moscow Communists and 3,000 students marched on government offices Thursday demanding increased rations of rice—their principal food.

Even states that normally are surplus producers of food grains now are reporting difficulties.

Rattan Singh, the Punjab's minister of agriculture, told reporters in Chandigarh his state is likely to have a 500,000-ton deficit in wheat production.

American grain shipments under the Food for Peace program have been averaging 600,000 tons monthly and are expected to hit more than 1,000,000 tons a month.

Thompson Pledge Assures Majority

OTTAWA (UPI) — Social Credit leader Robert Thompson today promised the minority Liberal government the support it needs to withstand its first non-confidence challenge of the 27th Parliament later in the day.

And in another heartening break for the government, Liberal house leader George McIlraith announced that agreement has been reached in behind-the-scenes negotiations on the potentially explosive rules question.

The support of Thompson's five Social Credit members gave the Liberals a narrow majority with a possible 135 in the 265-seat Commons on a New Democratic Party motion scheduled to come up later today. The Conservative motion will come up Tuesday.

Thompson said that although agreeing with the motion based on government failure to increase the old age pension to $100 a month and make it available to age 65, he could not support any measure designed to defeat the government because the country would not stand for another election at this time.

WOULD BE REJECTED

Any political party that brought about an election at this time would be completely rejected by the electorate, Mr. Thompson said.

He deplored the fact that pensions and Canadian senior citizens should become the subject of political manoeuvring and strategy.

His statement meant the government also could count on Socred support for further throne speech amendments, including the Conservative motion.

McIlraith's announcement on rules question ended several days of party negotiations and uncertainty and meant that with a few minor exceptions, rules passed in the previous Parlia-

Queen's Act 'Illegal', Lifts Death Sentence

SALISBURY (Reuters)—The Rhodesian government refused today to recognize Queen Elizabeth's decree lifting the death sentence on a Negro convicted of trying to start a fire in Rhodesia.

A government statement said it regards the exercise of the royal prerogative in the case as an illegal act.

An announcement in London Thursday said the Queen had commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence passed on the Negro named Lazarus.

Lazarus was convicted by a Rhodesian court of attempting to set fire to two buildings.

The death sentence, passed before the Rhodesian white-minority regime's unilateral declaration of independence from Britain last November, was mandatory under the colony's Law and Order (Maintenance) Act.

Referring to the royal announcement, the Salisbury statement said:

"This is a political move designed to embarrass the Rhodesian government and it is a pity that once again the British government should have shown its willingness to embroil Her Majesty the Queen in politics."

'BRAINWASHING CANADIAN PEOPLE'

Dief Blasts CBC for Portraying U.S. as Villains

By IAN MacDONALD
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker Thursday accused the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation of portraying America as an imperialist, war-mongering villain in South Viet Nam.

Diefenbaker ripped into the corporation for its handling of news about the Asian hot spot.

He accused it of brainwashing the Canadian public.

"According to its programs you would think the United States was one of the great enemies of mankind," Diefenbaker told Parliament.

He demanded that the top brass of the corporation be brought before Parliament to explain.

Diefenbaker launched into his CBC attack after he accused the Liberal government of using the network to spread propaganda during the last election campaign.

The Tory leader, speaking in the throne speech debate, said that External Affairs Minister Paul Martin takes the stand that the U.S. is in Viet Nam because it is trying to stop the spread of Communism throughout Southeast Asia.

Diefenbaker said propaganda is spread in every part of Canada about how terrible the Americans are acting.

He said he, at times, has been critical of the U.S., "but the CBC programs picture the most diabolical cruelties being perpetrated by the Americans.

"Why does it do that?"

The CBC, he said, had even brought in Tim Buck, retired general secretary of the Communist Party in Canada, and presented him on television "to tell Canadians what is wrong with the U.S.A."

"Shame," a handful of MPs erupted.

Parliament, he said, should look into this "among the people in the CBC." He did not mean the employees but the people at the top who are "brainwashing, or endeavoring to brainwash the Canadian people."

That, he thundered, was not what the CBC was established for.

"We wanted it to be an institution above those considerations that ordinarily separate us," he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he had considered programs one by one.

The Tory leader said he would press as strongly as he could for "these people (at CBC) to come before Parliament to let us in on these things."

Mr. Diefenbaker then reverted to his attack on the CBC for its conduct in the election.

He mocked the "tremendous influence of the propaganda that was put out in the last few days of the campaign regarding the sweep that was to take place."

"That," he exclaimed, "was not done as an impersonal act for the benefit of the people of Canada."

Later in the throne speech, Prime Minister Pearson said Mr. Diefenbaker's charge against the CBC's election conduct was "very serious indeed."

Mr. Pearson said, "That is a serious charge and perhaps my right honorable friend (Mr. Diefenbaker) will have an opportunity to prove it.

"And it is the kind of charge to which we in this house are becoming accustomed, made without evidence and by insinuation and innuendo."

Mr. Pearson's statement was greeted by loud Liberal applause.

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — When Barry Schneider, 22, and his wife, Nedra, 21, found and returned a bag containing $300,000 in payroll cheques to the U.S. Steel plant in nearby Torrance recently, they were given a reward they couldn't afford to accept.

Pacific Southwest Airlines offered the Schneiders and another couple with them when they returned the cheques airline tickets to fly anywhere they desired.

Schneider declined the offer because, as a student at San Fernando Valley State College, he could not afford a vacation.

Wednesday, U.S. Steel sent the Schneiders a $500 cheque to finance the vacation. Three anonymous donors also sent the couple another $80.

John Scanlon, president of the exchange, said he expects the trading will begin before the end of this year.

Initial trading will be on a "spot," or more or less immediate delivery basis.

In granting scotch the status of a staple, the exchange would put whisky in the same category as the eggs, potatoes and aluminum contracts it now trades.

B.C. SYNOPSIS—A complex weather system moving off the B.C. coast continues to give extensive precipitation over the province this morning. Rain along the outer coast was to give way to snow along the mainland. At Vancouver rain and snow mixed were forecast as the system approaches during the day, changing to snow as it moved inland over the Washington coast this evening. Snow amounts are forecast to be 4 inches at Abbotsford and 2 inches at Vancouver city. In the Cariboo 8 inches of new snow had fallen at Prince George up to 4 a.m. this morning. Another 5 inches was likely before it tapers off later today. Another Pacific storm moving from the Gulf of Alaska will bring more rain to the north coast late Saturday.

Lagos Denies PM's Death

LAGOS (AP)—Nigeria's military government officially denied Thursday reports published overseas that Lagos authorities had announced the death of former federal Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa.

Information Director Cyprian Ekwensi said no announcement had been made on the fate of Balewa, who was kidnapped in the early hours of last Saturday.

Balewa's press secretary, Moses Awoyinfa, also said no announcement was made and "I know nothing of what happened."

Canadians Recaptured By Posse

NEW IBERIA, La. (AP)—Two young Canadians escaped jail here Thursday and dodged a sheriff's posse all around town until their recapture Thursday night.

Sheriff Jerry Wattigny identified them as Lawrence A. Lazeo, 19, and Ernest des Rosier, 19, both of Vancouver.

Des Rosier, trailed by bloodhounds through the freezing night, swam the Bayou which cuts across the middle of New Iberia. Chilled to the bone, he rang the doorbell at a house near the Bayou — the home, though he didn't know it, of Deputy Dave LaSalle.

Mrs. LaSalle, realizing the youth was one of the escapees her husband was working overtime chasing, let him in. She provided a blanket and sent her son out the back door for Deputy LaSalle.

Lazeo was caught hiding in a used car lot.

The youths were being held for federal officials on a stolen car charge, Wattigny said.

Deputy Drozin Broussard said the two scrambled past him when he opened the door to a hallway leading past some jail cells.

"They were supposed to have been locked in their cells, but they were out in the hall," he said. "They got past me and ran out of the building."

ment to speed up business of the House will continue in effect in this one.

There had been some question of whether they would continue to be valid because of the election and the new Parliament.

Thursday, in their first chance to criticize the Throne Speech, the opposition parties responded with two amendments each of which could have led to the fall of the government.

The non-confidence motions introduced by the Tories and NDP Thursday press the Liberal government to boost old age pensions to $100 monthly.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker opened the eight - day Throne Speech debate with an 80-minute attack on the government's legislative program and policies.

Borrowing an argument used exactly eight years ago by Mr. Pearson, then Opposition leader, he said the government should resign if defeated in a confidence vote and give the Opposition an opportunity to attempt to form a new government without another election.

Mr. Pearson rejected this idea, using the arguments invoked in 1958 by then prime minister Diefenbaker. He warned that if the Liberals are defeated on a non-confidence motion a new election would follow.

RECALLS REJECTION

NDP Leader Douglas commented that Mr. Diefenbaker wants to be named prime minister by the Commons after being rejected by the electorate by a 2-to-1 ratio. The people would dislike an early election, but they would dislike even more having "the Tories back in office."

Mr. Diefenbaker's non-confidence motion criticizes the government for failing to propose in the throne speech that monthly pensions now paid to all those aged 69 or over be increased by $25 to $100.

Mr. Douglas endorsed the Conservative move but added a motion of his own regretting that $100 pensions are not being paid immediately from age 65.

COST 'IMPOSSIBLE'

Mr. Pearson said it would cost an extra $855,000,000 annually to pay $100 pensions at 65. It would be impossible to finance the increase with contributions from the Canada Pension Plan fund as the Conservatives proposed, since Ottawa was committed to turn the fund over to the provinces for investment purposes.

It would be unreasonable to finance the increase through federal taxes as the NDP proposed because of fast-rising expenses in other social security programs.

Recorded Vote Lost By Tories

OTTAWA (CP)—In the first roll-call vote of the new Parliament, the Commons voted 123 to 65 Thursday night to permit Creditiste Leader Caouette to speak ahead of a Conservative MP.

A Conservative motion challenging the rotation of party speakers was introduced shortly before the normal 10 p.m. adjournment and forced the House to sit an extra hour for the recorded vote.

When Speaker Lucien Lamoureux recognized Mr. Caouette as the fourth party leader to speak on the opening day of the throne speech debate, Hugh Horner (PC—Jasper-Edson) also sought the floor.

Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) moved that Mr. Horner be allowed to speak instead of Mr. Caouette. Only the 65 Conservatives voting supported the motion.

Lining up against the bid were 90 Liberals, 18 New Democrats, eight Creditistes, five Social Credit MPs and the two independents.

SURVEILLANCE

'Under What Authority?'

OTTAWA (UPI)—The opposition went to the defence today of a man accused of spying in Canada for the Soviet Union.

Leading off the attack against the government's handling of the spy case that broke last year, Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker demanded to know under what law the government was keeping the suspect under constant survillance without laying any charge against him.

Diefenbaker has asked for a royal commission inquiry into the case that resulted in the expulsion from Canada last May of two minor Russian diplomats who allegedly offered two Canadians "thousands of dollars" to spy for them.

One of the Canadians helped police nab the Russians and the other — identified as Victor G. Spencer of Vancouver — was fired from his civil service job with the post office but never charged.

New Democratic leader T. C. Douglas asked Prime Minister Pearson if the government would at least give Spencer "an opportunity of clearing his name."

WARM welcome to the House of Commons Thursday was given Grace MacInnis (NDP-Vancouver-Kingsway) by Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker. Both praised her father, J. S. Woodsworth, and late husband, MP Angus MacInnis, founders of the old CCF party. Mrs. MacInnis was elected in the Nov. 8 vote.

should be a joint federal-provincial response to the challenge.

The increased federal grants would be "a constructive step forward in making an adequate contribution to the advancement of education."

There would be no infringement on the jurisdiction of the provinces in education.

The speech from the throne setting out government legislative aims for the session mentioned increased aid to universities but did not spell out any details.

The first mention of what specific steps the government had in mind came when Mr. Pearson rose Thursday to answer criticisms by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker of the speech.

PREMIER MORO
. . . embarrassing defeat

Undercover Rebellion Responsible

Moro's resignation was triggered by an embarrassing defeat in the Chamber of Deputies Thursday on his bill to set up a state nursery school. He had described the measure as a key reform that the Socialists demanded when entering the coalition in December 1963.

The cabinet meeting lasted only five minutes. When Moro walked out he told reporters: "The government decided to resign."

He went to the Quirinal Palace to inform President Giuseppe Saragat of the resignation.

President Saragat, acting in accord with custom, asked Moro to stay on in an interim capacity until a new government can be formed.. In effect, he reserved decision on the resignation when Moro submitted it formally to him.

No Strike Plea Puzzles Officials

WASHINGTON (AP)—Organized labor, already puzzled by President Johnson's anti-strike proposal, was further mystified Wednesday by a somewhat similar suggestion from one of the top union chiefs in the U.S.

Walter Reuther, United Auto Workers president, gave no details in proposing a "new mechanism" to prevent strikes in public service industries as well as major industries such as big steel and auto makers.

Many highly placed officials found it astonishing that any strike limiting suggestion should come from a labor leader of Reuther's stature.

Reuther, second most powerful man in the AFL-CIO, made his proposal in a speech to the Detroit Economic Club six days after Johnson's anti-strike reference in his State of the Union message Jan. 12.

Johnson said he would ask Congress to consider measures to deal with "strikes which threaten irreparable damage to the national interest."

130-DAY STRIKE OVER

Union, B.A. Sign New Pact

A 130-day strike by truck drivers and warehousemen of British-American Oil ended today.

Leaders of both sides signed a new two-year contract to replace the one that ran out last April.

Among the 59 marketing division men involved are eight in Victoria and five in Nanaimo. They are members of Local 9-601 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union.

Seniority was the last stumbling block to settlement. The company wanted to split the province into three seniority zones to protect some union members who worked during the strike.

The union wanted to keep the former seniority list to protect those who did strike.

Company spokesmen have said a "very large" percentage of the company's industrial accounts were lost during the strike and some men might not be needed immediately.

Union members accepted a company proposal that a joint union-management committee study the seniority question. If recommendations from this committee are accepted by both sides, the proposals will become part of the new contract.

Pickets outside the B-A storage depot in Victoria were withdrawn Thursday pending signing of the new contract. The eight men are expected to return to work Monday.

The new contract is identical to others signed with major oil companies, and based on the provincial government formula that averted a general strike in B. C. last November.

It provides for a 35-cent wage increase, advance notice of technological change and union-management committees on automation.

Formal settlement was also expected today in Moose Jaw, where refinery workers have been on strike since Sept. 19. Strikes at the Kamloops and Port Moody refineries were settled earlier.

PEACE OFFENSIVE AT END OF PHASE—RUSK

Cong War Step-Up Warning

WASHINGTON (AP) —State Secretary Dean Rusk said today "there is every indication" that the Communist side in Viet Nam will intensify its war activity after the current lunar new year holiday period ends Sunday.

Rusk told a press conference that President Johnson's peace offensive had failed to get "any positive and encouraging response" from the Vietnamese Communists.

Otherwise he said it had drawn an "overwhelmingly favorable response" throughout the world.

His words indicated that the peace drive and the pause in bombing North Viet Nam have come to the end of a phase, but he avoided saying so directly. He refused to say whether or when the United States will resume bombing North Viet Nam.

ASKED ABOUT OUTLOOK

Asked about the war outlook, however, he said:

"There is every sign that the other side is going to intensify its activity after the Teh (lunar new year) period."

Asked whether the war might spread into other areas, Rusk said "there is always a danger when an aggressor sets out to impose his will by force and the other side is determined to keep its commitments."

On the question of resuming bombing of North Viet Nam—the pause is in its 29th day—Rusk said he would not disclose future military developments.

"Our commitment is deep," he said. "We will do what is necessary to achieve our elementary objective."

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said in the Commons Thursday he hopes the United States will continue suspension of air raids on North Viet Nam as long as possible.

The halt in the bombings and the U.S. diplomatic moves for peace in Viet Nam had brought "no response that you could detect from Hanoi."

Mr. Pearson said perhaps withdrawal of foreign troops from Viet Nam could begin once both sides in the conflict had accepted negotiations. One possible solution would be neutralization of both North and South Viet Nam, followed by talks on reunification between the two governments.

TOP LEVEL TALKS BETWEEN U.K., U.S.

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Wilson is sending two top aides to the United States next week to co-ordinate British and U.S. policy east of Suez.

But informants said this does not mean Britain intends to make a military contribution to the U.S. effort in Viet Nam.

Wilson and President Johnson reached agreement in principle last month on British-American-Commonwealth defence co-operation in the Orient. Now Defence Secretary Denis Healey and Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart hope to put flesh on the bones of that top-level accord in Washington talks Jan. 27-28. They will confer with U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara and State Secretary Dean Rusk.

The new consultations come at the end of a major reappraisal of British defence tasks in the light of hard - pressed Britain's need to slash defence costs to a maximum of $5,600,000,000 a year.

Wilson has summoned his cabinet and leading advisers to meet at his official country home, Chequers, during the weekend for what may be the final decisions on a new defence policy.

After the Washington talks, Healey will fly to Canberra for a session with Australian and New Zealand leaders. Both countries intend to participate in the new arrangements.

On his way home, Healey will stop off in Singapore and Malaysia to discuss how those two Commonwealth countries will fit into the big design.

RHODESIAN STALEMATE

Negotiate With Smith, Chief Justice Tells U.K.

LONDON (AP)—The visit to London of Sir Hugh Beadle, Rhodesia's chief justice, has stretched to breaking point the last threads of a bipartisan policy on Rhodesia between the ruling Labor party and the Conservative Opposition.

Sir Hugh arrived here Tuesday apparently convinced that negotiation between Prime Minister Wilson and Premier Ian Smith should start as soon as possible.

Sir Hugh is said to have told Wilson that sanctions so far have had little visible effect, and that no alternative government to that of Smith's is yet in sight.

Wilson's policy is based on belief that sanctions are beginning to bite—a belief reinforced by Thursday's surprise cut in the Rhodesian gasoline ration—and that alternatives to Smith eventually will come forward.

Conservatives believe talks with Smith are inevitable and should start soon. They accuse Wilson of trying to hush up Beadle's views. And they are reserving judgment on Wilson's announced intention to impose stiffer sanctions on Rhodesia within a few days.

DISPUTE LOOMS

The Rhodesia crisis now also appears to hold the seeds of an Anglo-American dispute.

The British government Thursday night issued an order making it a crime to export chrome from Rhodesia. Financial sources said the reasons is that American importers are continuing to buy most of Rhodesia's annual £2,000,000 ($6,000,000) chrome output.

Now, the sources said, Britain hopes the U.S. administration will persuade American importers that to continue to buy Rhodesian chrome will be a breach of international law.

This persuasion may present some difficulties.

Chrome already is becoming scarce in world markets. At the same time a growing body of U.S. congressional opinion is critical of the fact that British ships still are trading into North Vietnamese ports.

CUTS GAS RATION

In Salisbury, meanwhile, the Rhodesian government announced a 20-per-cent cut in the gasoline ration and boosted the price by a cent a gallon.

B. H. Mussett, minister of commerce and industry, said many Rhodesians told him the ration of between one and five gallons a week—depending on the size of the car, was too generous.

The price increase was granted to retailers to cover the cost of operating the rationing program. Premium gasoline has been selling at four shillings (60 cents) a gallon.

The Rhodesian government also placed a manpower control order on the Iron and Steel Corp., a move that prevents resignation or dismissal of employees without special permission. A similar order was imposed last month on the Rhodesian oil industry.

NEW TALKS UNDER WAY ON KASHMIR

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Pakistani Army Chief-of-Staff Gen. Musa Khan arrived here today for talks with Indian military officials on the Kashmir dispute. It was the first international conference of Prime Minister Mrs. Indira Gandhi's new government.

Red Summit Soviet Plan

LONDON (UPI) — Russia is proposing a summit meeting of party and government officials of Communist countries to discuss Viet Nam, diplomatic reports said today.

The reports said the Kremlin would use the meeting to reaffirm Communist support for the anti-U.S. effort in Viet Nam and to line up backers for its side in the Sino-Soviet feud.

Impaired Driver Gets 21 Days

Fred Washington McCowan, 1980 Bouchier, was jailed 21 days when he pleaded guilty in central court Thursday to impaired driving.

He had a previous conviction.

Police said they found him slumped over the driver's seat of his vehicle parked five feet from the curb on Dallas Road Dec. 24.

The car's motor was running and the accused had passed out, court was told.

Lawyer Jack Gatehouse explained McCowan had become involved in a Christmas party.

"The festive season cannot be advanced as an excuse," said Magistrate William Ostler.

Sar Singh, Port Alberni, was remanded to Jan. 28 for sentence when convicted of impaired driving on Douglas St. Jan. 9.

Police said they found an open bottle of whisky beside him after stopping his vehicle which weaved out of its lane.

Singh testified he had only two drinks three hours prior to his arrest.

Keep Death Penalty Say Police Chiefs

OTTAWA (CP) — The executive committee of the Canadian Association of police chiefs told Justice Minister Cardin and Solicitor - General Pennell Thursday the association is opposed to abolition of the death penalty.

The 12-member committee talked to the two ministers after concluding a two-day meeting here. Members of the committee include RCMP Commissioner George McClelland; Eric Silk, head of the Ontario Provincial Police, and Adrien Robert, the head of Quebec Provincial Police.

Chief James Mackey of Toronto, president of the association, said the executive stand on the death penalty was unanimous. All members of the association approved that stand at a general meeting in Niagara Falls in September.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Thursday he feels the question of capital punishment should be dealt with at once.

Opening the debate on the speech from the throne, he told the Commons he joined with Prime Minister Pearson in approving a free vote on the subject.

A Commendable Start

MR. PEARSON'S ANNOUNCEMENT that the federal government will increase its per capita grants to universities from $2 to $5 in the 1966-67 academic year will be received with enthusiasm by colleges and universities across the country. So substantial an increase will help to solve some of the urgent problems of individual institutions, although the pressure of growth on most of the universities will still leave large deficiencies in financing them.

The increase, as Mr. Pearson describes it, will apply only for the one year, as an interim form of assistance, and a more permanent arrangement will follow a federal-provincial conference on education to be held within the next few months. But it is hardly likely that any permanent program will offer less than the proposed grant.

The plan follows the principle of the recommendations in the recent report of the Economic Council of Canada, which urged a "great enlargement of resources for education". It is also closely in line with the Bladen Report on financing education, which called for a per capita grant of $5 to be followed by $1 annual increases.

The full effect of the federal grants, which will total $100 millions and be divided among the provinces according to size of population, will not be felt, of course, if the provincial governments take advantage of them by decreasing their own contributions or deferring increases which might have been in prospect.

The actual sum to be received by any one university will depend in part on the size of its student enrollment and no doubt also on the types of study involved — whether undergraduate, post-graduate, and so forth. In the case of the University of Victoria the grant should be large enough to ensure that there will be no further increase in fees next year. But there will still be a heavy responsibility on the province to provide sufficient operating funds to carry on the university's programs in an adequate manner.

At the moment it is a matter of balancing off one course against another, one department against the next, cutting down here in order to maintain an adequate standard there. More than the spirit of the Bladen Report must be present: the vast funds it recommends must also be provided if Canada is to attain the level of education which is now generally conceded to be desirable but lacking.

And operating funds do not, of course, help with the heavy capital expenditures which must be made. The University of Victoria, for instance, like most such institutions across Canada, is hard pressed for accommodation. The two classroom buildings now under construction and scheduled for opening next fall will be filled immediately, and there is no provision in sight for the administration building and biological sciences building which already are needed.

But the federal government's move is a demonstration of a new recognition of the need for increased provision for education. If it sets the pace for a knowledgeable and progressive approach at the proposed federal-provincial meeting the problem may be well on the way to solution. But if the conference becomes a debating ground where one governmental level attempts to escape its responsibilities by shifting them to another, then the country will face the danger, we can even say disaster, of inadequate education and training in an era when learning is the criterion of national survival.

The Missing Giant

BRITAIN'S MINISTER OF state for foreign affairs, Lord Chalfont, has publicly called for a radical reappraisal of Western policies to deal with the emergence of China as a nuclear power and an end to what he described as the "conspiracy of silence" about China.

Lord Chalfont's statement was timely for it was made on the eve of resumption of the Geneva disarmament conference which, it seems obvious, is somewhat farcical if it does not take China into account.

The British minister agrees with American Secretary of Defence Robert McNamara in assessing China as the main world problem of the next decade. But he parts company with the American when he says that the vital thing is to accept the realities of Chinese power and to bring the Peking government into international negotiations.

Of course there are all sorts of objections to this, most of them based on varying interpretations of Chinese intentions in international affairs. But, while these might be matters for debate it is certain, as Lord Chalfont said, that China does have the capability to upset completely the strategic balance of the world within the next ten years.

Western diplomacy today seems to be designed, in part at least, to foster a detente with Russia. This is all to the good but it cannot be an end in itself if the Western intention is simply to engage Russia as an ally against China. To do this would be to replace one cold war with another, and probably more dangerous, one.

The majority of Western governments — including Canada's — have been partners in the conspiracy of silence concerning China for some 15 years, primarily because to do otherwise would offend the United States. The subject is aired once a year at the United Nations when a vote is held to determine China's entry to that organization. Each time so far the United States has succeeded in getting a verdict against Peking and debate is dropped for another year, thus driving China always farther into the limbo of international diplomacy.

Perhaps Lord Chalfont's statement, probably the boldest ever made on the subject by a British minister, will help to bring wider recognition of the fact that keeping China outside the pale is likely to encourage Peking's revolutionary provocations in Asia and elsewhere.

A Hearing for the Municipalities

GREATER VICTORIA'S INTER-municipal committee has proposed the establishment of a government committee to inquire into problems of municipal finance. The government has not answered yet.

The municipalities, as they have before, seek to impress upon their parent, the provincial government, the need to provide more financial help.

The municipal pleaders might carry weight if a provincial election were in the offing and more generous treatment of municipalities had vote appeal for those somewhat disillusioned home-owners who now realize that the return of part of their own money through Mr. Bennett's special grant often fails to meet the increase in municipal taxes.

But even if the results of municipal representations are conjectural at best, there is a certain merit in the proposal for a government committee hearing — particularly one open to the press or public.

The municipalities are seeking a broader base than is now available to them for financing essential services. That means—in an over-simplification of the situation—a request for relief from increasingly burdensome taxation on real estate. The contention is that a larger share if not all of the costs of such services as schools and welfare should be placed on an income tax basis, rather than on property taxes equated with the swollen valuation of real estate.

From the proposed committee hearings could come a clearer definition of responsibilities and an elimination of fuzziness in provincial-municipal concepts; perhaps the beginnings of a formula to underwrite hospital expansion and those joint services among municipalities which are so widely approved in principle.

—Bierman, The Victoria Daily Times.

Unnecessary "Stop"

For years we motorists fought to get the "Stop" sign on Richardson St. at Moss removed, and about a year ago were successful. Now the sign is back again and no one seems to be able to give a satisfactory reason as to why it has been replaced. This means we now have a four-way stop at this corner which is completely unnecessary, and only causes great confusion when, as rarely happens, there is any appreciable traffic on Moss Street. We trust this will be checked as soon as possible and the "Stop" removed. It serves no purpose and is the cause of unnecessary delay to motorists using Richardson Street.—Motorist.

Open Line

I think it is time there were rules about the debates that take place on the air on the "so-called" open lines.

In the first place, whose opinion is important, the moderator's or the people who call in? I think that both sides should be given an equal hearing. If by chance a caller differs, they are shouted down, accused of lack of intelligence and, after they have been cut off, the abuse is still heaped on their heads, not only by the moderator but by subsequent callers.

I think the first rule should be that a caller identify himself and that unless he becomes abusive or slanderous he should be allowed to have his say.

Finally, I think the moderator should be sufficiently well-informed on current affairs to be able to talk intelligently on any subject.—A. D. Ahlers, 3945 Graham.

Age of New-Speak

The Age of New-Speak, predicted by George Orwell for 1984, seems already to be upon us.

In a recent issue you carried a report of "non-toxic" gas and smoke used by Australian troops in Viet Nam, as killing one of them and sending six others to hospital (and judging by the photographs one sees, one imagines they were wearing gas-masks). Just how non-toxic can you get?

One also hears a great deal about Mr. Lyndon Johnson's willingness to negotiate anywhere with anyone (except the real opponent, the Viet Cong) using the 1954 Geneva Agreements as a basis. But he will never surrender South Viet Nam to the Communists! Since the whole point of the Geneva Agreements was the holding of free elections in 1956 which the Americans themselves admitted would certainly lead to the reunification of Viet Nam under a Communist regime (this is why they have intervened in the country), it is obvious that Mr. Johnson has no intention of negotiating about the one and only reason for the present war. The "peace campaign" is simply a screen of words meant to conceal a firm determination to continue as before and, probably, to escalate.

Dr. Goebbels believed in the Big Lie, repeated ad nauseum. Mr. Johnson has greatly improved Dr. Goebbels' technique. He uses the Big Half-Truth, repeated ad nauseum—a much better way to confuse the ignorant and cowardly, and much more difficult to combat.—Mrs. W. Burchill, 1350 Dallas.

FROM OTTAWA

By MAURICE WESTERN

. . . And Parliament Disposes

A SPEECH from the throne is patterned from literary generalities and legislative specifics. It is a safe rule, generally, to ignore the former and to concentrate on the latter. But in the circumstances of this year, Tuesday's speech may be an exception. There are two passages in the text which caught immediate attention. The first concerns federalism and the second the economy. "While respecting fully the responsibilities of the provinces, the government," we learn, "is equally resolved to maintain the constitutional responsibilities of the federal authority." So, of course, any federal government should be.

Western

Evidently, however, the present ministry finds it particularly urgent at this time to say so. It is doubtless concerned, not only to allay certain doubts in the country but perhaps also to caution some in high positions in the provinces. For this is to be a year of extremely difficult negotiations, the necessary prelude to a new tax-sharing agreement which must be approved by Parliament.

Patriation

In this general field of the sharing of powers and resources, the speech also observes briefly that it remains the "objective" of ministers to secure patriation of the Canadian constitution. But it does not say, as it did last April, that Parliament will be called upon to approve an address to the Queen. The reason, manifestly, is that the Fulton-Favreau formula of amendment, always controversial in the English-speaking provinces, has now ceased to be acceptable to the Lesage government in Quebec.

The second warning in the speech concerns inflation. "It is important that the benefits (prosperity and growth) can bring to all Canadians should not be jeopardized by excessive costs and prices which would endanger the stability of our economy." This was not a matter of concern in the carefree spring of 1965 but times have changed and so have ministers of finance.

Familiar

As the last Parliament was interrupted in its work by the general election, it is not surprising that the program for the present session should have a somewhat familiar appearance. Many matters of importance, some of them highly controversial, must still be dealt with: the banking legislation, the Railway Act, the measure for recapitalization of the CNR, the Canada Development Corporation, the Canada - United States automotive pact, the Canadian Assistance Act. Legislation on health services is also promised but in qualified language. It will come "when discussions with the provinces have been sufficiently advanced" —which does not necessarily mean the first session of the 27th Parliament.

The railway bill, we learn, "has been modified in the light of consideration in the last Parliament and public discussion in the intervening period." There were numerous objections to the original bill, some of them sound. Some recent utterances, however, have created an impression that the prospective changes may go beyond re-drafting to meet these legitimate criticisms. It would be unfortunate if the government should lose its enthusiasm for the MacPherson report after paying out subsidies related to the report for five years.

There are several passages in the speech which appear to reflect the thinking of the Economic Council of Canada. Others, perhaps less reassuring, possibly reflect election commitments. But the two are not necessarily incompatible. Certainly the government's decision to move ahead with its plans for educational assistance appears to be in harmony with the general observations of the council's second report.

Agriculture

One notes also a much greater emphasis than formerly upon agriculture. Some of the measures will be chiefly of interest to the depressed farm areas of Eastern Canada but the institution of cash advances for grain unthreshed because of unfavorable harvesting conditions is of obvious importance to Western agriculture.

The speech asks Parliament to approve the sweeping reorganization of government departments recently announced by the prime minister. It is the intention to wrap up in a single measure changes affecting many ministers. Undoubtedly, it is the government's hope that such a procedure will save the time of the house. It may, however, be controversial and the bill, from the nature of its subject matter, could develop into a very far-ranging debate.

Omissions

There are some interesting omissions from the speech. It says nothing about broadcasting, which in the circumstances is perhaps not surprising. But neither does it say anything about amendments to the Immigration Act or about the measure establishing an Indian claims commission. The latter was approved in principle and sent to a committee by the last Parliament; it is difficult to believe that there can be any change of intention here.

But experience suggests that a throne speech cannot be taken too literally. Specifics sometimes end as unfulfilled hopes while other matters, not even mentioned at the opening, loom large in the subsequent discussions of Parliament. The government proposes, Parliament disposes and predictions are hazardous, especially when no party enjoys a formal majority in the House of Commons.

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

McNamara—Critics and Results

ALTHOUGH due notice was given some time ago, the huge supplemental appropriation for the Vietnamese war will perhaps intensify the attack on Secretary of Defence Robert McNamara. As so often, he will then be carrying the can for someone else—in this case, the President. A different sort of man would have insisted that the President add a clear reminder of the coming supplemental defence request to his claim that the regular budget would be balanced within 1.8 billion dollars. But McNamara is what he is—the ablest public servant to come to Washington this half century, but also the public servant least able to safeguard or even explain himself.

Alsop

The attack on him, at present centring in the house armed services committee, is sordid in its motives, squalid in its leadership and seamy in its methods. For example, he has lately been denounced for cutting back the army's helicopter program in previous years, thereby causing a temporary shortage in Viet Nam.

Helicopter Strength

Modest cuts were indeed made, and are now to be regretted. But when McNamara took office, the U.S. Army had only a few more than 5,000 helicopters, almost all of them obsolete or obsolescent. McNamara personally ordered the study which led to a recommendation of far more air mobility for ground force units. And under the McNamara program, the army had reached a strength of close to 8,500 helicopters, all of them of the best and latest models, before U.S. forces were committed on a large scale in Viet Nam.

In any defence program, comprising many thousands of detailed decisions, there are always bound to be a few decisions that one would later like to revise in the light of subsequent events. Perhaps there are such decisions in the long list of McNamara's really staggering cuts in this year's defence spending, which in turn permitted the President to ask for a new defence budget of only 58.3 billion dollars.

As always happens in wartime, the joint chiefs were in a mood for profusion this year, and if all their initial requests had been approved, the 1967 defence budget would have passed 70 billion dollars! But McNamara did not do his budget-cutting in the old, wrong way, by imposing a ceiling. He did it, rather, by asking again and again one very simple question:

Viet Nam Focus

"Does it contribute directly to success in Viet Nam, and if not, why is it really needed now, when our economy is in grave danger of over-heating?"

All sorts of projects, large and small —deployment of the Nike-X anti-missile missile and improvements in bachelor officers' quarters, the Air Force's F-12 figher and escort vessels for the navy and plans to beautify army posts—were ruthlessly deferred because they failed to meet the two tests proposed in McNamara's question to the joint chiefs. The chiefs, one may surmise, were not at all happy about this.

Indeed, special advocates of this deferred project or that can now be expected to join the sniping at the secretary of defence. But before he closed the budget, be it noted, McNamara had the express agreement of all the joint chiefs, and of the service secretaries as well, that the finally approved program contained every dollar for every forseeable need of the Vietnamese war.

This kind of single-mindedness and cool logic is of course a main cause for the attack on McNamara. Most people, notably on congressional committees, prefer nice fuzzy governmental decisions, made with more deference to antique vested interests than to the interests of the taxpayer. Yet no rational man can doubt that the standard McNamara set for this year's budget was one hundred per cent correct.

Without Parallel

Furthermore, the overall results of McNamara's single-mindedness and cool logic are genuinely without parallel in the history of American administration. Consider the army, once again. When McNamara took office, it had 11 divisions and two brigades, with only one or two crack outfits in hard training, and with all outfits exclusively equipped with Korean and World War II leftovers.

Prior to large-scale U.S. troop commitment in Viet Nam, McNamara had virtually created a new U.S. army, with 16 divisions and 10 independent brigades, all in the hardest training, and completely re-equipped from underclothes to tanks, not to mention helicopters. The manpower of the army—always speaking pre-Viet Nam — had gone up about an eighth. Its combat strength, however, had been far more than doubled.

McNamara has in fact accomplished what amounts to a defence miracle—a great increase in fighting power, combined with a sharp decrease in the unit cost of defence. Of this accomplishment, moreover, Viet Nam has been the acid test.

Bull Run to Cold Harbor has been the traditional American pattern. Until Viet Nam, we have never in history varied from this pattern of a shockingly bad army at the outset and a great army at the end of the war. In Korea, new divisions going into combat for the first time normally lost at least one full regiment.

But in Viet Nam, completely green troops have been committed, under more difficult conditions than American troops have ever faced; and they have fought like battle-seasoned veterans, with glorious courage and brilliant success against heavy odds. If this kind of success does not call forth our gratitude, what will?

Looking Back

From The Times of January 21, 1906:

Fifty Years Hence: In warfare our successors will fight battles under improved conditions. Tremendous death-dealing machines will be invented; but as it would be folly sending men to face such destruction, other engines will be pitted in opposition. A few officers then can conduct a whole campaign and can always wear their field-day uniforms.

Men will store up the sun's rays and on a dark winter's day it will be the rule to hear even a judge say to a crony, "here, my learned friend, let's go in and have a bottle of sunshine."

Cultural Challenge

When the first seed-bearing plants began to release their seeds to the wind's distribution, no mind could have foretold, if mind had been there to speculate, that, rooting and dying on the infertile wastes, their own decay would build up a bed of humus in which unimagined successors would evolve and flourish. We are guardians of a social humus more precious and more vulnerable than theirs—guardians not merely of values but of the soil in which values grow. That seedbed is today menaced by a vastly-increased erosion. Conservators and innovators alike, our paramount duty to the future is to leave it a little deeper for our passage.

Skipping Anthems

—Toronto Globe and Mail

The Winnipeg Symphony Orchestra has made an interesting contribution to Canadian unity by deciding to play neither God Save the Queen nor O Canada before its concerts. According to conductor Victor Feldbrill, the trend is away from anthems at concerts unless there is a national disaster or royalty is present. At any rate, Mr. Feldbrill has spared himself the confusion in which we all must wallow until Parliament addresses itself to this problem. Here, we have the makings of a delightfully Canadian solution to a typically Canadian problem. Perhaps by the time we finally decide on our anthem, we will have all stopped singing it.

The 'School-State' Of Dr. Kurt Hahn

SCALA INTERNATIONAL
Frankfurt-am-Main

The problem of educating the young is as old as the human race, and it has occupied the finest minds. The extent to which this problem was solved has always influenced the verdict on the cultural stature of a people or an age. The thoughts and ideas on education are as manifold as the society in which we live.

One of the outstanding educationalists of our age is Dr. Kurt Hahn, whose ideas on training young people have been put into effect in several countries.

The best known of his schools is Salem on Lake Constance, which has been in existence for some 40 years. It was founded shortly after the end of the Second World War, on April 21, 1920, by Prince Max of Baden, the last chancellor of Imperial Germany.

But the school's spiritual father, creator and, for many years, headmaster was Dr. Kurt Hahn, who is now 80 years old. The school began with two dozen pupils. Today, there are more than 500, some of whom are not at Salem itself but at three other schools which are closely connected with Salem.

Spread Far

The educational ideas which Salem represents have long since spread beyond the country of their origin. Kurt Hahn, who moved to Britain in 1933 and still spends several months of every year there since his return to Germany after the war, founded Gordonstoun in the North of Scotland, a school which today also has more than 500 pupils and which has since been joined by a number of further boarding schools in various countries.

The basic idea of pupil co-administration, which was developed to full maturity by Dr. Hahn, means that responsibility for the "school state" is borne to a considerable extent by the pupils themselves. It means that the school provides an opportunity for dedication to a common cause and is a field for the practicing of the civil virtues of responsibility, self-discipline and consideration for one's fellows.

Under proper guidance, all this develops best through self-education, the importance of which is known to every father and mother from their own experience.

To achieve this, Salem has set up a whole hierarchy. Even the ten-year-old "junior" has his duties in the house, the kitchen, the garden and on the playing fields. He is not allowed to wear the grey school uniform until his seniors are satisfied with him. If he continues to make good, he may join those who are allowed to wear the school's violet colors on their sleeves.

Unlike other schools, punishments are not handed out at Salem on the basis of an authoritarian system of discipline. Salem trains its pupils to develop self-discipline. Pupils are not expected to get "caught." The normal thing is for them to confess their misdeeds.

One of Salem's most proved methods of building character is sport. Many problems which threaten the futures of young people, at least in all industrialised countries, do not exist at Salem. The lack of exercise, which leads to circulatory disturbances, muscular atrophy, as well as vegetative and psychic disturbances is unknown there.

Every morning begins with a run; there is also an hour of physical exercise every morning and games every second afternoon. Team games are highly regarded because they not only encourage strength and toughness, endurance and physical resistance, the power of observation and reaction speed, but also the idea of fairness.

DR. KURT HAHN

Successful cheating in sport is not regarded as a sign of prowess at Salem any more than cheating in school work or examinations.

His friendship with British Air Marshal Sir Lawrence Darvall led Hahn to draw up a plan for a number of genuinely international schools. These schools would be set up in a number of countries and would accept selected boys of all nations without regard to their origin or their parents' financial situation and educate them to a higher school certificate level to be recognized in all countries concerned. Communal living on the Salem pattern would enable these boys to grow up into men free of all the racial, religious and cultural prejudices which still poison the human race today.

The first of these schools, the "Atlantic College," was founded in the autumn of 1960 at St. Donat's Castle on the coast of South Wales. It began with 55 pupils from twelve countries, who mostly receive public scholarships. The College is equipped to take 450 pupils.

Revolution In Teaching Of English

By PETER PRESTON
The Manchester Guardian

LONDON—The beginnings of a total revolution in teaching English language and literature emerged last week from a new working paper of the School's Council of Britain.

For the first time in Britain, an official committee has started to look at the whole gamut of English teaching, relating it unequivocally to social justice and the coming of comprehensive schooling, and treating English as the core of schooling, not just another subject.

Demolition First

First, however, there has to be demolition. The working paper tears down more than it sets up. It begins with profound dissatisfaction: universities complaining about illiterate scientists, teachers chafing against antique curricula, children who are only semi-literate leaving school with an abiding grudge against the staff.

Part of the blame for this malaise, the council says, concepts — gramatical exercises which do not help a child to speak or write fluently, stilted essays on the "Adventures of a Penny," mechanical work which stultifies the imagination. Part of the blame belongs elsewhere.

"From experience in a variety of schools it seems to us that too many teachers who lack conviction, depth of interest, or basic qualifications (or all three) are pressed into taking English. They rely heavily on English coursebooks, and their pupils, instead of operating on the open road, go through the motions shut up inside the garage."

This dead hand, the report maintains, over-emphasizes correctness before fluency is attained. "Such an approach tends to produce over-teaching and underlearning; it relies excessively on tests and examinations to provide an incentive which the work itself lacks."

Creative Tack

In direct contrast, the council argues almost exclusively for a creative tack. "Children cannot grow up adequately if they are inarticulate; their inner life is in sound condition only if it finds outlet through the two basic forms of self-expression—physical activity and speech."

Communication, mastery of words, is the fundamental essential which divides children from an early age, depending on their home environment. The council's suggested path to communication lies through easy, frequent conversations with their teachers, improvised drama, personal writing about personal experience, experiments with poetry.

The over-riding principle is that children write best when they have something they want and need to communicate. Impersonal, descriptive, or explanatory writing can come only at a late stage.

B.C.'s MEDICARE A VITAL ISSUE

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

The legislative session opens next week and, as usual, it's hard to predict what major legislative changes the government will bring in.

Mika

But there are clues that point to three areas where there should be some mighty big bills and all of them, not too strangely, will provide links between this week's Speech from the Throne in Ottawa and the one Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will read Thursday.

The three areas are: medicare, higher education and automation. Last year, when the legislature was debating the legislation which founded the B.C. Medical Plan, Premier Bennett met New Democratic Party criticism that it was "tin cup medicare" with the assertion that it was a "first step" towards a comprehensive medicare program for all British Columbians.

It is within the realm of possibility, for three reasons, that he will take the second and final step towards full medicare at this session.

The first of these reasons is that, assuming an election this year, it would be a natural issue for seeking (and ensuring) a new mandate for the government, once again, as in the B.C. Electric take-over, reducing the NDP to a frustrating "we promised it first" campaign slogan.

Won't Say

Second is the fact that whereas Mr. Bennett proudly said his first steps would help up to 445,000 persons — one-quarter of the province—it has in fact only given coverage to something under 200,000. But, most crucial of all, the government officials refuse to divulge how many of the 97,000 subscribers are drawing the 50 and 25 per cent subsidies.

It has been revealed that about 34 per cent of the subscribers are over 65 years and a good number of these can be assumed to qualify for the low-income members. But MSI last year revealed 15,000 of its individual plan subscribers were expected to transfer to BCMP for the subsidy. CU & C Health Services said it expected 6,000 to shift. Fraser Valley Medical Services Society added 800 to the list and an unknown number from other private plans would bring the total to about 23,000 tranfers, probably close to the total number of subsidies.

No Wonder

If this analysis is correct, there is little wonder that the government has been able to count the number of subscribers and dependents in its plan but can't, no matter how ofen it is asked, remember the number obtaining subsidies. Premier Bennett certainly wouldn't relish admitting to the legislature that his plan had failed his own stated objectives of increasing—as opposed to transferring those already covered—the number of needy persons who have medicare coverage.

The third reason for expecting a medicare plan is the federal throne speech references to coming medicare talks and major increases in grants for higher education, promptly followed by a private telegram which obviously delighted Mr. Bennett.

If considerable aid in this field is received by the provincial government then a relatively modest dip into the huge surplus would enable Mr. Bennett to give Health Minister Eric Martin — privately an ardent proponent of full government medicare—the green light for telling the Jan. 31 federal-provincial health ministers conference that B.C. will not wait any longer for federal help but will follow Saskatchewan's lead of full medicare now.

The appointment of Dr. Neil Perry as deputy education minister last fall, and certain statements by Education Minister Leslie Peterson and Mr. Bennett, all pressage some major legislation to increase the opportunities for higher education in this province. Federal moves in this field won't hinder that possibility and the Jan. 27 fee-withholding resolve of many varsity students will strengthen it.

Once again, the tone of Mr. Peterson's remarks recently, the government's satisfaction with its success in its oil industry settlement formula, the near-general strike and the determination of the opposition to score off the government all point towards a start towards ushering automation into the statute books—possibly with incentives for firms that co-operate with the government's call for on-the-job retraining programs.

Not all these points will necessarily appear in the throne speech because no less an authority than Premier Bennett, in criticizing the federal program this week, said: "to be fair, no government gives too much of its policy in the Speech from the Throne because policy takes money and money means the budget speech."

Caucus Starts

Be that as it may, all of these points definitely will be under searching discussion when the first of the three parties, the New Democratic Party, begins its caucus of MLAs to plan both strategy and tactics.

The Liberals will hold their caucus in Vancouver Tuesday and Wednesday and the Socred caucus will open here Wednesday afternoon.

By Thursday, when the formal opening ceremonies are held at 3 p.m., the annual pitched battle we call politics already will be in full swing and the first wounds will have been inflicted in those caucuses.

LESLIE PETERSON
. . . education priority

Everyone knows who the officers and privates are on both sides but, for those interested, here's a list of the all-important "sergeants" expected to run each camp this session:

The Socreds will have Herb Bruch as caucus chairman and Bert Price as whip. For the NDP it will be Randolph Harding and John Squire, respectively. And for the Liberals it will be Dr. Pat McGeer and Harry McKay.

Hedging Against Inflation Through Investing in Art

By WILLIAM DAVIS
The Manchester Guardian

LONDON—No one has a monopoly on inflation. My table, based on the latest International Monetary Fund's official statistics, showed what happened to the cost of living in 20 different countries in the 12 months to October, 1965.

The British pound buys less today than it did a year ago. The same goes for every one of the world's other 121 currencies: Just about the only place you get more for your money than you used to is on a weighing machine.

Pick's World Currency Report, which keeps a check on these sort of things, notes that the "conservation of assets in this 16th year of post-war inflation remained as difficult as ever."

29 Devaluated

West European and North American units did relatively well; elsewhere the year saw 29 full or partial devaluations.

Twenty-two currencies sank to historic lows—including those of Afghanistan, Albania, Algeria, Argentina, Burma, Cambodia, Ceylon, Chile, Colombia, Egypt, Ghana, Guinea, India, Indonesia, Israel, South Korea, Laos, Pakistan, Rhodesia, Syria, Uruguay, Viet Nam, and Yugoslavia.

The decline in money values, of course, is always held to be the greatest argument for holding ordinary shares. As a debating point, this has merit. But shares don't offer guaranteed protection. Most stock markets put up disappointing performances in 1965, though two notable exceptions were Wall Street and Milan.

Could one have done better in, say, antiques or paintings? According to Pick's Survey, the answer is "yes" — providing one chose carefully.

Actually, the world of art and culture yielded top place for the third year running to "the rather prosaic item" of well selected unimproved land, bordering on large cities (excluding Switzerland and the Iron Curtain countries). Price increases of 80 per cent to 100 per cent were shown from the United States to the Far East and from Scandinavian countries to Australia.

Manuscripts and rare books also did very well; The survey says prices were 80 to 90 per cent up on 1964. A 14th-century Icelandic manuscript, "Lives of the Apostles," was sold for around $100,000 at Sotheby's. Robert Herrick's "Political Commonplace Book" printed in 1612, fetched $95,000, and a 1484 edition of the "Canterbury Tales," printed by Caxton, drew $84,000. A William Harvey letter, commenting on blood circulation in 1637, was bought for $15,250 by Manhattan's H. P. Kraus at Sotheby's, and a letter, written by Professor I. P. Semmelweiss, mid-19th century, and dealing with child-bed fever, which had been bought earlier at $1,100, sold at $12,600 in a London auction.

COST OF LIVING INCREASES
(Oct. 1964—Oct. 1965)

United States	2 0/0
France	2 0/0
Canada	3 0/0
Norway	3 0/0
Switzerland	4 0/0
Germany	4 0/0
Australia	4 0/0

United Kingdom	5 0/0
Austria	5 0/0
Sweden	6 0/0
Italy	6 0/0
Japan	7 0/0
Denmark	8 0/0

Yugoslavia	50 0/0
Uruguay (July)	51 0/0
Brazil (Aug.)	56 0/0

Enamels, rarely enjoying great demand, scored price increases of 60 to 65 per cent — bringing fame to collectors A French enamel plaque, only 4 inches by 4 inches, fetched $100,000 (the price of five Rolls-Royce cars) in London. Says Pick's Report: "The rather small sizes of these objects, ideal for capital flight, contributed to their attraction."

Drawings had gains of 50 to 60 per cent over 1964 levels. About 160 drawings and sketches of Giovanni Tiepoli were sold for $240,000 at Christie's. Two small Rembrandt pen-and-ink sketches were bought for $21,000 and around $8,000 respectively.

Chippendale furniture rose by about 50 per cent: a writing desk by Thomas Chippendale, about 1700, fetched a record $123,000. Prices for French furniture did not show any real rise, but remained at 1964's high level.

Sculpture continued to rise in international auctions, and reached about 40 to 50 per cent higher prices than in 1964. An 11-inch gilt bronze figure of Christ, circa 1150, fetched more than $61,000 in London. Parke Bernet in New York sold a Henry Moore "seated nude" at $40,000 and a bronze head of Emperor Claudius, circa 100 B.C., found by a boy about five years ago in an English river, fetched $30,000.

Paintings remained in demand. Old masters were about 50 per cent above 1964 levels. French impressionists, still in collectors' favor, rose about 40 per cent in 1965 auctions. A "fantastic" $105,000 was paid for a 6¼ by 10-inch Seurat at Christie's. Again, suggests the survey, the small size served as an incentive for buying. Modern painters gained about 25 per cent in price, especially in Paris sales. American paintings are around 20 per cent higher than a year ago: there was "some better tone for the non-objective class of paintings which sold at historic lows in 1964."

Record Price

Silver, up about 40 per cent over last year, showed high quality sales. A French 1820 Vermeil service by Biennais and others made for the Russian Grand Duke Michael, reached a record price of around $154,000. A Louis XV soup tureen and stand by Francois German, 1758, made for the Russian Imperial Court, was bid up to $126,000. Snuffboxes did not do very well and sold generally at about 30 per cent lower levels than in 1964.

Diamonds had only a fair year. Small sizes such as 100 and 50 to the carat soared about 16 to 18 per cent in active trading. One and two-carat gems eased about 1 per cent and four-carat sizes declined 3.8 per cent in paper dollar value in Manhattan's dealings.

So much for the record, as presented in New York. Clearly there are some highly successful ways of protecting against inflation. Not many people, of course, can afford a Rembrandt or a Cezanne. But there is quite a wide range of modestly priced treasures to choose from. Providing one knows how to pick.

What Is So Frightening About a Broadcasting 'Czar?'

By DOUGLAS FISHER

Alphonse Ouimet of the CBC, the private broadcasters, and most editorial writers agree that it would be very wrong to have enacted the Fowler recommendation of a Canadian broadcasting authority "with an all-purpose, powerful czar."

Fisher

As one newspaper put it: "It would lead to a dangerous concentration of responsibility in the hands of one civil servant." The CBC said: "Surely it is the full board which should have this tremendous responsibility. The corporation finds the delegation of such power to one man to be unacceptable in either principle or practice. It would constitute an unprecedented departure from the traditional Canadian approach to allocation of discretionary power."

* * *

This kind of criticism seems to dismiss without any consideration the certainty that such a one-man direction would be created by Parliament and answerable in some way to it. The CBC president and the others seem to have forgotten James Coyne, former head of the Bank of Canada. In the Coyne crisis, it seemed to prove out that Mr. Coyne had the very kind of authority concentrated in his office that the recommended authority for broadcasting would have

Before you say: and look what happened to Mr. Coyne, remember that he had his day in court and was over-ridden in the end by the government and Parliament. He could not continue directing and advocating policies that went contrary to the general sense of the government and thus the country.

If one looks, even cursorily, at the recent operations of two other boards with discretionary powers, the Board of Broadcast Governors and the Board of Transport Commissioners, one could leap to the conclusion that it has been the very presence of a group responsibility, rather than a one-man leadership, that has given both the impression and the reality of ineffective, inconsistent leadership. Surely democracy comes finally to the point of giving authority to one man, a president or prime minister.

It is not being facetious to point out that Mr. Johnson in the U.S., Mr. Pearson in Canada, Donald Gordon with the CNR, even Mr. Ouimet of the CBC, symbolize their jurisdictions and represent the ultimate responsibility to their constituents or boards. What's so unprecedented about this? What so unusual in principle? Aren't there both utility and common sense in having one man with the final responsibility, one man with the overall authority in a field.

If I see any fault in the one-man authority it is not any anticipation of a reign of terror or of stupidity but simply the difficulty in finding the man of courage and ability to take it on. On the other hand the selection of a board or committee to do the job or to make the division of the duties between two boards isn't any cinch. There are certain to be overlaps and conflicts between the authorities.

And in the face of a timid or inadequate performance, we cannot nail one man but a group or two groups. Better a single person than an anonymity.

Over the years in Ontario, I have heard a lot of complaints about Judge Robb, the man responsible for licensing of outlets for alcoholic beverages. He has had immense discretionary powers, both in awarding licences, revoking licences, and in stipulating necessary improvements if they are to be retained and renewed. But the advantage of this power in one man, proved by Judge Robb himself over the years, was that applicants and licensees knew who they were dealing with. They got a measure of the man, and the general public got a view and a reiteration on many occasions of his policies and methods.

When changes in liquor control policy of a substantial kind became necessary or seemed politically right or ripe, the government of Ontario announced new intentions, produced new regulations and laws, and Judge Robb interpreted them.

The uproar over the broadcasting czar cannot help but make one suspicious that the CBC and the private broadcasters want an authority that really isn't an authority but a pressurable, compromising group which embraces no singleness of purpose and ideal in national broadcasting and so will let them ease along in a pragmatic, day-to-day way, putting off indefinitely the key questions about their performance. It happens that I haven't felt their performance was so poor that the one-man, full-authority supervision in their field should so frighten them.

MAC-POWELL LOGGING

New Operation To Employ 200

A new logging operation, employing about 200 men, will be brought into production almost immediately by MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. on Vancouver Island.

Announcement of the new Cameron division, located in the Cameron River area, southeast of Port Alberni, was made by H. R. Chisholm, general manager of the company's logging group.

NEW LOADERS

Equipped with fresh-from-the-factory log loaders, huge trucks and steel yarding spars, it will be MacPowell's 19th logging operation. Its log production will supply expanded production facilities at the company's Alberni pulp and paper division and Alberni plywood division.

Logging will be carried out in rugged terrain in the Museum Creek and Corrigan Creek areas.

Some of the timber is within the E&N land grant and was purchased by the company last year, said Mr. Chisholm. The stands also include timber owned previously by the company.

NEW ROAD

In preparation for start of logging operations, 10 miles of road have been constructed and a log dump is nearing completion on the Alberni Canal near the mouth of China Creek.

An additional 28 miles of logging road will be built by the company this year to provide access.

All employees in the division will reside in the Alberni area and will be able to commute between home and the logging operations.

Of MacPowell's 18 other logging operations, 10 are located on Vancouver Island

NEW TACK IN TAX PROTEST

VANCOUVER (CP) — MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. has taken a new direction in its protest against a provincial tax levy on land purchased from the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway.

A portion of the Vancouver Island property, bought by MacPowell, in 1964, has been assessed at $35,000,000 and an $8,000,000 tax has been levied on this assessment.

The company now has asked Mr. Justice Victor Dryer in B.C. Supreme Court to declare invalid the taxation notice. Mr. Justice Dryer has reserved decision.

TOTAL TRACT

The companuy says it is not seeking to avoid taxation, but claims it is entitled to have the tax levy based on the total tract purchase.

Purchase price for the entire tract was about $35,000,000.

Mr. Justice Dryer was told the firm's protest against the assessment figure before a court of revision has been postponed pending the outcome of the Supreme Court hearing.

Provincial government legislation requires that any land sold by the railway for purposes other than railway use is subject to a 25 per cent tax on its value.

The land was originally granted by the Canadian government in B.C.'s early days to encourage building of the railway on the island.

MAC-POWELL OFFICIALS INVITED

PORT ALBERNI — Mayor Les Hammer Thursday called on MacPowell officials to attend a pollution control meeting Sunday.

He said without the officials' presence, the meeting, called by private citizens, would be pointless.

The meeting will try to decide on a course of action to force the giant company to reduce the amount of smoke and fly ash from its Port Alberni mill.

On Thursday, George McKnight, pollution fighter, said he will appeal tax assessment on behalf of citizens in badly affected areas.

Premier Asked To Open Museum

NORTH COWICHAN—Premier W. A. C. Bennett will be invited to open the Cowichan Valley Forest Museum June 4.

The opening date coincides with the 100th anniversary of the logging industry in B.C.

The first stage coach used between Duncan and Lake Cowichan will be in operation for the two-day opening celebrations.

'Never Had a Thought of Giving Up'

The Lady Logger Followed Her Man

MRS. GROSSKLEG

By DON DINGWALL

LAKE COWICHAN — Back in 1921, rough and tough old E. J. Palmer used to say he'd rather have 10 Bolsheviks in his logging camp than a woman.

He reckoned without Helen Grosskleg.

They went on a "speeder" pulled by two horses.

The company last year had a payroll of $200,000.

Mrs. Grosskleg has run the whole show since the death of her husband, Bill, in 1952.

★

She will be 68 next month but says "I'll keep going as long as I have my health."

When the company's going full blast it employs 35 to 40 men in the woods.

Currently her crews are logging two million feet of timber at Franklin River.

Mrs. Grosskleg modestly states "I'm no logger. I wouldn't know whether to make a landing here or somewhere else.

"I deal with the companies."

How well does she deal?

Well, Grosskleg & Trueman consistently makes money.

Mrs. Grosskleg says "I never had a thought of giving up when Bill died. It's our livelihood.

"We've never made any fortune but we made money."

About her dealings, Mrs. Grosskleg says

"We set a price and then dicker with the companies.

"The companies don't want the contractors to go broke.

"And they have to give 30 per cent logging to the small contractors or lose their tree farm licences from the government.

★

"A couple of times when we didn't make money they raised the price so we've no

Mrs. Grosskleg seldom goes into the woods now.

She said "If I had to go through some of the back roads I'd likely get lost."

She says she has never known resentment among the men toward her as a "lady logger."

But Mrs. Grosskleg admitted "Some of them took advantage of me with sob stories.

"I lost a few thousand dollars advancing money to some of them but I never garnisheed any man's wages. "Now I'm careful and have good crews."

She points out "Orders to the men don't come direct from me but from my foreman."

Early memories include living in a rail boxcar in the mountains behind Ladysmith.

She recalls "When we came out it was on a speeder without a motor.

"I had a nine-month-old baby in my arms and my husband's instructions were that if he yelled I was to roll off on to the mountainside."

Later she lived in a Lake Cowichan houseboat for five years

The houseboat used to move around tied to boomsticks.

One day she stepped "next door" to visit a neighbor.

The step back was half a mile — the houseboat had moved on.

★

The "big little company" had the first gas caterpillar tractor on Vancouver Island, if not in B.C.

It was brought from the U.S. with a man to train someone else to run it.

Mrs. Grosskleg is jealous of what bosses feed loggers.

She agrees with getting away from camp cookhouses — but only because they lose the company money.

She says "Cookhouse meals in camp were better than most families sit down to.

"An average breakfast was porridge, bacon and egg, hotcakes, toast, jam, and there was cake and pie on the table."

Mrs. Grosskleg also objects to the popular misconception of the logger as a man who stays in camp six months and then blows all his pay in two weeks in the big city.

She says: "Today, most loggers live at home and are just like any other working man.

"And he's no ordinary laborer. He has to understand machinery."

While Mrs. Grosskleg herself is no laborer or machine hand, no one who knows her will deny she's a logger — and a good one.

Trustees Try Again

It will have a second go at the department of education to get doorstep-to-doorstep transportatin for seven of its class of retarded children.

ISLAND DIGEST

Denture Choked Highway Victim

DUNCAN—Lawrence Richard Lawson, 24, was remanded in custody on a criminal negligence charge Thursday after announcing he would try to obtain legal aid.

Lawson, of Duncan, was unable to raise the $3,000 bail.

The preliminary hearing will continue Feb. 9 after Lawson has had a chance to contact the John Howard Society.

He is charged with causing the death of Donald Larry Olson, 20, of Duncan, Dec. 28, by criminally negligent driving.

Olson was walking on Cowichan Lake Road when hit.

DOCTOR TESTIFIES

Only medical evidence was admitted at Thursday's brief hearing.

Dr. Joseph Pawlowski testified Olson died from asphyxiation when his upper denture lodged in the back of his throat.

He said he saw Olson lying in the centre of the road near Butler's gravel pit.

He was already dead

Dr. Pawlowski said Olson may have been semi-conscious before asphyxiation due to a trauma of the head.

EXTERNAL FORCE

He said: "It would have needed external force to put the plate in that position."

Dr. Pawlowski said this was about 4:45 a.m

At 6 a.m. the same day he examined Lawson in a Duncan RCMP cell.

He said: "Lawson appeared quite excited and was walking back and forth but talked coherently.

BRUISES

"There were numerous bruises to his face and scalp.

Mrs. Rolande Rouen, RCMP laboratory, Vancouver, said a blood test showed Lawson had a .12 alcohol content at the time of his examination.

School On Saturday!

NANAIMO—School children in this district may be in for a dose of Saturday classes.

The suggestion was made this week by school board education chairman Joseph Shook for senior secondary students who missed five days at the beginning of the term due to snow.

"The elementary schools are not quite as important," Mr. Shook said. "But the senior students should have the opportunity to make up lost time."

Funeral Saturday For 'Ma Miller'

Funeral services will be held Satuday for Mrs. Mary Ann (Ma Miller) Smith, 90, who died in Victoria Wednesday.

For more than 25 years, "Ma Miller" was one of the area's best known innkeepers.

She was given the affectionate nickname because of her concern for people, says her grand-nephew, Earl Cairns of Victoria. Miller was the name of her first husband who died in a car accident on the Malahat.

Mrs. Smith rebuilt the Goldstream Inn, which is still known by many as "Ma Miller's," after a fire destroyed it in the late 1920s. She owned it until 1946. She also was a former owner of the Colwood Inn.

She is survived by her husband, Asa, at home; a niece, Mrs. Daisy Cairns of Victoria, and grand-nephews and grand-nieces.

Rev. T. G. Griffiths will officiate at the service at 4 p.m. at Sands Mortuary, followed by cremation.

Rolling Hills Trade Halted

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Stock Exchange today suspended trading in Rolling Hills mining stock, pending an assay report on its Pine Point, N.W.T., holdings.

Jack Vanluven, president of the exchange, said trading was suspended as of opening today. He gave no reason for the suspension.

Rolling Hills trading sparked a market rush Thursday, during which the stock rose to more than $3 from a Wednesday close of $2.65. But it tumbled to $2.15 on what company president Earl Glick called a press and radio "foul up." The stock traded 610,000 shares Thursday.

Mr. Glick said the reports gave the impression that the company believed it had no commercial mineralization. He said in fact no one to his knowledge had seen the drill core recently taken from the company's Pine Point site.

"As far as we are concerned no one has given an opinion except to say there is mineralization, but the grade of mineralization will not be determined until the assay," he said.

Patricia Silver Drill Work Slow

HAY RIVER, N.W.T. (CP)—Severe cold and water problems have slowed the drilling schedule of Patricia Silver Mines Ltd., Louis Cadesky, a company promoter and supervisor of drilling, said today in a telephone interview. The over-burden had not yet been penetrated.

He said there is nothing new to report after being told shares of Patricia Silver increased swiftly today on the Montreal Stock Exchange before dropping back.

The company has property on the southwest end of Pine Point holdings, 600 miles north of Edmonton. Pine Point has rich lead-zinc deposits.

Mr. Cadesky said the temperature was 50 degrees below zero this week when drilling resumed.

The stock opened up 15 cents at $1.74, then jumped rapidly to $2.90 before falling back. After an hour's trade it was selling at about $1.90.

The spokesman said the company moved a drill onto its holdings in the Pine Point area of the Northwest Territories earlier this week, but no news had been received from the exploration site.

Mines Feature Trading

Patricia Silver was in the spotlight at Vancouver and Montreal today while D'Eldona and Satellite spurted at Toronto in heavy speculative trading.

AT TORONTO, D'Eldona, which had been fluctuating most of the day, climbed 25 cents to 3.45 on more than 254,000 shares. Satellite showed a spurt about 307,000 shares.

Vandoo led speculative oils as it gained 2 to 16 cents on 254,000 shares, while Spooner fell 3 cents to 48 cents.

Gold issues were much stronger with McIntyre and Dome ahead ½ each at 100 and 41. Hollinger advanced ¼ to 27 and giant Yellowknife ⅛ to 15.

In the industrial list Bank of Montreal was off ¾ to 66¼ with Nova Scotia down ⅝ to 76¼ and Massey Ferguson ½ to 33¾.

AT VANCOUVER Bata, which closed Thursday at .86, was trading at .68. Kamloops was off .05 to .70.

A leader today was Patricia Silver, which went from $1.58 to as high as $2.90. The company announced that diamond drilling operations have started on claims in the Pine Point area.

AT MONTREAL a sharp climb by Patricia Silver mines in heavy turnover provided the main feature. It opened at $1.59 then jumped rapidly to $2.90 before falling back to $2.21.

Banks were down. Montreal and Royal each dropped ½ to 66½ and 80½, respectively. Imperial Commerce slipped ⅝ to 69½.

AT NEW YORK stocks were irregularly lower late this afternoon in active trading.

Volume for the day was estimated at 9,000,000 shares, compared with 8,680,000 Thursday.

Prices firmed somewhat after early losses. Trading eased in active, low-priced issues as the day wore on.

AT LONDON the market was quietly firm today. Gilt-edged often advanced and dollar stocks were mixed.

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices were firm in light trading today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Export interest was quiet.

There was some activity in oilseeds where advances in Chicago soybean prices were reflected. Hedging sales were light, reflecting severe prairie weather conditions.

Oats and barley were firm in thin trade. Rye edged higher, influenced by gains in Chicago rye futures.

AIR PACT SIGNED

Japanese Planning Russia Trade Hike

MOSCOW (CP) — Japan and Russia signed agreements today giving Japan commercial aviation rights between Tokyo and Moscow and providing for increases in trade to make the commerce between them total $2,250,000,000 for the next five years.

Foreign Minister Etsusaburo Shiina signed both agreements for Japan. Trade Minister Nikolai Patolichev signed the 1966-70 trade agreement for the Kremlin and air force Gen. Y. F. Loginov, the Soviet minister of civil aviation, put his signature on the aviation agreement.

The aviation agreement provides for joint Soviet-Japanese crews to fly across Siberia in Soviet TU-114 jet-prop airliners.

"Later the two sides will examine the question of using Japanese airliners on the service," Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported.

The route will cut the flight time from Tokyo to Western Europe by about half.

Patolichev predicted that the $2,250,000,000 total provided in the trade agreement "will be considerably exceeded."

In Tokyo, it was reported the pact involves flights across Siberia, which have proved a security stumbling block in the seven years of intermittent talks now crowned with success.

The pact opens up to Japan the world's first new air route since transpolar flights from Europe began in 1957.

The polar route from Tokyo via Anchorage, Alaska and Copenhagen to Moscow takes 21 hours and costs from $720 to $762. The new route will cut the fare by nearly $200.

When the service starts in June, Japan air lines will be allowed to fly its own aircraft only as far as the Siberian coast.

CHARTER RUSSIAN TUs

From there to Moscow, the Soviet line, Aeroflot, and Jal will jointly charter Russian TU-114 turbo - prop planes which will have Soviet cockpit crews and cabin crews from both airlines.

Under this arrangement, Tokyo-Moscow flights will take 11-12 hours.

When Jal can put its own DC-8 pure jets on the route—the Russians have said they will do their best to open the skies to Jal within two years — the Tokyo-Moscow time will be cut to 9½ hours.

When supersonic planes go into service around 1970, this will be reduced to five hours.

Plan to Rescue Shipyard Falters

LONDON (CP)—A plan to save a bankrupt Scottish shipyard by passing the hat among employees, businessmen and taxpayers has suffered a setback.

The Electrical Trades Union, one of seven unions with members employed at the Clydebank Fairfields Shipyard, said the law prevents the unions from meeting a government request to invest £50,000 ($150,000) each in Fairfields.

Japanese Protest New Fishing Limit

AUCKLAND (CP) — A new law bars foreign craft from fishing within 12 miles of the New Zealand coast, but Japan, the country most deeply affected, refuses to accept the restriction.

The 12-mile zone went into effect Jan. 1. Japan, the main foreign nation fishing in New Zealand water, recognizes only the old three-mile limit.

Negotiations between the two countries continued right to the eve of the new year but they were unable to reach agreement. Japan now is preparing a proposal that the case be presented jointly to the International Court of Justice. If New Zealand is not prepared to join in the presentation, Japan will probably go to the court alone.

Meanwhile, much interest has centred on whether the Japanese will temporarily observe the 12-mile limit and whether, if they defy the New Zealand legislation, New Zealand will be able to take effective steps to enforce it.

BIGGER FLEETS

Increasing numbers of Japanese fishing craft have operated in New Zealand waters for several years. New Zealand coastal waters are rich in fish of good quality and the Japanese have found it worthwhile to make the long voyage from Japan.

The New Zealand fishing industry has protested vigorously to the New Zealand government, but its representations have been handicapped by the fact that the local industry is small in scope and its plans for expansion modest.

However, the industry lately has shown great vitality. Various incentive schemes have been introduced.

Ontario Trucks Grind to Halt

TORONTO (CP)—A continuing shutdown of truck company depots in southern Ontario has paralysed most Ontario highway truck traffic and severely reduced interchange traffic from the Prairies, the east and the United States.

Fifty-five trucking companies began shutting down operations Thursday following wildcat walkouts by union members at two Toronto companies.

The companies, represented by the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau in dealings with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.), normally carry about 70 per cent of the province's tonnage in general road freight.

Contract negotiations between the groups broke down Wednesday.

Harold Booth, assistant general manager of Smith Transport Ltd., said in an interview "none of our union employees will be working past noon Friday south of North Bay, Sault Ste. Marie, and Sudbury."

He said depots of those areas were under a separate contract, and although they would continue working during any strike that might occur in the south, it would be under greatly reduced volume.

He said shutdowns in southern Ontario would affect goods coming into the province or leaving the West, East and United States.

WALKOUTS 'ISOLATED'

The union said today it is officially on strike against only one firm, Consolidated Truck Lines in Toronto. The union said the strategy is aimed at taking on single operators rather than forcing a showdown with the industry, and reiterated claims that Thursday's walkouts were "isolated incidents."

Reports from independent trucking companies in heavily-industrialized areas such as Brantford, Peterborough and Kingston indicated independents would continue working, but would have problems trying to handle increased traffic caused by the shutdowns.

The union and the companies are deadlocked over 17 issues.

Heading the list is a demand that damage suits against the union following wildcat strikes last October must be dropped by the companies. The Hamilton local is being sued for about $2,000,000 as a result of the wildcat actions.

The Teamsters seek a reduction in the work week from 48 to 40 hours with no reduction in pay. A conciliation board report recommended a work reduction to 43 hours and a wage increase of 56 cents an hour in a 3½-year contract.

Current wage rate for city drivers is $2 an hour. Highway truckers are paid on a mileage basis.

U.S. Places Conditions On Arms Buy

LONDON (UPI) — The U.S. has made the placing of $150 million worth of arms orders in Britain condition on British purchase of American F111 fighter-bombers, diplomatic reports claim.

Britain must decide shortly whether it will take up an option on the F111 planes which has been extended by Washington from the end of last year to the end of next month.

The issue will be discussed by British ministers in talks with American leaders in Washington next week.

Defensive Minister Denis Healy and Foreign Secretary Micheal Stewart are flying to Washington for talks scheduled Jan. 27-28.

The British decision hinges on the outcome of the defence policy review now in preparation by the government.

GRAIN HASSLE

Greene in Hot Seat

TIMES OTTAWA BUREAU

OTTAWA—Agriculture Minister Joe Greene and the Canadian Pacific Railway crashed head-on Thursday.

The point at issue surrounded charges made by Greene on the prairies that the CPR was not fulfilling its commitments and public obligations in speeding up grain movements to the west coast.

CPR president Robert Alton Emerson has implied politely that Greene was short on a few facts and a similar degree of understanding.

In the end, a main culprit appeared to be the grain terminal facilities at the port of Vancouver, where there is a problem of speedy unloading of boxcars carrying Canada's mammoth export wheat sales.

Greene hoped the CP would "pull its weight" and he had every confidence the railway would meet its commitment.

NOT EXPERT

"I am not a transportation expert, but it is my responsibility to speak up for the western farmers when they are being prejudiced against," he said.

"I will watch carefully month by month and, if the western farmers are not being protected and the wheat is not moving, I shall be heard again."

Restraining influences on Greene were his senior cabinet colleagus Sharp and Transport Minister J. W. Pickersgill, Canadian Wheat Board chairman William McNamara and R. M. Esdale, head of the trade department's grain division.

RAIL TRAFFIC

Emerson strengthened his hand with burly CPR vice president Ian Sinclair, who is in charge of operations and the traffic of the railway.

At the end of the meeting Greene flashed out, murmuring that he had to get down to the Commons.

In the Commons the Opposition had a bagful of questions waiting. Greene sat back silently as Sharp carried the ball.

CPR representatives had reiterated the assurance given at the beginning of the year that they would fulfill their commitments under the Canadian Wheat Board contracts, he said.

SHARP VIEWS

New Democrat leader Tommy Douglas wanted to know if Sharp agreed with Greene's charge that the railway was "shirking its duty."

"I will allow the minister of agriculture to speak for himself, of course," Sharp replied.

But, he added, the CPR had actually moved in all directions, not just Vancouver, more grain than two years ago.

"So I do not think it can be said that any part of this vast and complicated system has broken down or failed to discharge its commitments."

There were serious problems, which were recognized by all, and inquiries were now being made to promote improvements, Sharp said.

IN CORRIDORS

Meanwhile, back in the corridors, Greene was affably giving his own views.

The CPR was "not as kind, courteous and understanding" as the western farmers had been a week ago, he said.

"The CPR felt some of my charges were not justified," said Greene.

He acknowledged that at one point he had directed the whole blame for the grain problem at the railway, "but in all fairness the CPR shouldn't take all the blame."

Maybe a joint, co-operative venture between the CPR, the government, the Canadian National Railway and the wheat board would speed up a solution, he suggested.

Costs Less To Live On Coast

It cost fractionally more to live in metropolitan B.C. during November than in October, government consumer price indexes showed today.

The B.C. figure was five points below the national index for both November and December, the bureau of economics and statistics reports.

Vancouver figures, which are usually applicable to Victoria, are a month later in reports, but show 135.7 for November and 135.4 for October.

The index covers food, housing, clothing, transportation, health and personal care, recreation and reading, alcohol and tobacco. Base year (100) was 1949.

GREAT ONE

Ted Won't Change

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — This shapes up as one of the happiest weeks in Ted Williams' life and at the same time, one of the roughest.

He's faced with what can only be described as an awkward situation and there is no possible way out.

Williams was elected to baseball's Hall of Fame Thursday. There is little doubt the election pleased him tremendously and he will express that pleasure publicly.

Those who did the voting in this election all are members of a group known as the Baseball Writers' Association of America and that's where the rub comes in.

Williams doesn't like writers and never has. That's really an understatement although it should be explained he hedged from time to time and said he didn't mean "all" writers. Only 99 out of 100.

Since the 47-year-old former Boston Red Sox slugger always says exactly what he thinks, but always, there is little reason to feel he will reverse his field with his election.

* * *

There is no advance knowledge here of what that speech will be, but based upon some 20 years of personal experience with The Man, it may go something like this:

"I feel proud and grateful to be named to the Hall of Fame and to be considered in the same company as those who already are in it. I'd like to thank the writers for according me this honor . . . but what I've always said about them still goes!"

That would be the Ted Williams everyone knows and you can bet he won't change merely because he was voted baseball's greatest distinction by the very men whose opinions he often said didn't count.

Many, many articles and stories were written about The Man, yet not one of them ever offered the complete picture of him. It was really impossible to know all about him unless you met him and even then it wasn't always possible.

* * *

From a strictly personal viewpoint, I never had the slightest bit of trouble with Williams although I know many who did. I like him and always have because I have seen him go out of his way for a lot of people who never knew he did.

You could never ask for a more gracious host than him if you ever happened to visit his home. I know that for a fact because I did.

Far more important, Williams has a habit of doing things for others and then going to extraordinary lengths to see to it they never know who their benefactor was.

He was, is and probably will be, a soft touch for other ball players and underprivileged kids. He places little value on material things.

There was the time while he still was playing with Boston, for example, when a Red Sox pitcher, who never made it big, casually admired a wrist-watch owned by Williams.

"Here, you take it," he said, handing the watch to the pitcher. "I don't need it."

Gestures of that kind don't always make the newspapers and there were many other similar ones by Williams which never did, either.

Here's a guy who wouldn't wear a tie or wouldn't always hold still for a writer or a photographer, but would jump in a car and drive 200 miles alone at night to visit a stricken youngster in hospital. He wouldn't tell any writers or photographers about that, either.

I was among those privileged to vote in this election.

Guess which was the first name I wrote in?

DECISION FOR LANGLOIS

Coming out second best in this argument during National Hockey League game Thursday at Boston was Chicago's Ken Wharram, who heads for collision with ice after tangling with Al Langlois. Wharram's tumble was indicative of fate of Black Hawks. Lowly Bruins handed them 4-3 defeat and knocked Hawks out of lead into tie for second place. (AP Wirephoto.)

IN CROSBY OPEN

Hot Trio Set To Make Move

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif, (AP) Arnold Palmer, Tony Lema and Bill Casper made their bid for the second round lead in the $104,500 Bing Crosby golf tournament today playing the course which produced the low scores for the first 18 holes.

All three were in position to move in front as they toured the Monterey Peninsula Country Club course where Al Geiberger shot a 68 Thursday to grab the lead.

Four others had 69s but moved today to rugged Pebble Beach.

Palmer and Lema fashioned two-under-par 70s over the Cypress Point course, generally figured a couple of strokes tougher than Monterey Peninsula, and Casper had a 71. Palmer and Casper already are winners this year—Arnie at Los Angeles and Billy in his home town of San Diego.

In runner-up spots going into the second round were Californians Ken Tolns of San Jose, Paul Bondeson of Palm Springs and Lee Raymond of Redwood City.

KNUDSON WAS CLOSE

Walker Cup amateur Dale Morey of High Point, N.C., playing with a handicap of five strokes, helped his pro partner Gay Brewer by 14 as they carded a best ball 60 to lead the pro-amateur division. Brewer shot a 74.

Among five teams tied for second at 62 were Al Besselink and Don Drysdale, Los Angeles Dodger pitcher. Left - hander Sandy Koufax of the world baseball champions helped his partner, Ken Still, with eight strokes for a 63.

Jack Nicklaus, despite going over par on two of the final three holes, hit a 73 at Cypress Point in his first competitive outing of this year.

Bill Ogden had mixed emotions. He sank a hole-in-one on the 155-yard third hole at Monterey and seemed headed for a great score until the final three holes. On those the veteran pro from Tucson, Ariz., lost four strokes to par and finished at 72.

Pro-am scores included Dick Crawford, Bellevista, Ark., and Wilder H. Ripley, Calgary 35-29—64; John Zontek, Sacramento, Calif., and John G. Randall, Vancouver, 39-35 — 74; Stan Leonard, Vancouver, and Jack Sim, Vancouver, 33-34—67; and Jon Gustin, Birmingham, Ala., and Max Bell, Calgary, 34-39—73.

Giants' McCovey Charges Cruelty

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) —Willie McCovey, San Francisco Giant first baseman, has filed suit for divorce against his wife of 14 months, charging her with extreme mental cruelty.

The former Karen Billingsley of Modesto, a one-time Miss Bronze contest winner, and McCovey were married in Reno on Oct. 25, 1964.

They separated last month.

OUR LEAFS SCHEDULED FOR TELEVISION DATES

Victorians will be able to watch their Western Hockey League favorites on television for at least two out-of-town dates between now and the end of the regular campaign.

Victoria Maple Leafs will participate in two of five games to be telecast by KING-TV (Channel 5) of Seattle. The first of five Seattle home games to be telecast on a delayed basis, starting at 11:30 p.m., will be the Jan. 28 clash between the Totems and Maple Leafs.

Also scheduled to be telecast are Seattle games on Feb. 11 (Los Angeles Blades), March 11 (Portland Buckaroos), April 1 (Portland) and April 8 (Victoria).

'Forgotten' United Returns to Scene

It's been a long time between battles.

Consequently, Victoria United has all of its players walking around in good health, but it bothers manager Fred Magee to think that, possibly, some of the team's fans may have forgotten about the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

The Uniteds return to action Sunday, playing their first game since Dec. 19. The match with Columbus is scheduled for Vancouver's Callister Park.

The long layoff, reported Magee, has eliminated the team's injury list. At the same time, it has given United leaders a chance to assess strategy.

Magee said United will discard the 4-2-4 system they used in the first half and will revert to the customary 5-3-2 attack.

PLACED SIXTH

United won only two, tied three and lost four pre-Christmas games for a sixth-place standing.

The game is the only one scheduled Sunday but the PCSL will crowd three into Saturday. Firefighters, still unbeaten, and Burnaby have Callister Park; Thunderbirds will host Westminster Royals at UBC Stadium, and North Shore will meet St. Andrews at Kinsmen Stadium in North Vancouver.

With United away, Canadian Scottish and Victoria West will take over Athletic Park for a Saturday Victoria and District League first division match.

Three second division games on Sunday will round out the district's weekend program. Leading Esquimalt plays Colony Inn at Bullen Park, Sidney runs up against Vic West at Beacon Hill, and University Vikings are due to play Gorge on the Gordon Head campus.

All games start at 2 p.m.

A Change Is Good For Rest

RIDGEWOOD, N.J. (AP)—Pitcher Jim Bouton has not only lost a roommate but a harmonica as well.

That's because Phil Linz, Bouton's closest friend in baseball and his roommate for four seasons with New York Yankees, has been traded to Philadelphia Phillies.

"All I heard last season was that darned harmonica," Bouton said, looking ahead to a year of more victories and less noise. "Phil really tried to learn how to play it."

Hot Potato Goes To Flying Wings

Detroit Blasts Habs, Chihawks Lose to Boston

By The Canadian Press

In recent weeks, Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks have been passing the National Hockey League lead back and forth like a hot potato.

Now they can cool their hands for a little while because it's not their potato any more.

The Black Hawks went into a Thursday night game against Boston Bruins tied with the Canadiens. But they skated off the rink on the short end of a 4-3 score.

The Canadiens visited Detroit Red Wings in the other Thursday night game looking for their first victory in the motor city in almost two years. But they were beaten 5-2 and will have to wait until they go to Detroit again Feb. 13 for another chance to break the jinx.

Norm Ullman and Gordie Howe each scored a pair of goals in the Red Wings' victory, which moved Detroit into first place, one point ahead of Chicago and Montreal, who are tied for second spot.

13 GAMES UNBEATEN

Alex Delvecchio scored Detroit's other goal as the Red Wings, defending NHL champions, extended their unbeaten streak at home over Montreal to 13 games, a string which dates back to Feb. 16, 1964.

Ullman's goals were his 23rd and 24th of the season while Howe netted his 17th and 18th markers of the current campaign.

Yvan Cournoyer and Gilles Tremblay, each with his 14th of the year, scored for Montreal while they held a man advantage. Cournoyer's goal was his 13th power-play marker of the season.

With less than two minutes remaining and with Boston holding a two-man advantage, Ron Stewart gave the Bruins their victory over the Black Hawks. Tommy Williams, Pit Martin and John McKenzie scored the other Boston goals.

CHASES RECORD

Hull, the NHL's top point-getter this season, has 32 games remaining to score 14 goals to break the record of 50 goals in a season. He holds the record jointly with Maurice Richard and Bernie Geoffrion, both former Montreal players.

The bruising game was featured by a third-period fight between Pat Stapleton of Chicago and Boston's Forbes Kennedy.

Stapleton and Kennedy were called for high-sticking midway in the period and then went at each other. Kennedy, blood streaming down his face from a deep cut on the forehead, kept chasing Stapleton and at one point accidentally slugged linesman Brian Sopp.

Stapleton received five minutes for high-sticking, five minutes for fighting and a 10-minute misconduct. Kennedy received a minor for high-sticking, five minutes for fighting and a 10-minute misconduct.

WESTFALL KAOYED

Another near-brawl broke out with two seconds remaining when Ed Westfall, who had been checking Hull closely throughout the game, was knocked to the ice by Chicago centre Stan Mikita.

Hull swung his stick in the traffic jam and accidentally kayoed Westfall while the Boston winger was down on the ice. Westfall had to be helped to the dressing room.

Saturday Detroit is at Montreal, Chicago visits Toronto for a game with the Maple Leafs, and New York Rangers play at Boston in a matinee game.

Blades Unleash Sharp Attack And Trip Bucks

Los Angeles Blades move into Memorial Arena Saturday night and they may have some newly-found power to throw at Victoria Maple Leafs.

At least they hinted they were ready for a serious bid to vacate the Western Hockey League cellar when they tangled with the second-place Portland Buckaroos before 4,902 Los Angeles fans Thursday night.

Buckaroos, who has previously dropped only four decisions in games with the league's bottom four clubs, went down to a 5-4 defeat to remain four points behind the front-running Leafs.

And the Bucks needed a late rally to escape greater humiliation at the hands of the Blades, who are now only two points behind San Francisco Seals.

GRABBED BIG LEAD

Los Angeles jumped into a 2-0 first period lead and were in front 5-1 in the second session before the Bucks scored the last three goals of the game.

Los Angeles dominated the second period but Portland finished strongly and it took some fine goaltending by veteran Marcel Pelletier in the closing stages to preserve the victory.

Claude Larose, Norm Johnson, Leo LaBine, Cliff Pennington and Willie O'Ree scored for the Blades. Bill Saunders and Gerry Goyer each counted twice for Portland.

Pelletier finished with 24 saves and Dave Kelly, who had scored four shutouts in his first five games with the Buckaroos and has now yielded eight goals in two games, made 22 stops.

Byron Nelson Leaving Golf If No Remedy

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Byron Nelson, one of golf's top performers, says he may have toured the links for the last time.

He said calcium deposits on his spine pinch nerves and make it impossible to swing a club.

"I haven't been able to play since September and I may never be able to play again.

"The condition is not subject to correction by either surgery, diet or drugs.

"They say there is a chance that the spurs on the vertebrae that are giving the trouble may grow together and thereby effect a cure.

"That could happen next week, next year or never."

GOLFER ASKS $4 MILLION FROM TIME

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Floren Di Paglia, a Des Moines, Iowa golfer, has filed a $4,000,000 suit in California Superior Court here against Time, Inc. for an article that appeared in Sports Illustrated magazine.

The suit filed by the aluminum siding executive is asking $2,000,000 for libel and another $2,000,000 for invasion of privacy.

The suit contends an article in the Nov. 22, 1965, issue is "completely misleading, false and picked up isolated facts and put them in such a light" that Di Paglia "looks like a gangster."

HERRING HUNTERS BACK OFF

U.S. Tagged Salmon Showing in Inlet

American-raised salmon are providing sport for Canadian fishermen, members of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association learned Thursday night during their annual general meeting.

Brentwood fishing guide Jim Gilbert told the meeting that fisheries board research biologists have been making a study of American hatchery fish currently being taken in Saanich Inlet waters.

Gilbert said that at his boathouse wharf last week, three American-tagged salmon were included in the 18 he saw checked.

He also had good news for those who have been vigorously opposing an application to allow commercial netting of herring in the Inlet.

Gilbert said he had been dipnetting herring for bait from Saanich Inlet for 15 years. But this year, he said, because of his positions as a member of the sports fishing advisory council and as sports fishing representative on the herring management board, he felt he and two other boathouse operators should ask official permission to take a limited number of herring for bait.

This was the application that raised a storm of protest from fishermen.

He said that since he had run into opposition, he and the other operators were making other arrangements for bait. He expects to obtain bait fish from the Nanaimo area.

Gilbert suggested that VSIAA members urge the federal fisheries department to start a salmon rehabilitation program on the Cowichan River. He also suggested an investigation of naval underwater detonation experiments in Saanich Inlet with the aim of having the experiments shifted to another area.

During the meeting, veteran angler Harold Nutton was elected president, succeeding Jack Jefferies, who had held the post for three years.

Named as directors were Taffy Wakeford, Len Mahaffey, Alf Lohr, Barney Hupe, B. Barnhart, Fred Rocket, Dave Campbell, Al Price, Johnny DesRoches, Tommy Chow, John Pagnotta, Sparky Romano, Ray Sidaway and Bob Hogan.

VSIAA life memberships were awarded to May Hall and Thelma Holder, two boathouse operators who have assisted the association for many years.

John Pagnotta was the big winner when it came time to present trophies earned during 1966.

Pagnotta collected the trophy for taking the largest salmon of the year—a 36.6 pounder—and also received awards for taking the largest salmon during July and August and the heaviest salmon during the executive derby. He also received a silver coho button.

Also receiving awards for 1966 angling prowess were: Mrs. J. Cove, Ken Smith, C. J. Rose, Sid Upton, Paul Coco, W. P. Wilson, Richard Poole, Brenda Walton, R. G. Marsh, Sylvia Upton, Len Mehaffey, Sparky Romano, Mrs. B. Craig, J. Main, Marie Wright and Robbie Redgrave.

HOWE'S HOCKEY

By GORDIE HOWE

Question: Helmets are required in most age groups in hockey today. They're mandatory in all football, amateur and professional. Why doesn't the National Hockey League require them? W.H., Medicine Hat, Alta.

* * *

Answer: Chances are some day helmets may be required in the NHL, just the same as the Achilles tendon guard on the back of the skating boots and the plastic tips on the rear end of the skates.

I know I would have gone without a very serious injury that might possibly have ended my career very early, when I was hit in the head, if I had had a helmet on.

If you can get used to wearing the helmet, fine and dandy. As the youngsters who are required to wear them now graduate to professional hockey, I think you'll see them become common.

* * *

They're required by all college teams. Red Berenson was captain of the University of Michigan team. When he was signed by Montreal, he continued wearing his helmet.

Any time a player suffers a concussion, it is almost automatic that he wears a helmet when he returns to action. Toronto's Red Kelly had to wear one after a serious concussion a couple of years ago. He got used to it and now it is a standard part of his equipment. Red is in his 18th season in the NHL.

However, another Toronto player, Ron Ellis, who was runner-up to Roger Crozier, our Detroit goalie, for the Calder Trophy as the top rookie, suffered a concussion this season. He wore the helmet for about five weeks, then discarded it.

* * *

I think you'll see face masks required for goalies before helmets become mandatory in the NHL. Goalies are much more vulnerable because they're constant targets for flying pucks.

I know Terry Sawchuk was opposed to face masks at first but he became a convert when Ross (Lefty) Wilson, the Red Wing trainer, came up with the custom-molded masks.

Underdog Shores Tackle Chinooks

If form doesn't take a kick in the teeth, North Shore will be the fourth team in their Inter-City Junior Men's Basketball League playoffs next week.

The Mountaineers clung narrowly to that position Thursday by edging sixth-place CYO Saints 56-55 at Vancouver.

Kerrisdale, only two points behind North Shore, kept their hopes of securing the last playoff spot alive by bouncing last place Killarney 80-64 in the other mainland game.

As the teams head into the last league game of the season, Kerrisdale faces fast-breaking, high-scoring UBC Jayvees and North Shore takes on third-place YMCA.

UNDERDOGS

Neither North Shore nor Kerrisdale could be considered favorites. Barring upsets the status quo will be unchanged and North Shore will be the last playoff squad.

Victoria Chinooks finish off the season at Central Junior High at 8 p.m. against CYO, a team that hasn't given Chinooks too many problems.

The seldom seen Victoria Haida Chiefs meet Vancouver Ex-Byng in the second half of Saturday's doubleheader at Central, starting at 9:15 p.m.

Chiefs will unveil for the first time at home newcomer Glenn Westfall. The six-four 217-pound U.S. Navy reservist is expected to pump power into Chiefs' sometimes ineffectual attack. Ex-Byng, senior mainland leaders, are led by Dave Way.

Price, Christie Share Golf Lead

Mrs. B. Price and Mrs. T. Christie each fired a net 79 to tie for first place in the Semple Cup competition this week at Uplands Golf Club.

In "B" division, a better score on the back nine enabled Mrs. R. Merryweather to win out over Mrs. K. Dawson after both had scored net 79s.

Mrs. R. Powell (net 80) won "C" division.

Grelle Hints At Retirement

PORTLAND (AP) — Jim Grelle, who has run 18 sub-four-minute miles, says this probably will be his last competitive season.

Grelle, 29, a Portland businessman, will run in Saturday's Los Angeles Times meet and the January 29 Oregon Invitational meet in Portland.

"I doubt if I'll compete beyond this year and it's hard to tell how much running I'll do in 1966," he says.

FIVE JOBS LEFT

Ex-Ram Assistant New Steeler Pilot

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Austin is the new coach at Pittsburgh and George Allen finally is in at Los Angeles, but five pro football jobs still are open.

Atlanta, Washington and St. Louis are the three vacancies in the National Football League, and Houston and Miami have openings in the American League.

Washington has yet to pick Bill McPeak's successor.

St. Louis is looking for a new man to take over the job vacated by Wally Lemm. Harland Svare, dismissed at Los Angeles, is reported high on the list of possibilities.

The hiring of Austin at Pittsburgh follows the recent trend to take assistant coaches and move them into the head spot.

Austin left Green Bay Packers last year and shifted to Los Angeles as an assistant under Svare while Ray Wietecha moved from the Rams to the Packer staff.

The decision to fire Bones Taylor at Houston after he claimed he had a verbal agreement to continue for three years stirred up a flurry. Lemm is reported in line to follow Taylor. Taylor is talking of court action and a protest to commissioner Joe Foss.

EX-COUGAR . . . . . . HALL-OF-FAMER

Frank Foyston Dies

PORT ORCHARD, Wash. (AP)—Funeral services will be held here Saturday for Frank C. Foyston, a member of hockey's Hall of Fame, who died Wednesday in a Seattle hospital. He was 74.

Foyston was captain of the Seattle Metropolitans when they won the Stanley Cup in 1917 and tied for it in 1919. After playing nine seasons in Seattle, he managed the Seattle Seahawks of the old Northwestern Hockey League.

He was a native of Ontario, and had lived in Seattle since 1928. He played for Toronto, Detroit and Victoria Cougar teams as well as for Seattle.

Leading 'Lights' Dimmed

MONTE CARLO (AP) — A French car was declared winner of the Monte Carlo rally Thursday after a mass disqualification in a dispute over headlights.

Officials gave the top spot to Finnish drivers Pauli Toivenen and E. Mirkander after ruling out the three top finishers — all British Mini-Coopers — and seven others.

The official second and third-place cars were Italian-built Lancia Flavias driven by Frenchmen Rene Trautmann and J. P. Janrioud, and Swedes Ove Andersson and M. Dahlgren respectively.

The disqualifications were announced after the last 381-mile test which only 40 of the 60 starting cars finished. At that point the three top cars were Mini-Coopers driven by Timo Makinen of Finland and Paul Easter of Britain; Finn Rauno Aaltonen and Briton Tony Ambrose, and Britons Paddy Hopkirk and Henry Liddon.

In addition, the leading contender for the women's trophy — two Irish girls — were bumped aside for a French team which never finished.

Officials said the British method of reducing headlight glare for oncoming drivers did not conform with regulations. All 10 cars disqualified, officials said were using single-beam iodine vapor headlights and either separate lights or intensity-diminishing devices for the low beams required by regulations.

The disqualifications were announced after the end of the last driving test when competitors were beginning to believe the matter had been dropped.

The Irish girls disqualified were Rosemary Smith and Valerie Domleo in a Hillman Imp. The women's cup was taken by Lucette Pointet and Jacqueline Pougeray in a Citroen.

Ski Report

Skiing reports from Green Mountain this morning said the road to the parking lot is still open. Chains or snow tires are required.

Thursday night at the lodge there were 120 inches of base snow but no new snow.

Rope tows are expected to be in operation over the weekend and the T-bar is scheduled to be in operation next weekend.

Golden Gloves Tournaments Around Corner

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Boxing Association announced Wednesday the provincial Golden Gloves tournament will be held here Feb. 11 and 12.

Stan Smith, B.C. boxing chairman, said top U.S. amateurs from the Pacific northwest will be invited to the tournament. Several Vancouver clubs, Victoria and Prince George will also enter teams, he said.

The B.C. boxers who win titles in the tournament will comprise the provincial team for the Canadian championships and British Empire Games trials to be held in May.

The association also announced it intends to again send boxers to three U.S. golden glove tournaments.

Banff Has Inside Track On 1972 Winter Olympics

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI)—Banff, Canada, emerged Thursday as the most likely candidate to attract the Winter Olympic Games of 1972, according to an International Olympic Committee source.

An attempt by Banff to attain the 1968 games failed by only a few votes.

Banff, Salt Lake City, and Sapporo, Japan were officially accepted as possible sites for the 1972 Winter Games while Detroit, Montreal, Munich and Madrid are candidates for the summer action.

This left the United States and Canada as the only nation with applications accepted to host both the winter and summer Games.

NOT LIKELY

It appeared unlikely, however, that either Salt Lake City or Detroit would be chosen. Chances of the Utah capital receiving the winter portion are slim because the U.S. hosted the games in 1960 at Squaw Valley, Calif., and some IOC members are not anxious to award this country the games at this time.

Detroit has been referred to as a "city of factories" by several IOC members and is considered unsuitable.

Sapporo is considered "too far away" but has not been ruled out. It is termed a dark horse candidate.

Munich is rated the favorite to win the summer games, an IOC spokesman admitted after listing the disadvantages of the other cities.

Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the IOC, said he was notified by IOC headquarters at Lausanne, Switzerland, that Amsterdam had dropped out as a summer games candidate.

Sites of the 1968 Olympics already have been designated. The summer games were awarded to Mexico City and the winter games to Grenoble, France.

KNOWN IN APRIL

Hosts of the 1972 games will be determined by the IOC during a meeting in Rome about April 25, Brundage said.

Brundage said Munich and Montreal submitted bids to him for the 1972 Summer Olympiad.

The 74-year-old IOC boss said he lacked information on rumored bids by Amsterdam, where the 1928 Olympiad was held, or Vienna.

Brundage declined comment on the chances of any city in the bidding for the 1972 games, but stressed that "pressure" lobbying tactics have been outlawed since the 1963 IOC meeting which awarded the 1968 games to Mexico City.

McLeod to Fore At Powell River

McLeod, vice-skip Rene Campeau, second George Mostat and lead Lynn Rutledge defeated the Art McClure rink 2-1 in a best-of-three playoff.

They advance to a playoff with rinks from the Vancouver area Saturday and Sunday at Vancouver's Capilano Winter Club.

MICKEY MANTLE

Eskimos Acquire Assistant Coach

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference announced the signing of Joe (Smokey) Spencer to one of two assistant coaching vacancies.

Spencer, who resigned last year as assistant coach with Houston Oilers of the American Football League, replaces Harry Buffington, who quit Eskimos last week to return to U.S. college coaching.

Spencer, former tackle with Cleveland Browns and Green Bay Packers, coached offensive and defensive lines at Houston. He also was head coach at Austin College in Sherman, Tex., 1954-60.

'ALREADY DISCUSSED'

Mantle Ogles Job on First

NEW YORK (AP)—Ralph Houk, general manager of New York Yankees, offers some authenticity to a report that Mickey Mantle might be switched to first base next season.

Mantle himself gave the first indication of such a move earlier in the week before entering Mayo Clinic for an examination of his right shoulder, re-injured while cavorting with his sons at his Dallas home a couple of weeks ago.

"I haven't heard anything from Mayo Clinic regarding Mickey," said Houk. "I should hear something by the end of the week."

The Mantle subject came up Wednesday during a press conference called by the Yankees to announce the signing of Elston Howard.

TALKED ABOUT PLAN

"When Mantle visited me about a week ago, we discussed the possibility of his playing first base," said Houk, "but only on the supposition that his shoulder remained sore.

"Johnny Keane (Yankee manager) and I already had discussed that probability. We both feel that first base is the one position on a club that you can play without having a very good arm."

Should Mantle play first base, a position totally strange to him, Joe Pepitone, the regular first baseman since 1963, likely will be switched to the outfield, a position with which he is quite familiar.

Pepitone was used in all three outfield positions last year, showing to his best advantage in right field. Roger Maris, the team's regular right fielder, is equally efficient in centre. Tom Tresh is the regular left fielder.

Blacker the Fish — Better the Day for Fishing Beach Grounds Fury of Critics

Beach, the AAU of C track chairman, was commenting on criticism that Percival, a long-time figure in Canadian track and field, was not chosen as field coach of Canada's track team at the British Commonwealth Games in Jamaica next August.

Ian Hume of Montreal is the track coach, Paul Poce of Toronto track coach, Dick Harding of Montreal track manager and Mrs. Jo Kennedy of Winnipeg assistant manager.

The criticism began after the AAU announced the selections Tuesday night.

Said Beach: "There is no reconsideration possible on Percival. This was an election operated on a democratic basis by the national committee across Canada, and Ian Hume got the job."

Percival had been nominated for the field coach position by the central Ontario branch of the AAU. The fact he didn't make it surprised other AAU officials but they echoed Beach's remarks that it was a free choice by 33 track and field administrators across Canada.

However, Ken Twigg of Toronto, former chairman of AAU track and field, said he disagrees with the method.

"Perhaps it's time for the coaches across the country to make the selections, not the administrators," he said.

GREATEST SPORTS COMEBACK

Tough Bears Best

NEW YORK (AP) — Chicago Bears, who rallied from three straight losses at the season's start to win nine of their next 10 games in the hotly competitive National Football League, made the outstanding comeback in sports in 1965.

Seventy-six of the 299 sports writers and sportscasters participating in The Associated Press poll listed the Bears as their No. 1 choice.

On a basis of three points for a first-place vote, two for second and one for third, the Bears collected 420 points. Vern Law, Pittsburgh Pirates' right-handed pitcher, was second with 73 first place votes and 348 points.

BEARS FINISHED THIRD

The Bears finished third in the NFL's Western Division with a 9-5 record last season.

In 1963, the Bears captured the western crown with an 11-1 record and defeated New York Giants 14-10 in the championship playoff. The following year, they dropped to sixth place, winning only five and losing nine games.

Law, 35, had a 17-9 won-lost mark and the third best earned run average, 2.16, in the National League last year. He had been troubled by an ailing pitching arm for several seasons after helping Pittsburgh win the pennant in 1960 by recording 20 victories.

The Dodgers, who finished in a sixth-place tie in 1964, rallied for 13 straight victories in a late-season drive that enabled them to win the '65 NL flag.

Georgians Tackle JBAA Rugby Sides

Visits by mainland squads will highlight this weekend's Victoria Rugby Union schedule.

Feature tussle will be played Saturday at Macdonald Park, when James Bay, leading the VRU first division, tangles with the talent-studded Vancouver Georgians at 2 p.m.

Georgians will also bring over a second division side for a 2 p.m. match at Carnarvon Park against the JBAA seconds.

In another second division game Saturday, Naval Apprentices will face University at the Gordon Head campus at 2:30.

Midget division matches Saturday will send University School against JBAA at University School at 10:30 a.m. and Oak Bay Wanderers against QOR Cadets at Work Point at 1 p.m.

On Sunday, the spotlight will shift to Duncan, where Cowichan will play the West Vancouver Barbarians at 2:30.

Some of Vancouver's leading players will be in action with Georgians at Macdonald Park Saturday. Included in the lineup are stand-off Tim Cummings, Canadian rep player, and Barry Stubbs.

IT'S A REAL PANIC!

By PETER BUCKLEY

LONDON (CP)—The end of a popular television program in Britain throws the island's electrical authorities into panicky activity. They are faced with a sudden surge of demand for electricity.

"If there's something very popular on, we have to make allowances for what happens when it's over," a spokesman for the Central Electricity Generating Board said in an interview.

"All the viewers don't immediately go to the washroom. Lots of them head for the kitchen to make a cup of tea. And many more turn up the lights to read or they put on the heater in the bedroom before tucking in for the night."

TV is one of the main factors that the generating board has to consider as it struggles to keep all the lights on during the short, cold days of winter.

When the televised Royal Variety program ended last November, for instance, power consumption leaped suddenly by 700,000 kilowatts. The Miss World contest in London or almost any title fight have produced similar fluctuations.

USE NATIONAL GRID

The board, which describes itself as the largest unified electrical system in the world, provides power to all of England and Wales through a national grid system.

At a recent peak period, it supplied a record 32,824,000 kilowatts of power to its customers, shifting power from one region to another as fluctuations in demand were registered at the national control centre in London.

"The engineers have got to know what positive elements are likely to affect demand and make adjustments, but they have to be amateur psychologists as well," the board spokesman said. "It's no secret that Britain is short of both generating capacity and transmission capacity, so we need to keep a very close eye on things."

Construction of new facilities is going on but it is expected to be several years before supply meets the peak demand.

53 Teachers Return To School

The tables were turned Thursday for 53 teachers from Sooke and Saanich school districts who are back to school for an art workshop.

The three-day session is being held at John Stubbs Elementary where the teachers are meeting to discuss materials and methods of modern art education.

They will also try out water color, poster paint, chalk and modelling clay which are used in classroom.

Sponsored by the teachers' associations of Sooke, Saanich and Belmont Park, the workshop is conducted by a crayon company.

The teachers' work will be on display at the school Saturday afternoon.

TONIGHT, SATURDAY

Joining of Old, New Shown in Hall Film

Rain forests, sun-washed beaches and turquoise waters will come alive for Victoria audiencets viewing the latest in a film series sponsored by the adult education division of the Greater Victoria school board.

Puerto Rico, Caribbean Treasure Isle, depicts the joining of old and new which makes the island a jewel of the West Indies.

There, some areas remain as they were in the time of Spanish conquerors and sugar cane is still harvested by hand.

Modern improvements provide sharp contrast to the ancient way of life.

The film will be narrated in person by former Walt Disney photographer Fran William Hall, who has recorded much of his wide travels on film.

It will be shown tonight and Saturday at 8 p.m. at Oak Bay Junior Secondary School. Admission is adults, $1, students 50 cents.

Film Rentals From Library Popular

Commenting happily about the fast growing popularity of the service, head librarian Jack Lort is surprised that not more people should make use of it

He and Paul Courtice, area representative for the National Film Board which supplies most of the library's film stock agree "there is no greater medium of education nor more highly enjoyable form of entertainment."

Says Mr. Courtice, "films used in conjunction with books, periodicals and other reference material can inform a student faster and in a more thorough manner then anything else."

Rented on a 24-hour basis (from noon to noon, usually) the films cost from 35c to $1.50 depending on length and whether they are black-and-white or color. The films run from short 10-minute capsules to the 13 and one half hour epic-series "Canada At War." Projectors are available at the library and from commercial outlets.

City Rules Out Free Parking At Wharf Lot

Workers at the Victoria Machinery Depot will get the word within the next few days: free parking on city-owned property near Fishermen's Wharf is out.

Council made the decision Thursday on the recommendation of the Group B committee which studied the problem last week.

The matter came to a head when the operator of a commercial parking lot in the area complained to city council.

Until recently VMD workers were allowed to park their cars on nearby streets but it was decided they created a traffic hazard. Following this the city men's Wharf property to be used.

60 Feared Drowned

YAOUNDE, Cameroon (AP)—The Cameroon Times said Thursday 60 persons were drowned and 40 are missing after a launch capsized off the western coast of Cameroon. The launch had just left Lobe, in western Cameroon, for Obon, in the eastern province of Nigeria, the report said.

New Broadcasting Proposals Soon

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday Parliament will be given an opportunity to express its views before any final decisions are taken in the field of broadcasting policy.

Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops) asked the prime minister in the Commons whether the government is planning to prepare a white paper on broadcasting policy prior to any changes.

Mr. Pearson said the report of the Fowler committee on broadcasting is being considered and the government's proposals will be announced after this study is completed.

Mr. Fulton later asked whether "we are to take it that the decision to reappoint Alphonse Ouimet, (as CBC president) for seven years was not a final decision?"

Mr. Pearson said the government had statutory authority to reappoint Mr. Ouimet.

Doctors Elect New President

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Robert Kerr, 57, head of the University of British Columbia's department of medicine, has been elected president of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada.

He succeeds Dr. Walter MacKenzie of Edmonton. The election was announced at the opening of the college's annual meeting Thursday.

MISSED BATTLE BY MINUTES

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Comedienne Martha Raye says she missed being trapped in a bloody Viet Cong battle at a remote South Viet Nam outpost by 29 minutes.

"Our helicopter took of from Plei Me just 29 minutes before they attacked," said Martha on her return Thursday from 3½ months of entertaining troops.

CENTENNIAL

Physical Fitness Program

OTTAWA (CP) — The centennial commission will outline a program today that would throw more than 6,000,000 grade and high school students into competition for physical fitness and athletic achievement awards in 1967.

The commission will present the proposed program to representatives of provincial governments, education departments, sports bodies, the Canadian Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation and other bodies at a meeting here.

John Fisher, centennial commissioner, said preliminary discussions indicate enthusiastic support from the provinces. Provincial sports directors have helped develop the program.

It would encourage participation by all children aged six to 18 in a simple battery of tests.

These would consist of three compulsory events — a standing broad jump, a 50-yard dash and a 300-yard run — and one of three optional events, swimming, skating or hiking.

A six-year-old boy who could skate 110 yards in 18.6 seconds would get a gold centennial athlete crest. A time of 22.5 seconds would gain him a silver crest; 27.6 seconds, a bronze crest; and 31 seconds, a red crest.

A 10-year-old boy would have to cover 440 yards in 57 seconds for a gold crest and an 18-year-old would have to do the distance in 43.5 seconds or less.

Suggested awards would be 3,500 expense-paid trips for 12- to 18-year-olds to the Pan American Games in Winnipeg, Expo 67 in Montreal, the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, and the Pacific Northwestern Exhibition in Vancouver.

Younger winners would get trips in their own provinces.

Ex-Minister In Debate

Howard Green, former Conservative minister of external affairs, is coming to Victoria Tuesday to debate the question: Should Canada join the Organization of American States?

The debate will be held in St. John Ambulance Hall, 941 Pandora Avenue, at 8 p.m.

It has been organized by the Victoria branch of the World Federalists of Canada.

Also taking part in the debate will be Prof. Charles S. Burchill, professor of history at Royal Roads Services College and president of the World Federalists of Canada; Dr. John Oglesby, professor of history at the University of Victoria; and Tony Keble, a Uvic student who recently vistied Latin America.

U.K. Living Cost Up

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's cost of living is rising faster than that of almost every other European country, Conservative Opposition Leader Edward Heath said Wednesday.

Grumblings Rival Click of Poker Chips in Britain

By CARL MOLLINS

LONDON (CP) — Complaints that gambling saps British energy and resources are beginning to rival the sound of the roulette wheel and the click of poker chips throughout the land.

Defenders of the Nevada-style freedom accorded gamblers here for the last five years have been swift to react against "latter-day puritans" attempting to interfere with gambling—Britain's fifth biggest industry after manufacturing, transport and communications, construction and public utilities.

The renewed argument was provoked by George Thomas, a Parliamentary undersecretary for the home office, the department of state responsible for law enforcement.

"There are families whose lives are being made a hell because of gambling," Thomas said in a speech to Welsh Methodists in Cardiff. "Dishonesty is creeping like a fungus all over the country. . . . There is a veritable war against society on the part of people who regard dishonesty as a normal way of contact."

Thomas disclosed that the home office is engaged in a departmental study of gambling laws as a result of complaints from "responsible people" over a period of several months.

The dramatic outburst by the junior minister prompted some public agreement that gambling has gone too far. Other commentators raised the charge of "mid - Victorian morality" against Thomas, who is a lay preacher.

PROFITS EXPENSIVE

"The mushrooming of (gambling) clubs all over the country under the drive of big-business promoters," said the conservative Daily Telegraph, "gives opportunities for all sorts of undesirable developments at the expense of young and old, of wage-earners and their families."

The Evening Standard, however, denounced Thomas's "drab socialism" and proclaimed editorially that "Victorian moralizing . . . has no place in 20th-century Britain."

But 20th-century Britain at the moment is attempting to work itself out of an economic morass that requires, experts say, an increase in productivity above all.

Any resident of Britain can see daily evidence of gambling's drag on industry: The plumber who spends most of the afternoon back and forth to the betting shop, delivery trucks and post office vans parked outside the bookie premises, the worker with the one-track conversation about almost winning the treble-chance prize on the soccer pools.

The cash turnover in British gambling has been growing at three times the pace of national production. It now totals more than £1,000,000,000 a year at conservative estimates, an amount equivalent to half the annual defence budget and four times as much as the national government spends yearly on education.

UP 33 PER CENT

Betting on horses, greyhounds, soccer games, bingo, cards, roulette and slot machines has raised the annual expenditure on gambling by 33 per cent since the 1960 betting, gaming and lotteries act opened the way for the off-track betting shops, town and country casinos and slot machines in every second pub.

It is the casino clubs that provoked the current concern. Even their defenders concede that Parliament had no intention of creating gambling casinos with the 1960 act. The law forbids a house rakeoff from card or roulette games, but the operators profit handsomely by charging fees for participation or going through the formality of offering players the chance to act as "banker" in a game.

Nobody knows precisely how many such clubs exist because they require no operating licence. Lately, operators have been lowering stakes and opening clubs to attract middle-class and low-income gamblers.

The fact that the greatest participation in gambling is among the poorest section of the community has worried social workers and police.

A study now in progress by the London School of Economics has shown that the distribution of corner betting shops—now numbering almost 16,000 from a standing start in 1960—is twice as dense as up to six shops for every 10,000 people in depressed regions of Scotland and northern England as for the country as a whole.

ANSWER PETERSON'S CHARGE

'Cleric's Work Not Limited to Pulpit'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Church Editor

Victoria clergymen seem emphatic on this point.

"It is absurd to suggest that ministers should confine their comments to purely religious matters," said Rev. Dr. Samuel Parsons, chairman of the Victoria presbytery of the United Church of Canada.

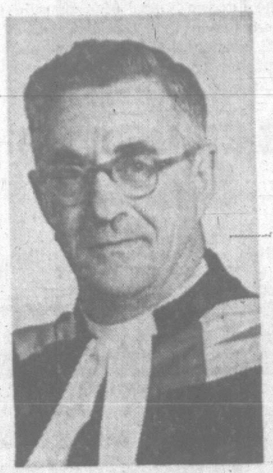
"Ministers are concerned with all aspects of human welfare and that, of course, embraces labor problems.'

Dr. Parsons was commenting on a letter addressed to B.C. Labor Minister Leslie Peterson by four Vancouver clergymen recently. In a reference to the threatened B.C. general strike, the clergy told Mr. Peterson that labor legislation was weighted against the unions.

Mr. Peterson replied that he found the clergy's observations "particularly offensive" and said the public expected them to be "well-informed in other fields in which you proffer advice."

Victoria clergy disagrees.

"The clergyman has every right to give an interpretation of his faith in relation to any human problem," Dr. Parsons said. "His work is never limited to the church of the pulpit."



PARSONS
. . . absurd suggestion

Monsignor Michael O'Connell, chancellor of the Roman Catholic diocese of Victoria, said clergymen should be prepared to take a stand on any moral issue.

"If they feel human rights are in jeopardy, it is their duty to speak out. I don't suggest we should concern ourselves with technical labor matters. But we are concerned with all moral issues relating to labor."

Rev. H. Gordon Walker, an Anglican member of the Greater Victoria Council of Churches and vicar of St. David-by-the-Sea Cordova Bay, said

"As Christians, we should be concerned with all aspects of human welfare, including relations between management and labor. I don't say we should take a judgment stand on labor matters but we should do all possible to help find a solution. We cannot hold ourselves aloof from labor problems."

Rev. Robin Salter, assistant minister at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, said clergymen are vitally concerned with all fields of social welfare.

"We are concerned with the well-being of the community and this of course includes working conditions and the rights of the worker as distinct from purely political issues"

PRAISES STAND

He said here in an interview he agreed with their statements to Labor Minister Peterson that labor legislation was weighted against the unions.

The clergy also stated that, in their opinion, government planning to avoid problems caused by automation would have obviated the threat of a general strike.

O'CONNELL
. . . must take a stand

They are members of a group known as the Church Committee on the Church and Industrial Society.

"This group has no affiliation with the labor movement," Mr Staley said, "but it has every right to give an opinion on vital issues."

Rev. H. S. Christie, a member of the Vancouver group, also objected to Mr. Peterson's reply.

"He spoke as if the church should stay in the pulpit and sing hymns," Mr. Christie said.

TOP-LEVEL MEETING CALLED

An unofficial top-level conference on the decision to hire a United States firm to organize Greater Victoria's 1966-67 centennial celebrations was to be held some time today.

Walter Dodsworth, president of the Greater Victoria Confederation-Centennial Society which made the decision in his absence, was due to be prsent.

So was Ald. Michael Griffin who chaired the decision-making meeting. City solicitor T. P. O'Grady and city manager Dennis Young were also expected.

Mrs. Dodsworth has said that as president of the society he would refuse to sign any agreement which did not have the backing of the Greater Victoria Intermunicipal Committee.

But city hall officials say the backing of the Intermunicipal Committee is not required before a contract can be signed. They also stated that if Mr. Dodsworth refused to sign a contract the vice-chairman could sign in his absence.

Ald. Griffin said Thursday that the American company was hired "not just to put on a show, but to organize the entire year celebration-wise."

AGENTS EYE MAFIA

Border to Be Roadblock

Attorney-General Robert Bonner predicted Thursday that new special agents of the immigration department will keep criminals out of Canada and make it easier to put close tabs on suspected criminals who enter the country legally.

Bonner was commenting on announcement in Ottawa Wednesday that 16 special agents will be posted in four cities to halt what was described as a procession of top Mafia men into Canada.

Agents will be sent to Vancouver, but Mr. Bonner said he does not know how many or when.

UNDESIRABLES

He said the move is an extension of efforts by the immigration department to keep out undesirable people.

He said it was discussed at the recent federal-provincial crime conference in Ottawa.

Mr. Bonner said the agents in Vancouver will work closely with RCMP and local police.

"There is no question that a move of this kind will make screening more effective," he said.

"I would think that legally some undesirable people may be impossible to keep out—you've got to have firm grounds — but it will be possible to ensure better surveillance of those that do cross the border."

Mr. Bonner said the move will tighten liaison between Ottawa, police and the U.S. in combatting criminal activities.

Indecent Act Alleged

Rangit Singh Dillon, 906 Market St., was remanded to Jan. 24 for plea in central court Thursday on a charge alleging an indecent act involving a 16-year-old girl.

Meteor Admiration Society

Montcalm S-33 2-door hardtop.

Meteor's elegant comfort is another reason

One of the first things people notice in a new Meteor is the beautiful interior luxury. Once you've seen Meteor's comfortable, deep, foam-padded seats, there's no stopping you from sitting in them and surrounding yourself in Meteor elegance. Fabrics are rich, lavish. Soft, supple crinkle grain vinyl has the look and feel of fine leather. A number of people joined the Meteor Admiration Society the moment they discovered and experienced all this elegance and prestige in a popular price car.

Meteor's beautiful style is another reason

Your eyes just naturally snap to attention at the first sight of a new Meteor. You simply cannot resist Meteor's distinctive beauty . . . clean, crisp, sculptured lines and tasteful use of trim accents. Meteor's sweeping roofline and gently tapered rear deck draw admiring looks wherever they're seen. An optional vinyl roof adds town car fashion to the ultra-glamorous look of Meteor 2 and 4-door hardtops. In fact, many people join the Meteor Admiration Society for Meteor's good looks alone.

Meteor's superb handling is another reason

You'll love the way your Meteor handles . . . so easy to park, so easy to manoeuver. And Meteor's ride is a delight, too. Independent, all-coil suspension smooths out the roughest roads . . . lets each wheel step individually over bumps without disturbing Meteor's level ride. A torque-box, tuned frame absorbs vibration and shock and deadens noise as you ride in total comfort in the silent world of Meteor. It's not surprising that many people join the Meteor Admiration Society just for the ride.

Cost Sharing Probe Supported

Victoria city council Thursday decided to back Ald. Hugh Stephen's bid for a royal commission to investigate municipal-provincial cost sharing.

Other area municipalities studying an original proposal by Oak Bay Reeve Allan Cox will be asked to go along with the change.

Reeve Cox's proposal called for the provincial government to appoint a committee to study problems arising from education, health and hospital programs.

Ald. Stephen said he felt such a committee would be relatively useless.

"It may take a year for us to consummate the idea of a royal commission, but we have to make the move," he said. "It would be disastrous to place such a serious problem in the hands of a committee made up mostly of government members."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow urged council to support Reeve Cox's resolution as it stood.

"The select committee could recommend a royal commission," he said. "By changing the resolution now we would be wasting time sending it back to the intermunicipal committee and then back to the various councils."

Ald. Stephen disagreed.

"I can't accept the fact that we can't change this," he said. "This will be one of the most serious decisions we ever make."

Ald. Michael Griffin backed Ald. Stephen.

"Ald. Stephen's amendment pinpoints what is needed," he said. "A royal commission would have far more effect than a select committee. It is a much more logical way to go about finding a solution to the problem."

END CONTROVERSY

Ald. Stephen said the appointment of a royal commission to clearly define the areas of responsibility for provincial and municipal governments would eliminate the possibility of political controversy.

"The problem has been getting into the realm of political controversy and this in itself is bad," he said.

Prior to making his maiden proposal as an alderman Ald. Stephen said he "regretted somewhat the fact that a resolution of this magnitude should be laid on the desks of aldermen only a few minutes before the council meeting."

On the vote all council members voted in favor of the royal commission.

Man Fined $50 For Possession

William Maxwell Lundy, 3179 Ayton, was fined $50 in central court Thursday when sentenced for being in possession of stolen goods over the value of $50.

Court was told he drove a 16-year-old youth to Shawnigan Lake last month when the youth took an 18-horsepower motor from a boat shed.

The motor was later recovered by police in the trunk of Lundy's car.

IT ASKS NO QUARTER, JAMMED IF IT DOES

The first customer at the Royal Jubilee Hospital's pay parking lot Wednesday drove smartly up to the barrier and inserted a quarter into the automatic supervisor—jamming the works.

And that was how the day began at the 10-cent parking lot.

For the next two hours hospital officials wrestled to remove the over-sized quarter from the machine while confusion reigned among the anxious employees attempting to park their cars.

"It is working beautifully today," said administrator George Masters, "although some smaller cars have been experiencing difficulty in tripping the device which raises the barrier."

BETWEEN OTTAWA-PROVINCES

Indians Must Okay New Agreements

OTTAWA (CP)—Northern Affairs Minister Laing told the Commons Thursday agreements to extend provincial services to Ontario Indians must have the approval of the Indians before they are valid.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker had asked whether Indians had been consulted "tribe by tribe and band by band" about arrangements between the federal government and Ontario.

Mr. Laing said it has been felt for some time that provincial services should be extended to Indians.

He said draft agreements were sent to the provinces last November.

'CITY MORE THAN FAIR'

Aldermen Dig In For Water Fight

Victoria city council is gearing for an all-out battle with Central Saanich over the water rights to Elk Lake.

Central Saanich has asked the provincial government to amend an act of 1873 giving Victoria the water rights to turn the rights back to the crown.

Central Saanich buys the water from the city at a 1½ cents per thousand gallon rate. The city wants to increase the price to five cents per thousand gallons.

In its bid to get the act changed Central Saanich says the requirements of the two communities could run to 1,300,000 gallons a day.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow asked council to stand firm on its five-cent price and instruct city solicitor T. P. O'Grady to draw up an objection to the Central Saanich bid.

"We are being more than fair when we ask for five cents per thousand gallons," he said. "Our own taxpayers pay 12½ cents per thousand gallons.

"The taxpayers of Victoria owe $6 million on their own water system.

"They (Central Saanich) pay a reasonable price. Victoria has a heavy investment in Elk Lake and it is up to council to protect its own taxpayers."

Angry Youth Won't Go Home, Shoots Self

BURNABY (CP)—A 17-year-old youth shot and killed himself early Thursday on a downtown street as two RCMP constables tried to persuade him to put down a rifle and return home.

Dead is David Parker, who police said left home after a family argument.

Parker threatened to shoot himself rather than return home when two RCMP constables pulled their car along side him as he walked on a Burnaby street.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, JANUARY 21, 1966 —PAGE 19

Arthur Mayse

Today I'd like to tell you about three happy South Island people I know. They are mother, father and only son, a close-knit and loving family, and they have been party to a quiet miracle that began for them late in 1964.

We'll call the boy Bob.

He is 18 and a high school senior, and it is upon him that the miracle centres.

If you saw Bob on the street or in a bus or out with a girl, you would catalogue him casually as a nice-looking young fellow of medium height, or perhaps just a trifle on the short side.

That's today. Fifteen months ago, nobody who saw Bob would indulge in that kind of hair-splitting. He wouldn't be out with a girl, either.

Back then, his height with his school shoes on was a trifle over five feet. He and his parents had waited through his early and middle teens, with declining hopes, for the growing streak which relatives and friends assured them would eventually stretch him out like a string-bean.

But it never came; and at 17 turned, Bob was a moody little introvert whose parents doubled as his friends.

They knew, however, that the family bond wasn't enough for a 17-year-old; and against their own conviction that the pattern of their son's life was already set, they took his case to a doctor.

On that day, the groundwork of the miracle was laid, even though the doctor's first words seemed more discouraging than otherwise. Bob, he warned them, might remain at or about his present height for the rest of his days.

He suggested further that lack of inches needn't be a crushing handicap; that the world is plentifully supplied with spunky short men who lac neither friends nor success.

With these facts established, he informed them there was a chance — but only a chance — that medical techniques developed in the last very few years might lengthen Bob out.

Then the doctor passed them on to an associate who had made an intensive study of growth retardation, and their personal miracle got under way.

It began with a hospital week during which Bob was subjected to tests of one sort or another in wearying succession. As a layman, I'm not qualified to detail these, and can state the results only in broad terms.

Bob's failure to reach normal height resulted from a "lazy" pituitary—the master-gland that controls growth. If the gland could be stimulated to more active functioning, and if the subject's bones hadn't removed all possibility of further growth by "sealing off" at the joints, his height might be increased.

X-rays revealed that the hardening-off process hadn't begun. Bob came out of hospital and returned to school. His treatment consisted of carefully-balanced injections given once a week in the doctor's office.

Nothing happened. A month went by, and another, with Bob's height unchanged. Then one day he came home from his visit to the doctor and announced in careful-casual tones, "He says I've started to grow."

That was the start of it Since the miracle began, Bob has added a further six-and-a-half inches. He gets phone calls now. He goes to parties, and comes home skinned and muddy from school soccer, and his parents complain happily that he doesn't spend enough time with them.

The injections have been replaced by tablets, but he's about done with medication. Although the big surge is over, Bob may make a fraction of an inch more before he stops growing.

That's the story, and I hope the parents of some other painfully short boy in his late teens will read it. The treatment that gave Bob his inches could help their son.

UNITED CHURCH MINISTER PREACHES AT CATHOLIC CATHEDRAL

'Work Together Then Worship Together'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

A prayer of intercession for the Roman Catholic Church was offered in St. Andrew's Cathedral Thursday night by a black-gowned minister of the United Church.

Rev. Albert King asked for a blessing on the Roman church and all its members and prayed "that the Holy Spirit may give His blessing to the work and decisions of the Second Vatican Council."

Mr. King, who is minister of Metropolitan United, was guest preacher at an inter-church service in the cathedral sponsored by the Roman Catholic diocese of Victoria and the Victoria Council of Churches.

He was supported by the Sanctuary Choir of Metropolitan, which sang in a Roman Catholic church for the first time since it was founded by David Spencer in 1862.

Speaking from the red-carpeted altar steps, Mr. King said:

"We know there are areas in which we are tragically divided, but these divisions are not as strong as the holy spirit which unites us.

"We are meeting together tonight because God has called us and we have answered His call."

Mr. King said there are many areas of common concern in which churches of all denominations could work together, regardless of their differences in creed and dogma.

"We have a common concern in all aspects of family life and in the current problems created by automation, delinquency, alcoholism and drug addiction. In these and other fields of human welfare we could work together for good.

"I feel that closer co-operation at this level is both desirable and necessary. We must learn to work together before we can truly worship together."

Mr. King said the current series of inter-church services in Victoria and in other parts of Canada could be "a portent of great things to come."

In St. Andrew's Cathedral tonight at 7:30, Rev. Philip Hanley of the Roman Catholic church will be the preacher and the music will be led by the choir of St. John's Anglican Church, directed by Kenneth Ansdell.

On Sunday at 3 p.m. Anglican Archbishop Howard Sexton and Roman Catholic Bishop Remi De Roo will lead a massed service in the cathedral, supported by Victoria ministers of many denominations.

The principal speakers will be Dean Brian Whitlow of Christ Church Anglican Cathedral and Rev. William Klempa, DD, of St. Paul's Gorge Presbyterian Church.

Passages of scripture will be read by Rev. John Watson of First Baptist Church, Rev. Marvin Fowler of First United and Bishop Denys Rankilor of the Reformed Episcopal Church of Our Lord.

Also participating will be Rev. Samuel Parsons, DD, of Centennial United; Capt. Don McMillan of the Salvation Army, Rev. J. E. Bergbusch of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church and Rev. H. Gordon Walker, vicar of the Anglican Church of St. David-by-the-Sea, Cordova Bay.

$180 STOLEN FROM HOME IN OAK BAY

A break-in Thursday night at the home of J. D. Laurie, 585 Linkleas, yielded $180.

It was the second house burglary in Oak Bay in two days.

Police said the thief smashed a window to gain entry.

High-Living Youth Given 18 Months' Cooling-Off Time

By RON SUDLOW, Times Police Reporter

Wayne Thornington, 2518 Quadra, will be kept away from his expensive girl friends for the next 18 months.

He was sentenced today in central court to spend the next year and a half in the young offenders' unit at Oakalla Prison.

Thornington, 18, pleaded guilty to 15 break-ins at a hearing last week.

'SPENT ON GIRLS'

He stole $470 and police recovered only $3. He told detectives he "spent it all on girls."

Jan. 3 was his busiest night when he broke into seven businesses.

Magistrate William Ostler said that must be "some sort of record."

They were Minnie Beveridge, 764 Fort; Sebastian's of Victoria, 774 Fort; Marshall-Wells, 724 Fort, Molly's Cake Shop, 615 Yates; J. W. Bell, Chiropractor, 1024 Blanshard; Continental Pastries, 1026 Blanshard, and C. N. Montague, 1028 Blanshard.

Oct. 6 he burgled Roelefson's Restaurant, 769 Fort. Three weeks later he entered the Nutshell Restaurant, 627 Fort.

Nov. 4 he broke into Diversified Income Securities, 623 Yates, and Square Deal Shoe Repairs, 1224 Broad. He also entered the Fort-Cook Restaurant, 1031 Cook, Dec. 29.

MILLINERY STORE

Last week he broke into Rosalee Millinery Supplies, 1011 Blanshard, and Dutch Beauty Salon, 1009 Blanshard.

He was seen running from the beauty salon and police arrested him shortly after.

Magistrate Ostler said he "needed someone to take an interest in you.

"There is nothing smart about this sort of thing at all. It will just lead to misery."

BBB Checks Bible Salesman

A Bible salesman who canvassed Victoria during the pre-Christmas buying season is being checked out by the Better Business Bureau.

"We've had complaints from six people who paid the man $20 deposits on a $55 Bible

"I'm somewhat skeptical that the people will ever get their Bibles," Mr. Tindall said.

No one inquired about the man's credentials before buying, he pointed out.

An inquiry to the book club disclosed that anyone could purchase the Bibles in wholesale lots from the American firm, which denies any responsibility from that point.

Six-Month Term For Car Theft New Year's Day

A man with a lengthy police record was sentenced in city court today to six months for theft of an auto Jan. 1.

Court was told he had a record of possession of stolen goods, break-ins and theft dating back to 1955.

Police said he took a car belonging to James Walker, 2312 Belmont, and drove it about a block on the morning of New Year's Day.

The car stalled and the owner called police when Rowlinson ran from the scene.

Police found him in another vehicle about eight blocks away.

When his previous history was read to the court Magistrate William Ostler commented "Pretty gloomy record isn't it?"

Sweaters Theft Brings Jail Term

Clarence Book, no fixed address, was sentenced in city court today to six months for theft of two sweaters Tuesday.

He pleaded guilty to taking sweaters valued at $23.60 each from the Toggery Shop, 1329 Douglas.

MISERABLE SHACK on Uvic campus this week was designed to dramatize need for money to help an orphan in Viet Nam. But it hasn't worked that way. Christian clubs at university hoped to raise $750 from students, an average of 25 cents each. Up to this morning all they had got was $125. Motorcyclist, Pedestrian Termed 'Fair'

Two traffic victims are reported in fair condition in hospital today following overnight accidents.

Mr. McConnell was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital when he was thrown from his machine at Douglas and Dallas at 8:33 p.m Thursday.

LEG INJURY

Mr. Cherry was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital with leg and possible internal injuries after he was in collision with a car as he crossed Dallas from north to south Thursday at 5:12 p.m.

Police said motorist Kenneth Whitelaw Thompson, 1860 Crescent Road, was proceeding east on Dallas Road at the time.

Mrs. Russell Ruth Low, 76, of Fulford Harbor, was treated and released from hospital following a two-car collision Thursday afternoon at Richmond and Richardson.

Police said she was a passenger in a car driven by W. H. Russell Low, also of Fulford Harbor, as they drove south on Richmond.

They were in collision with a car driven east on Richardson by Marlyn Ingvaldson, 1783 Richardson, police said.

POLICE HUNT SNIPER IN ARMOURY DISTRICT

Tuesday night Mrs. Vera Cook, 31, of 1554 Hillside, reported to police she was hit in the head by a pellet.

Thursday night a second-storey window in the armoury was broken.

The shots are apparently coming from bushes or a vacant house across from the armoury.

30 VOLUNTEERS

City NDP Circulates Insurance Petition

The petitions, organized by the Victoria New Democratic Party, seek non-profit government car insurance.

"This is the only way we can bring attention to the government that any considerable body of citizens have given any thought to the matter," said association president Fred Bevis.

30 VOLUNTEERS

He said petitions will be circulated at shopping centres, the local motor vehicles branch and door-to-door by 30 volunteers starting Saturday.

"We would welcome more volunteers," he added.

The party has run off 1,000 petition papers each with space for 30 names, or a potential 30,000 names. More will be printed if needed.

"We hope it spreads to other parts of B.C.," said Mr. Bevis. "Any other place that is prepared to do something, we'll be glad to supply the forms."

The petitions follow three increases in car insurance in the past year — an average 27.7 per cent a year ago, 8 per cent last May and 10 per cent starting this month.

'GREAT CONCERN'

The petition form reads:

"We the undersigned residents of the province of British Columbia view with great concern the serious increases in the cost of automobile insurance during recent years.

"We believe that the premiums charged by the private insurance companies far exceed the amount necessary to operate a satisfactory provincial car insurance system.

"We therefore petition our provincial government to set up a publicly-owned and operated automobile insurance agency, forthwith, to provide adequate protection to the public at cost."

The move locally coincides with a national campaign by the Labour Congress for "automobile compensation boards," or government car insurance similar to Saskatchewan.

The CLC program to be carried out during February as the theme for its Citizenship Month, will involve many affiliated unions and all provincial federations of labor and local labor councils.

In Victoria, the campaign has been handed to the labor council's political education committee.

PROTEST SIGNS POSTED

Students Clash on Fee Decision

By SUE PELLAND
Uvic Correspondent

It started Thursday with an announcement from the students' council that students should pay their fees in full by this afternoon.

In an emergency "speakeasy" called at noon Thursday, council president Paul Williamson said:

"It was not fear that has forced this change.

Council originally advised the students to withhold $56 increase in fees until next Thursday.

The move was designed to dramatize to MLAs, who open their legislative session Thursday, that more financial aid is required for higher education.

Mr. Williamson said legal restrictions prevent the council from directly paying the $10 penalty levied on students for late payment of fees.

PAY PENALTIES

He promised an ad hoc committee would be set up to raise funds to pay the penalties. Penalties total $7,000 for the 700 students who have withheld so far.

But council member Gordon Pollard told students at the speakeasy:

"I see this as a complete sell-out. I feel we should at least hold out until Jan. 27."

This was the date originally set by council for payment of fees.

"If possible we should hold back payment until a revelation is made of next year's fee schedule," Mr. Pollard said.

Mr. Williamson denied that it is "a case of our backing out. It is a matter of not knowing what is going to be in the registrar's letter"

This referred to the letter the registrar will send Saturday to all students who have not paid. This letter may threaten immediate expulsion for all delinquent students.

Protest signs appeared today in the Students' Union Building asking students to pay their $56 in coins and $1 bills.

The signs advised students to make payment in "20 pennies, 96 nickels and 31 one-dollar bills."

The notices said that according to the Canada Currency Act, this is legal tender.

Bursar, Steve McQueen said about 250 students have paid their fees since Thursday at noon.

Lifejacket Picked Up Near Boat

Little Hope for Trio; Father Continues Hunt

By TERRY IZZARD, Times Marine Reporter

A lifejacket, inner tube and pail were picked up today only one-half mile from the spot where the boat of three missing Victoria boys was found late Thursday.

Although the articles had not been identified at press time, U.S. coast guard authorities said the lifejacket was of Canadian origin.

It was spotted in shallow water off Dungeness Point, 12 miles east of Port Angeles.

First to see it was Keith Hynds, uncle of one of the boys, who was flying over the area with Victoria Flying Services pilot, Al Rouat.

The 12-foot turquoise clinker boat was air-lifted to Victoria where it was identified by owner Ralph Wherry.

NO CLUES

The boat gave no leads as to the fate of its occupants.

It was upside down when found and the five-horse-power engine had been torn from its housing. The boat appeared to have been on the shore line some time judging by the pounding it had taken.

They are: Dennis Powell, 18, 1240 Newport; Ronald Hynds, 18, 2428 Dalhousie, and Wade Squire, 17, 2741 Dewdney.

BRANT-HUNTING

The three set out at midnight Saturday, saying they were going to hunt brant on Chatham Island two miles away.

But a classmate from Oak Bay High School said he had seen the three returning earlier from Chatham Island.

They had talked about going to San Juan to shoot rabbits. San Juan is 15 miles from Oak Bay Marina.

What they decided on may never be known.

The weather was good Saturday night.

But a veteran mariner today said a small boat could still get into trouble in the treacherous waters.

CROSS-CHOP

Or the boys could have hit a deadhead, panicked, and been plunged into the water.

Even a strong swimmer would have trouble surviving long in the 45-degree seas.

Search and Rescue headquarters in Vancouver Thursday called off an intense search involving aircraft, ships and small boats.

STILL LOOKING

Meanwhile, RCMP have issued a description of the trio to all local and Washington State police forces, in the event they should have tried hitch-hiking through the States.

However, there is no indication this is the case.

The U.S. Coast Guard said it is unlikely to continue the search Saturday unless specifically asked by RCMP.

The three boys have now been listed in the "Missing Persons" file.

Easy-to-Make Treat Is Delicious to Eat

By Penny Saver

Remember the days when you carried your school bag and little lunch bucket down the beaten path to school each morning? I recall that the highlight of my lunches were those days that mother used to pack delicious oatmeal cookies for my dessert. At that time, nothing could beat those sweet, chewy cookies.

Mother's oatmeal cookies served a better purpose than just lunch-time desserts. They were her favorite tea-time treats, and a delight to me to have with a glass of milk after school.

Now, you can make those same oatmeal cookies with no extra trouble at all. The trick is a cookie mix, that yields 120 big cookies. All you have to do is mix water with the packaged mix, drop the cookies onto a greased pan, and bake them from 10 to 15 minutes in a 375-degree oven.

To make frozen dough cookies, prepare the dough, and form it into rolls. Wrap these in waxed paper, and freeze. Cut into one-quarter-inch slices, and bake at 335 degrees F. for 19 to 22 minutes.

This remarkable mix sells for just $1.19. It is also available in a smaller quantity, for 69 cents, which yields 60 cookies.

If your family likes oatmeal cookies, they'll love oatmeal muffins. A packaged mix is priced at 59 cents, which is enough mix to make 24 large muffins. You add egg and water, beat, and bake in a 425-degree oven for 20 minutes. It's a simple process for such delicious results!

Many recipes call for squares of unsweetened chocolate. There is a new product that just needs to be added to your ingredients. It is an unsweetened chocolate-flavored ingredient that pours from a little envelope. One envelope is equivalent to one ounce of unsweetened baking chocolate, or one-quarter cup of unsweetened cocoa. A box containing eight of these envelopes sells for 59 cents.

Give Penny a call at 382-3131 if you want to know where she found these versatile time-saving mixes.

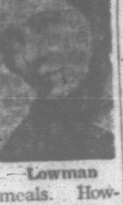
WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Munching for Dieters

Q. I am counting calories because I must lose weight, for health as well as good looks. I have read that a reducer can munch on celery sticks to her heart's content because celery has so few calories. I have found this to be a very filling and pleasant way to "fill up" between reducing meals. However, my doctor tells me that celery is too high in sodium for my special condition.



Lowman

A. Try carrot sticks, cauliflower buds and radishes.

Q. My mother is 65 years old. In the past six or eight months little bags have appeared around her eyes. I have noticed this same thing in women even younger than my mother. This is affecting her life in every way. Can anything be done about it?

A. These can be successfully removed by plastic surgery.

Q. I am 19 years old. Can you tell me if electrolysis on the breasts is dangerous? I have long dark hairs around the nipples and would like to have them removed.

A. See a competent skin specialist. This is not dangerous when properly done.

Q. I used to have a wonderful figure until about eight months ago. Now I have a roll of fat hanging over my belt. It is very embarrassing! I would like to get rid of it. Do you recommend certain exercises for the weight between my shoulders and my waist?

A. Since this roll appeared so suddenly I guess that you have gained at least 10 pounds. Count calories in order to lose. Also do the following exercise. Stand tall with your feet comfortably separated. Raise your arms sideward, shoulder height. Keep the arms in this position as you twist your trunk as far to the right as you can. Now twist to the left. Continue alternating left and right. Try to look at the back of the room with each twist.

Q. I'm five feet one and weigh 97 pounds. I have very skinny legs which look out of proportion to my body. To top that off, I have very big feet. Skinny legs and big feet just don't go together. Is there any way to make my legs larger (without eating) or my feet smaller?

A. You did not give me your age but even if you are only 15 you are about 10 pounds underweight. A gain will make your legs larger. You can also increase their size by developing the calf muscles. I can't help you with the feet.

BE SMART—

Speaker to Look At "New Quebec"

"An English-Speaking Quebecker Looks at the New Quebec" will be the topic discussed by Hon. George C. Marler when he addresses the Women's Canadian Club, Monday afternoon.

Government leader in the Legislative Council of Quebec, the speaker formerly served on the Montreal city council and as member of the Montreal Metropolitan Commission. His family has lived in Quebec for more than 150 years.

Mr. Marler was a Quebec MLA for 1942 until 1954 when he became minister of transport in the federal cabinet. He resumed an active role in Quebec provincial politics in 1960.

The meeting begins at 2:30 p.m. in the Empress Hotel ballroom.

Take the old standby, bacon, add hot cornbread, liberally spread with apple butter . . . it's guaranteed that "sleepy heads" will race to reach the breakfast table first!

OLD FAVORITE 'STAR' OF BREAKFAST TABLE

No Waste—Just Wonderful Taste

Building breakfast around bacon takes a flavorful turn with cornbread and apple butter as partners. Bacon pieces provide a decorative touch atop the cornbread and the drippings are used for flavor in the batter. It solves the problem of what to do with the drippings.

Since no bacon lover will be content with bacon as mere decoration, a platter full of crisp slices accompanies the cornbread. Soft-cooked eggs and fresh fruit or melon complete the breakfast plan.

Bacon, cornbread, and apple butter have been popular breakfast fare since the days of the early settlers. When packaged sliced bacon came on the market it was welcomed as one of the very first convenience foods. Modern processing and transportation bring the brown sugar cured bacon with the sweet smoked taste to breakfast tables across the country.

Cooking bacon by the panfull may be done either in the skillet or in the oven. When skillet or griddle are used there is no need to separate the slices in advance. As the cluster of slices start to cook they may be separated easily. When only two or three slices are to be cooked at one time, use the tip of a rubber scraper to peel off the desired number of slices before returning the balance of the package to the refrigerator.

Oven-baking bacon is a good choice when a large quantity is to be served. Slices are arranged on a rack set in a baking pan. Bake in a hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 10 to 12 minutes. No turning needed.

BACON CORNBREAD

One pound sliced bacon, 1 cup yellow cornmeal, 1 cup sifted flour, ¼ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese, ½ cup milk, 3 tablespoons bacon drippings, 2 eggs, beaten; apple butter or apple jelly.

Cut 4 slices of bacon into thirds. Partially cook bacon pieces. Remove partially cooked bacon pieces from skillet and drain off 3 tablespoons drippings.

Rub the bottom of a 9 by 9 by 2 inch baking pan with shortening.

Bake in a hot oven (400°F.) about 20 minutes.

Pan-fry remaining bacon and serve with cornbread. Makes six servings.

Fashion Revolution Seen In European Style Centres

ROME (AP) — New fashions are a mild form of divorce, a stylist once said, because they satisfy a woman's hunger for change.

If this is so, then Rome and Paris soon will be dishing out this form of freedom to a world of women.

This is the year every designer promises, or threatens, drastic style changes—fashion revolution, not mere evolution.

In this city the haute couture houses opened their showrooms to press and buyers for style parades lasting through the week.

The French have no peers in prestige, despite the growing renown of Italian couture houses such as De Barentzen, Pucci, Fabiani, Fontana and Galitzine. On the other hand, the Romans lead all of Europe in capturing dollars with apparel exports to North America.

Whether the status label in a woman's garment this spring will be French or Italian, the chances are the costume will be visible and geometrical, and there will be very little of it.

Designers north and south talk of splicing together two and three bold colors as if they were making flags instead of dresses. Only one thing is certain—the Mondrian-inspired geometrical costumes created by Yves St. Laurent last summer are out.

Andre Courreges, whose architecturally constructed apparel has left its mark on the works of many Italian designers, has bowed out of the race for the time being. But he has a new showroom and new backing, and plans to explode style ideas at a later date.

How high can a hem go before there is no dress at all? This spy-the-thigh mystery thriller will be taken up first by Italians who have always been the first to approve long-stemmed beauties. Short as Roman fashions will be, which is well above the knee in some cases, they will not be as short as forthcoming Paris styles or as some extreme North American fashions are today.

Tiziani, a Texas-born Roman, showed slim, neat Courreges-like costumes, in a patchwork of colors and wide-V-necklines.

Valentino sent his models out in a swish of feathers and a blinding glitter of beads for evening. Daywear will be slim and narrow through the shoulders.

Enzo, of Milan, has modified that kangaroo sleeve that held the arms close to the body, down to the elbows.

Carosa called his line much younger than before. But it followed the same soft, drapey tendencies of former seasons.

Biki, the house where Alain Renaud designs for Maria Callas, wanted to put women in horizontal stripes from necks to stockings.

Galitzine is said to have deserted her dizzying spiral designs of last season in favor of what she calls a kaleidoscope scheme — a juxtaposition of colored angels and squares.

Patric de Berentzen tagged his collection "sweet arrogance." His dresses flare dramatically.

Meanwhile back in Paris: Balenciaga indicated he is through with the sculptured costumes which have been his forte for five years. What's new is his secret.

Yves St. Laurent still loves the baby chemise.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Good Heavens!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law died over a year ago, and since then my husband insists on staying nights with his father—even on weekends. I know the old man isn't afraid to stay alone because I've heard him tell my husband he didn't need to stay. But my husband says we shouldn't leave the old man alone because his loneliness might lead to a second marriage, which might complicate legal settlements later. Abby, is this fair to me and the children? I have tried to be a good sport, but I find myself harboring resentments. Should I not complain, and at the same time look forward to the time when his father dies (he is 67 and in good health) so we can be a family again?

WIDOW WITH A HUSBAND

DEAR WIDOW: Of all the grasping, scheming, materialistic characters that have been brought to my attention, your husband takes the prize. Not only is he cheating you and the children, but he is cheating his father as well. If the gentleman (and he is NOT old at 67) has any interest in female companionship, he should be encouraged in it. Tell your husband to get on home where he belongs and to quit playing self-appointed guardian of his father's estate.

DEAR ABBY: I am a boy, 11, and my parents and I don't see eye to eye on my clothes. I have a long waist, and when they buy my pants, they can get my waist size, but they can't get my leg size in the same pair of pants.

When I get a new pair of pants I look like a midshipman from the war of 1812. I ask my mother to peg them for me, but my father says, "No. Boys look like girls in pegged pants!" Can you help me? DISTRESSED

DEAR DISTRESSED: You are helpless, but I have a few words for your mother: "Peg the kid's pants! Most boys look like girls today anyway."

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I'm making a mountain out of a molehill, but after being married to Jerry for only six months, one of his habits is really driving me out of my mind. When he sits down to eat (whether we are at home, dining out, or are guests in someone's home) the first thing Jerry does is to salt everything that requires seasoning, and I mean he salts it up, but good! Abby, he doesn't even TRY it first, he just pours the salt on. People look at him in disbelief. At the homes of friends, I'm sure they think there's something wrong with their food. Shouldn't he take a little taste first? And if he likes things saltier, add a bit more salt instead of doing it in these great broad gestures? Or am I wrong to criticize him?

JERRY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If your husband likes salt, he should be a little more subtle in applying it, especially when he's a dinner guest. And he should take a token taste first, even though he knows he's going to add more salt. His craving for salt may be embarrassing for you, but it could have more serious implications. Tell him to mention this to his physician.

DEAR ABBY: What can parents do about a situation like this? We have always taught our children to address adults as, "Mr." and "Mrs." We have some neighbors who are older than we are and they keep telling our children not to address them in that manner but as, "Jennie and Hank." Training children is hard enough nowadays without neighbors like these to complicate matters. Can you tell us what to do? We've always been on friendly terms with all our neighbors and don't want any trouble now.

ANNOYED PARENTS.

DEAR PARENTS: Tell your neighbors (privately, of course) that you have instructed your children to address adults as Mr. and Mrs., and when adults ask to be addressed by their first names, they confuse children and encourage them to disregard their parents' wishes. If you tell them in a nice way and ask for their co-operation, you'll have no trouble.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

British Editor Strikes Back

LONDON (Reuters)—The high priest of British men's clothing today struck back at Hollywood tailors by Devore's charge that British clothiers favor the effeminate look.

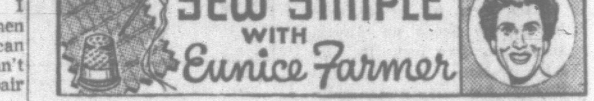
"If a man wants to show what sex he is, it would be better if he wore no clothes at all," declared John Taylor, editor of the trade bible, Tailor and Cutter, in the latest outbreak of a war of needle-wielders.

Taylor said Devore's "effeminate" charge was merely an American attempt to strike back after his magazine labelled President Johnson's style of dress as "adding up to a fat, round nothing."

Devore makes Johnson's shirts.

Devore, tailor to Jerry Lewis, Dean Martin and William Holden, said British tailors long have been trying to introduce styles that would make men look like their sisters.

Taylor replied that clothes are neuter and British fashions didn't need to make men look manly—they were men already.



SEW SIMPLE WITH Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer:

My husband asked me to write to you and ask you how to sew on a coat button that "hangs."

Mrs. R. T.

Dear Mrs. R.T.:

First may I tell you how delightfully and accurately you expressed the way a button should be sewn to a garment. What your husband is referring to is the shank that is necessary to keep the button from being sewn too close to the coat itself and not leaving enough room to be buttoned. If you gals would learn to sew on a button that "hangs," you wouldn't have to replace so many.

When you are sewing on a button, begin with a double thread and make a tiny stitch on the RIGHT side of the garment at the exact spot the button will be sewn. When thread is secure, hold button away from garment and thread the needle through a hole in the button. Next, take a stitch almost clear through the coat, etc. The distance between the button and the coat will depend on the thickness of the garment. For a topcoat leave about ¼ to ⅜ inch. You will be sewing through the button and then through the coat fabric in two separate operations. When you have done this four or five times, hold the button away from fabric and twist the thread counter-clockwise around loose thread which will form the shank of the button. Complete by fastening the thread through the shank. The best part of it is that you will merely see a small indentation and, at the most, a tiny stitch on the wrong side of the fabric. After the lower button is sewed on, button the coat before placing the second in position, etc., until they are all sewed on.

The forthcoming marriage is announced of Gail Christine Henderson, only daughter of Mrs. C. A. Henderson, 450 Simcoe Street, and J. A. Henderson, also of Victoria, to Mr. Kenneth Brian Mann, son of Mrs. H. B. Mann, 1759 Carrick Street, and the late Mr. J. A. Mann. The wedding will take place on Saturday, February 5 at 1 p.m. in St. Patrick's Church with Msgr. W. B. McKenzie officiating. (Chevrons Studio.)

Victoria PEO Council Arranges Party to Mark Founder's Day

Approximately 175 guests are expected to attend the PEO Sisterhood's Founders' Day coffee party, to be held in the Georgian Lounge of the Empress Hotel this coming Saturday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

It will celebrate the 97th anniversary of the sisterhood's founding which took place on Jan. 21, 1869, at Mount Pleasant, Iowa, when seven women students at Iowa Wesleyan College formed the initial college sorority. Later, when chapters were formed in various American and Canadian cities and towns, campus chapters were discontinued.

The sisterhood is a charitable and educational organization, mostly concerned with bringing women increased opportunities for higher education. This is achieved mainly through the PEO educational fund, Cottey Junior College for Women (a college founded in 1884 in Nevada, Miss., and owned and supported by the sisterhood since 1927) and the PEO international peace scholarship fund.

In relation with the latest project, the British Columbia chapters support three women students from India who are presently studying at the University of British Columbia.

Special guests at Saturday's party will be Miss Linde Ley, a first-year student at the University of Victoria, who received this year's bursary of $150 from the Victoria chapters, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Ley.

In the receiving line at the anniversary party will be Mrs. G. G. Gordon, Vancouver, president of the provincial chapter; Mrs. B. Varcoe, Victoria, provincial corresponding secretary, and Mrs. R. N. Young, president of the Victoria Presidents' Council.

Other visitors from Vancouver will include provincial chapter board members, Mrs. A. D. Bowker, Miss Bessie Lamb, Mrs. V. A. McPherson and Mrs. H. D. Gibb.

Spring flowers in the sisterhood's colors of yellow and white will decorate the head table at which will preside Mrs. S. Davidson, Mrs. Harold Campbell, Mrs. Wilfrid Johns and Mrs. Dave Turner, all past presidents of the provincial chapter. Serviteurs will be the presidents of the 12 Victoria chapters.

The party is an annual affair, arranged by the Victoria council. Mrs. Young is in charge of arrangements and Mrs. R. G. McKee has convened the entertainment program which will offer songs by Mrs. C. C. Wyatt with piano accompaniment by Mrs. C. Howard Denike. Others on the council's executive are Miss Doreen King and Mrs. R. Burkmar.

Corsages will be presented to members of the receiving line and sprigs of heather to those who have joined the sisterhood in the past year.

LONELY HEARTS TO BREAK

HARLOW, England (CP)—The Solitaire lonely hearts club here is on the verge of breaking up because most of the members are not lonely any more. Founder Alan Summers says that more than 30 couples met at the club and have married, so attendance has dropped from nearly 100 to about 20 people.

Installation Of Officers At Duncan

In spite of a decrease in membership, it was reported by retiring president, Mrs. A. R. Mann, that funds raised by the Duncan United Church Women had increased from $1,565 to $2,752 during the past year.

This was reported at the recent installation meeting of the organization. Rector of the church, Rev. R. B. Knipe, conducted the installation of Mrs. Keith Faught as president and Mrs. Knut Flakstad and Mrs. Arne Falconberg as vice-presidents.

Other members of the new executive include Mrs.. C. Torhjelm, recording secretary; Mrs. R. Brown, corresponding; Mrs. C. G. Powell, treasurer; Mrs. D. C. Morton, citizenship and social action; Mrs. G. Grier, education; Mrs. W. Kenyon, missionary; Mrs. J. C. Carr, visiting; Mrs. J. J. Gillatt, finance; Mrs. N. H. Gourlay, publicity; Mrs. J. W. Cowans, program; Mrs. P. Bruce, manse; Miss Ina Hutcheson, devotions; Mrs. W. Rambold, historian; and Mrs. A. Taylor, pianist.

The auxiliary was entertained at a dinner, served by the men's As One That Serves organization. Mrs. Alec Richardson proposed the toast to the men and AOTS president, Ernie Stafford replied.

Here From Mainland For City Ceremony

Mrs. R. Upsdell travelled from her Vancouver home to officiate at the installation ceremony of the Victoria Comitas Club, held Saturday evening in the Century Inn. Mrs. Upsdell is president of the inter-city Presidents' Council of the Comitas Club.

The annual meeting of the club was preceded by a dinner. Installed as the new executive were Mrs. Leo Bawif, president; Mrs. W. Hughes, vice-president; Mrs. K. Wiper, recording secretary; Mrs. W. Pendray, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. F. Tysoe, treasurer; Miss Ulah Jacobson, literary director; Mrs. H. Robinson; Mrs. R. C. Newby and Miss Verna Beck, conveners.

Following the installation, annual reports were given.

Sunday afternoon, members and guests gathered in the King George Terrace home of Mrs. Vincent Smith for a buffet luncheon to close the two-day session.

Sluggish Kidneys May Bring Restless Nights

If you "fight the pillow", toss and turn all through the night and don't really know why—perhaps here's news and help for you! One cause of such restlessness may be traced to sluggish kidney action. Urinary irritation and bladder discomfort may follow. The result can be backache and restless nights. This is when Dodd's Kidney Pills can help bring relief. Dodd's stimulate kidney action, helps relieve the irritated condition that causes the backache. Take Dodd's, and see if you don't feel better, rest better. Used successfully by millions for over 70 years. New large size saves money. Advt.

Referral Program Gets VON Review

A class, giving the outline of the hospital referral program which gives discharged hospital patients continued care in the home if needed, was conducted by Miss Betty Short to 20 new staff members of St. Joseph's Hospital recently.

Miss Short reported on this project at the recent meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses in Spencerhouse. It was noted that 80 hospital referrals had been made from district hospitals.

District director, Miss Elizabeth Riddell reported that 174 patients had been admitted during the past month and that 1,826 visits had been made.

Mrs. N. Jones discussed the forthcoming annual rummage sale to be held on Saturday, March 26 in the Victoria Ballroom. Anyone with rummage to donate is asked to contact the VON office, 383-9013, if they wish the articles to be picked up.

The buying of two new additions to the car fleet was announced by J. Cox.

Retiring president of the VON auxiliary, Mrs. R. T. Obee, introduced new president, Mrs. Daphne Scott. It was announced the auxiliary would sponsor a fashion show of hand-knits, "Fantasy in Wool," at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria on Monday, Feb. 21.

It was reported that the annual meeting of the VON would be held on Thursday, Feb. 10, in the St. John Ambulance Building, Pandora Avenue. Guest speaker will be Dr. R. M. Lane, who will discuss "Demography."

Her Life Is Dream Come True

By DINA STEWART

"She cares to care for us."

This is the way one white-haired old lady, a patient at the Gorge Road Hospital Rehabilitation Centre describes Mrs. R. L. Sjodin and it appears to be the general opinion of most of the patients in the physiotherapy ward of the hospital.

Petite Mrs. Sjodin is a ward aide at the hospital, "a practical nurse assigned to help in the physiotherapy department." But for Mrs. Sjodin, it's not just a job—it's a form of dream come true.

Ever since her teen-age years in Aklavik, N.W.T., Elizabeth Sjodin has wanted to be a nurse. Her interest was sparked when she worked in the local hospital during summer holidays. But there was a barrier—she had finished school in grade II and senior matriculation was required for nurses' training.

TRAINED IN HAMILTON

This sort of obstacle would be enough to finish most dreamers, but not Mrs. Sjodin! She worked her way to Hamilton, Ont., where she entered a class for a year to graduate as a certified nursing assistant—the equivalent of the British Columbia practical nurse.

Mrs. Sjodin worked in cities all over the country before coming to live in Victoria, where her husband, an able seaman in the Royal Canadian Navy, is stationed.

However, much as she likes Victoria, she has another dream, that of moving back to the north.

"I think Victoria is fine," she admits," but it's so green. Up north you can see the seasons change; there are trees and wide open spaces." Another reason Mrs. Sjodin wants to return is because of her need to serve.

"The hospitals are small and backward. If any extensive nursing is to be done, the patient has to be shipped out to a larger area, generally Edmonton. It's almost too bad if you've broken your leg."

Mrs. G. Havercraft, a patient in the Gorge Road Hospital Rehabilitation Centre, receives a smile and a helping hand from Mrs. R. L. Sjodin as she strolls down a hospital corridor aided by a "walker."

"In many places up north, there is only a district health nurse to serve a far-flung community," remembers Mrs. Sjodin. "I believe that I'd be needed up there in some capacity." Advancement, she thinks, will come with more money flowing into the area.

Her origin is something which gives Mrs. Sjodin many a chuckle.

NORTHERN INDIAN

An attractive brunette, Mrs. Sjodin recalls with a smile, "For some reason, people sort of automatically think that anyone who is from the north is an Eskimo! Actually, there's a real mixture of races up there. I'm an Indian but I've been taken for an Oriental, an Eskimo—even a Philippine!"

Mrs. Sjodin is of the Loucheaux Indians, a small tribe from the Mackenzie River area. She is one of the few members who have branched out from their northern home.

She gains immense satisfaction from her job. "It's a wonderful feeling when you see someone begin to move about by himself when only a few weeks before, most people would think he'd never walk again!"

Clubwomen's News

Guest Speaker—Of the $23,000,000 of "assisted loan funds" paid to new Canadians to date, $20,000,000 has been paid back by the new Canadians, noted Dr. J. Beattie McLean when he spoke to the Soroptimist Club of Victoria on "Ethnic Groups in Canada." Dr. McLean is a professor of the department of languages at the University of Victoria. He said that about one of every eight Canadians is foreign-born and more than 10 million are of English-speaking, Anglo-Saxon origin. Dr. McLean also noted that Canada, since the Immigration Act of 1962, now has immigration officers in 23 countries, to screen possible new Canadians by standards of training, skills and educational background. The speaker was thanked by Miss Nell Jones. It was voted to donate two looms to the Arbutus Craft Club of Victoria to develop weaving activities.

FLASHING LIGHTS of a new medical machine may take over many routine diagnostic chores that contribute to shortage and overwork of trained medical doctors, nurses and technicians. Japanese-produced "electronic doctor" is a type of computer with various symptoms programmed into it, and controlled by medical experts.

DEVELOPED IN JAPAN

'Do-It-Yourself' Electronic Doctor

Using computer programming, Japanese scientists have developed a sort of do-it-yourself method of diagnosing ailments.

The "electronic doctor" may be the answer to world-wide shortage of doctors, nurses and hospital attendants.

Medical experts pre-program the latest diagnostic machine with symptoms for a variety of illness.

To use it, a patient stands before a board of numbered switches, meters and lights that work together when he outlines his symptoms to produce a diagnosis. Skilled medical men actually control the machine, not the patients.

NEW PRODUCT

The electronic doctor is one of several new products of the Japanese electronics industry that play roles in the battle for healthy humans.

Its offshoot, medical electronics, is lending strong support to the skill, wisdom and intuition of the medical profession.

Many of the more recent advances in medical electronics and another science, biological engineering, were outlined at the Conference of the International Federation of Medical Electronics and Biological Engineering at Tokyo.

ARTIFICIAL HEART

Among these was an artificial heart devised by Assistant Professor Kazuhiko Atsumi and his associates at Tokyo University. About the size of a man's fist, the heart is made up of two layers, the exterior of plastic and the interior of soft rubber.

Compressed air is let in between the two walls of the heart to "pump" blood into circulation. An electronic computer operates the heart automatically. The device has been used experimentally to keep a dog alive for hour hours.

Another new device is an electronic hand which, like its missing counterpart, is capable of gripping. It is operated by electricity generated by movement of the wearer's muscles.

At many Japanese hospitals, electronic equipment keeps constant watch over the blood pressure, pulse, temperature, electrocardiograph, brain waves and other somatological phenomena of patients. It can "care for" six to 12 patients at a time.

The blood pressure, temperature, electrocardiograph and other relevant data regarding pre-operative and post-operative patients, are examined by remote control in central monitoring rooms at many hospitals.

'Don't Allow Provinces To Scuttle Medicare'

OTTAWA (CP) — The provinces shouldn't be allowed to scuttle medical care insurance, New Democrat Leader Douglas said in the Commons Thursday night.

"I want to plead with the prime minister not to allow this befogging of the issue by some people who seem more interested in keeping the insurance companies in medicare than putting progressive legislation in the statute books," Mr. Douglas said during debate on the throne speech.

Prime Minister Pearson laid down four excellent principles for a medical care program last summer, he said:

They were that the program should apply to physicians' services, that there should be universal coverage, that administration should be by provincial governments and that the plan should be transferable from province to province

Mr. Douglas said since then, in the face of opposition by Alberta Premier E. C. Manning, Mr. Pearson has "seemed to waffle" on the principles of universal application and government administration.

"There would be nothing more disastrous than a phoney medicare program," he said

PROMISES CO-OPERATION

The NDP would co-operate in expediting the work of the new session so that beneficial legislation could be implemented.

With the government again short of a majority despite a costly election last fall, members of Parliament would have to work out a system of government by consensus.

The NDP would continue to express its views. "We do not intend to be gagged by the fear of an election."

The NDP leader termed the Liberal throne speech a "potpourri of warmed-up leftovers" with one comforting note—references to the Economic Council of Canada report and the need for economic growth.

Mr. Douglas said the four keys to increased productivity are better education, manpower training, health services and social security.

The government must be prepared to provide universities and technical schools with enough money to eliminate tuition fees. Grants to provide facilities for the coming student explosion were also necessary.

SHOULD BE FREE

Education had to be free from Grade 1 as far as the student could go.

The NDP supported the government's proposed formation of a manpower department.

If retraining programs were to work, the government would have to provide allowances so that families of men in training wouldn't suffer hardship.

Mr. Douglas said he hopes the government will eliminate the loan system in the manpower mobility program and make outright grants to workers moving to jobs in other parts of the country.

SEARCH INTENSIFIED FOR N-BOMB

PALOMARES, Spain (UPI) — American authorities today stepped up operation "Broken Arrow"—the search for an atomic weapon mising in the crash of a U.S. nuclear bomber.

"Broken Arrow" is the code name for a special technique used by the U.S. Strategic Air Command (SAC) to deal with accidents involving nuclear arms.

U.S. Air Force authorities have given assurances that there is no danger of a nuclear blast or radiation contamination as a result of the crash.

But the massive search in this rocky, arid region went into its fourth day and appeared to be intensified.

Goods Stolen From Wreck

KAMLOOPS (CP)—An insurance adjusting company said Monday $10,000 worth of goods were stolen from a truck involved Sunday in a fatal collision.

Three persons were killed when their light truck collided with a tractor-trailer unit carrying 32,000 pounds of frozen produce.

A spokesman for the adjusting company said about 2,000 pounds of the larger truck's load was destroyed in the collision. About 20,000 pounds of the load was still in the vehicle when tow trucks arrived to remove it.

The rest of the load, valued at about $1 a pound, was apparently stolen by passers-by after the accident, he said.

OVERWEIGHTS WARNED OF DANGERS IN REPORT

MONTREAL (CP)—Two doctors at scientific conferences here Thursday warned of the dangers of being overweight.

One said badly overweight persons are more likely to suffer from diabetes.

The other said excess weight can hinder breathing, thus reducing the supply of oxygen the bloodstream receives and hindering discharge of unwanted carbon dioxide.

News of a possible big development during 1966 in kidney-transplanting also was given to one of the meetings, the annual conference of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada.

Sir Peter Medawar, a Nobel Prize winner, said "it's a safe bet" that a usable system for matching patients with donors in cases where human organs are to be transplanted will be available before the end of 1966.

The reference to diabetes and overweight came at the conference from Dr. G. A. Klassen, assistant professor of experimental medicine at Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital.

He said overweight persons show what he called "some degree of insulin block."

Diabetics usually are found to lack the insulin that comes in adequate supplies from the pancreas of normal human bodies.

Thus the lack of insulin accounts for diabetes in these cases. But in some other diabetics, there seems to be a supply of insulin from the pancreas and doctors have wondered, "Why the diabetes?"

Dr. Klassen said an explanation may lie in the muscles of the diabetic. For some reason, the insulin cannot push the glucose needed by the muscles beyond certain cells.

"There is a membrane quite thick, shielding the cells and so keeping the insulin out." He called this "an insulin block."

A report on breathing difficulties of the overweight was given to a conference of the Canadian Society for Clinical Investigation by Dr. Reuben Cherniack of the University of Manitoba's medicine department.

He said the "chest wall" of overweight persons tends to become stiff or hard for the breathing muscle to move. The result seems to be that signals go out from the chest wall to the brain and breathing is made faster and less deep.

Sir Peter Medawar, who won the Nobel Prize in 1960 for physiology and medicine, said the matching process in the transplantation field would be based on blood tests. It would be comparable to present methods of grouping donors into general types.

Sir Peter, director of Britain's National Institute of Medical Research, said the results of kidney transplants are still not good though "very much better than anyone five years ago would have dared hope."

Arts Debate Scheduled

Professor Tony Emery will spark a symposium on Town, Gown, and the Lively Arts with a talk tonight on the role of a university in the community.

The public is invited to attend the talk at 8 p.m. in the faculty lounge on the Gordon Head campus of the University of Victoria.

For a registration of 50 cents, members of the public may also take part in group discussions to be held Saturday at the Phoenix Theatre on the campus.

This Saturday session will begin at 9:30 a.m. with a panel discussion on the university and the fine arts. Panelists will be three members of the university's fine arts faculties: Professor Boyce Gaddes, music; Carl Hare, theatre, and Donald Harvey, art.

The afternoon session at 2 p.m., will feature painter Richard Ciccimara, actor-director Tony Nicholson, and Robin Wood of Victoria School of Music.

5 DEATHS AND FUNERALS

WHITHAM—In Victoria, on Friday, Jan. 21, 1966, Mrs. Beatrice C. Whitham, aged 90 years, of 2707 Estevan Avenue, a resident of Victoria for the past 15 years, born in Worrall, Yorkshire, England. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. P. Selman at home, and Mrs. W. Lister of Sheffield, England; also a number of nieces and nephews.

Private services will be held in McCall Bros'. FAMILY CHAPEL, Main Office Bldg., on Monday, Jan. 24. Followed by cremation. (Flowers gratefully declined.)

8 CARD OF THANKS

Mere words can never express our extreme gratitude for the many prayers on behalf of Jack and ourselves, for the many acts of kindness on the part of friends and neighbors, the messages of sympathy in this time of the bereavement of our beloved husband and brother, Jack H. Mooney. Sincere thanks to Dr. W. Graham and staff of St. Joseph's, Dr. Brown and other doctors and nurses of D.V.A., Capt. McMillan of the Salvation Army, Chaplin's Funeral Chapel, and members and friends of Alano Club.

Sadly missed by: Mrs. Betty Mooney and girls.
—Millard H. Mooney and family.

I wish to thank the attending doctors, nurses and orderlies at the Veterans' Hospital, Medical 1B, for all the kindness and attention shown my husband, Harold, during his illness. —Cathie Bunting.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BELCHER—In loving memory of Derrick (Butch) Belcher, who passed away (suddenly) on Jan. 21, 1963.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by his wife, Alice, Mom and Dad and brother Frank.

MOBEY — In cherished and loving memory of our dear Dad and Grandfather, Mr. Percy Mobey, who passed away suddenly Jan. 21, 1965.

God gave us a wonderful Dad,
A Dad who never grew old,
He made his smile of sunshine,
He moulded his heart of pure gold.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
To make others happy was his life's desire.
Dad gave us love in fullest measure,
Care, devotion, memories to treasure.
He shared our hopes, our joys, our fears,
Thank you, Dad, for those most precious years.

—Still loved and still missed and very dear. Sadly missed by his daughter Gladys, son-in-law Cec and grandchildren Ron and Bev.

MOBEY—In loving memory of my dear husband, Percy Mobey, who passed away January 21, 1965; also dear Ronnie who died Nov. 13, 1932.

It's not the tears at the graveside shed
That shows how a heart is torn,
But the lonely tears of the after years,
And a sorrowing silently borne.
At night when all is silent
And sleep forsakes my eyes,
My thoughts are on the lonely grave
Where my dear husband lies.

—From his loving wife Ethel and son Lawrence.

BRIDGE LESSON

By JACOBY AND SON

When there is competitive bidding you don't expect all tables to produce the same result.

East and West held most of the high cards. North and South had the spade suit and better distribution.

Opening lead—♥K.

North and South have no trouble making three spades, but no way to make more. East and West can make three diamonds only. Most North-South pairs in the trials bid four spades and usually were doubled. In any event they went down one trick.

There were fireworks at one table. The bidding went as shown in the box. For awhile East was in five diamonds doubled and would have gone down two tricks for a big loss in match points. Then North came to East's rescue and ran to five spades.

The only consolation for poor South was that he was able to remark, "Why should we set them when we can be set ourselves?"

The bidding is worthy of considerable comment. South's jump to three spades was intended to crowd the bidding and West decided that if South wanted to crowd the bidding he would go right along with him. West did not really think that his partner would make five diamonds but he was pretty certain that North and South would take the hook and bid five spades.

West was mighty disappointed when North passed. He was downright unhappy when South doubled but then the sun came out for him. North did not stand for the double.

North's five-spade bid was terrible. The only excuse for taking your partner's high-level double out is that you expect to make your own contract. North did not expect to make five spades and should have trusted his partner's judgment.

The master's choice — the wife's dream. Located in a select area of good homes this extremely well-constructed and well-planned three-bedroom executive home will appeal to the most discriminate. Situated beside a babbling brook providing trout fishing right at home. Close to schools, transportation and shopping. This home is tastefully decorated throughout. The exceptionally large wall-to-wall carpet living room with roman tile raised hearth fireplace opens through double glass doors onto a lovely sundeck. Large dining room and bright electric cabinet kitchen with fan. Separate utility off kitchen with washer and dryer facilities. The ensuite master bedroom also opens onto the sundeck. Double vanity sink in bathroom. Full high basement with 2 separate entrances. Planned for 3-room suite, rumpus room and workshop. To appreciate this home it must be seen. Meet me there Saturday.

Here's a home that will sweep you emotional buyers off your feet. A CLEAN CUT, rather UNUSUAL EXTERIOR in post and beam is enhanced by VELVETY lawns, ROSE BUSHES, young shrubs and trees. DOUBLE carport is only a covered step to front door and an attractive SLATE entrance. Four steps to a front room that seems to hold its arms out to you, ended by a congenial RAISED HEARTH fireplace and floored with GLEAMING HARDWOOD through the DINING ROOM to the kitchen threshold. Kitchen has OODLES OF CUPBOARDS and shelves and is large enough for that informal family breakfast. UTILITY is only a step from the kitchen with ROOM FOR AUTOMATIC WASHER AND DRYER. SEPARATE DEN-FAMILY ROOM HAS 3-PIECE SHOWER BATH and double sliding glass doors to a GRASSY PATIO. OPEN STAIRWAY from living room leads to THREE GOOD-SIZE BEDROOMS with EXTRA LARGE CLOSETS and hardwood floors and all three are only a robed step to the DELIGHTFUL VANITY BATH. Don't miss this Friday, 2 to 4, and Saturday, 12 to 6. P.S.: This was reduced from $23,900.

IN A MONKEY TREED CHILDPROOF HOME

In amazingly good condition is this older character home considering the owner had 7 children here. Immediate occupancy is available as the home is vacant and vendor is desperate to sell. Price has been dropped from a reasonable $13,200 to the ridiculous for a quick solid sale. Exterior is white shingle, roof is duroid, heating is new and automatic, plumbing is copper, wiring is 100 Amp and hot water is new, gas fired and glass lined. Grounds need very little attention. Vestibule type entrance through attractive granite pillars, leads to small red carpeted den with fireplace. Living and family room have expensive rolled vinyl floors for easy care and dining room is very large with built-in china closets. Kitchen is large and needs chipping and painting but includes excellent gas stove. Bedrooms are upstairs and all have mammoth closets.

For the busy executive and his family — a new home with an excellent plan — so designed that traffic doesn't trek through the formal areas unless you desire. A den near the entrance keeps business guests of father away from the bridge tables mother might have in the living room. There's a family room for the younger set. Also there's a large basement that can be developed into a recreation room or more bedrooms. Come and see this excellently finished home with the outstanding plan in Upper Lansdowne. Asking $33,900. Andy Stephen Looks at TV

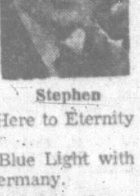
Television production, like motion picture production before it, is not a New York or Hollywood product anymore. More of the work is being carried out away from these centres.



Stephen

New York was once the point of origin of nearly all of television programs available. Now, less ahan 30 per cent of the programming comes from there.

At least four programs are being made in England. These are Secret Agent, currently on CBC-TV and CBS-TV, Court Martial, Avengers and The Saint.

Rome is the cenrre for an upcoming series titled Three Coins in the Fountain and Hawaii for Attack, From Here to Eternity and Hawaii Calls.

ABC-TV's second season entry of Blue Light with Robert Goulet was partially shot in Germany.

I Spy has been on location in Hong Kong, Japan and other far eastern areas. Next season, it will be centred in Mexico, South America and Europe.

Seaway is filmed along the famous water course. The Littlest Hobo and Forest Rangers were also two made-in-Canada products now being enjoyed on the international market.

CBS-TV's Jackie Gleason Show originates in Miami and most of the work on Flipper is also done there.

The more shows shot away from the production centres of Hollywood and New York reduces the jobs available for the craftsmen and artists who depend upon the industry for work.

TID BITS: Golf with Sam Snead, a series of 13 half-hour lessons by the nattily-dressed professional, begins on NBC-TV March 26 . . . Christian ethics in the modern world are the subjects of 12 successive programs on NBC-TV's Frontiers of Faith series starting Feb. 6 . . . Two long-running CBS-TV comedy series face the axe for low ratings. They are Hazel and My Favorite Martian.

CBS-TV has signed a deal with the National Football League for exclusive rights to the NFL's playoff bowl for the next two seasons. The network and the league, recently signed an agreement on the regular season's games.

CHERRY POINT
SUPERB WATERFRONT
COUNTRY ESTATE

Located 28 miles north of Victoria on paved roads with tremendous SEA VIEWS from many locations on the property, it is my pleasure to offer exclusively one of the very few compact and well maintained estates left on the Island.
Comprising 162.81 acres, of which approx. 100 acres are cleared and under cultivation, this property gently slopes back from some 600' of SEA FRONTAGE with glorious views looking east over Satellite Channel, Salt Spring Island, Saanich Peninsula, and some of the smaller Gulf Islands.
Completely fenced and crossed fenced, the land is presently carrying a herd of Highland cattle and has an excellent range of machinery, nearly new barns and irrigation equipment. With own water rights the irrigation system is controlled from spring, dam and pond with a million-gallon-a-day flow.
The delightful 6-bedroomed residence has 2,650 sq. ft. of living space in excellent decorative order and completely modern. Many extras include dishwasher, range, washer-dryer, all built in, and wall-to-wall carpeting.
HEATED SWIMMING POOL with patio area and dressing rooms, 4-CAR CARPORT, hard surfaced driveway, cement curbs. Lawn, fruit trees and garden area. Full price $120,000 complete. I could go ON and ON but I am running out of space, full details to REALLY interested purchasers from MRS. CHAWORTH - MUSTERS, 743-9347, P. R. Brown & Sons, 385-3435.

'B.C. Not Only Province With Ferries'

OTTAWA (CP) — Harold Winch (NDP-Vancouver East) charged the government today with a "direct discriminatory policy" in not providing shipbuilding subsidies to the provincial-owned company operating the British Columbia ferry services.

Transport Minister Pickersgill said the allegation is not true. Since the subsidy did not apply to any provincially-owned company, there was no discrimination against B.C.

Mr. Winch asked Mr. Pickersgill whether he was aware that B.C. is the only province in the ferry field.

"Not only am I not aware of it," replied the minister, "it is not a fact."

Moroccan Minister, Police Named in French Warrants

PARIS (Reuters) — The already strained relations between France and Morocco today seem close to a diplomatic breach because of latest French moves over the Mehdi Ben Barka affair.

Judge Louis Zollinger, heading French investigations into the Moroccan opposition leader's mysterious disappearance 12 weeks ago, Thursday night issued international arrest warrants for the Moroccan interior minister, Gen. Mohammed Oufkir, and two senior Moroccan police officials.

Oufkir and the two others—Maj. Mohammed Dlimi, head of the security police, and Miloud Chtouki, a senior police official—all were in Paris the day after Ben Barka was kidnapped Oct. 29 on a boulevard in the French capital.

French authorities today awaited Morocco's reaction to Zollinger's order.

President de Gaulle already has placed responsibility for the kidnapping squarely on "foreign" elements. Thursday night's announcement mentioned Morocco officially for the first time in an affair which already has blown up into a national scandal here.

BARKA

STILL AWAITS ARREST

The French public prosecutor Thursday recalled that an international warrant also was issued for the arrest of Georges Boucheseiche, to whose house Ben Barka was taken after being kidnapped.

Boucheseiche, reported to have flown to Morocco the next day, still has not been arrested.

A number of French police and secret service officials already have been arrested or dismissed in connection with the kidnapping and De Gaulle has ordered a thorough overhaul of French police services with proposals for reform.

Meanwhile, Louis Souchon, head of the French narcotics squad and one of the police officials under arrest, Thursday repeated his allegations that high French officials knew of plans for the kidnapping before it took place.

One of the officials Souchon named was Jacques Foccart, secretary of the president responsible for African affairs.

MAGISTRATE TO JUDGE NAME CONTEST

CAMPBELL RIVER—Magistrate, author, historian and conservationist Roderick Haig-Brown will be chairman of a committee to pick winning entries in a school contest to find a name for the three-day celebrations in May.

The celebrations, May 19 20 and 21, will mark the inauguration of the new government ferry service between Kelsey Bay and Prince Rupert and also will honor district pioneers.

Students in all grades are competing for $60 in cash prizes which will go to the three top entries. Each student must include a paragraph or essay along with his or her entry telling why they decided on a certain name or theme for the celebrations.

BRIDGE RESULTS

Winners of the weekly game of the allmasters duplicate bridge club played Thursday at Broughton club rooms were: N/S: 1, Les Stewart and Tony Marsh; 2, Marjorie Crookston and Dick Lipsey; 3, Anne Dye and Birdie Duprau; 4, Laura Tingley and Joan Williams.

Winners of the junior bridge game were: N/S: 1, Bryan Baxter and Vana Warholm; 2, Kay Clark and Gladys Cropp; 3, Ed Harris and Maureen Rabey; 4, Judy Langstaff and Una Orme; 5, Ross and Iola Riches.

E/W: 1, Keith Stapleton and Bill Lamb; 2, Yvonne Cummings and Dorothy Barclay; 3, Kathleen Jackson and Alice Chaloner; 4 and 5 (tie), Mabel Ness and Rose White, Homer Kolb and Frank Christian.

The team of Liz Warren, Les Stewart, Tony Marsh and Jack Goldie posted a 75 per cent comparable to break a tie and win the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club's coveted Team-of-Four award from Velma Acres, Phil Hagel, Cam Cameron and Birdie Duprau last Tuesday night at the club's premises at 1012 Douglas Street.

Twenty-one tables contested the event.

Sweeps Handler Fined

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Virginia Southwell, 48, was fined $750 for handling sweepstake tickets. She was fined after she admitted a conviction in 1961 for disposing of sweepstake tickets.

New Education Aid Backed by Prober

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Vincent W. Bladen, who officially recommended increased federal support for universities, said Thursday the government's $3 increase in the basic per-capita grant is "just the beginning" of the kind of aid needed.

Dr. Bladen, arts and science dean at the University of Toronto, headed a royal commission into university education which made its report to the government last October.

The government has pledged to increase to $5 from $2 its per capita operating grants to universities.

"This is just the beginning of something which will have to be very very much bigger," Dr. Bladen said.

The Bladen commission recommended an additional $5 per capita for each of the next 10 years for capital costs and large increases in federal grants for research. It also recommended that the basic operating grant should be increased by $1 a year above its initial 1966 level of $5.

Dr. Bladen said he hoped provincial governments would press for the other increased grants when they meet federal authorities to discuss university financing.

Eye Injuries Rival Strikes For Putting Men Out of Work

Almost as many B.C. workers suffered eye injuries in 1965 as went on strike in 1964.

This is disclosed in a bulletin from the Workmen's Compensation Board and the 1964 annual report of the labor department.

The compensation board said the eye injury total last year reached 550 claims, all of which involved layoffs of more than three days.

In addition, more than 8,000 eye injury reports with less than three days layoff have been received "of which a substantial percentage will require medical attention."

The number of persons affected by strikes in 1964 was 9,503.

In the preceding four years combined, fewer persons were involved in strikes than were injured in the eye last year.

100,000 MAN DAYS

The time lost due to eye injuries in the last five years is more than 100,000 man days.

The Workmen's Compensation Board said since 1961, there has been a 43 per cent increase in the number of time-loss eye injury claims.

"These disturbing statistics call for greater action in eye injury prevention in 1966," said the board.

"This action must start with the realization by management and workers alike that eye injuries can be prevented by the use of protective eye shields in environments hostile to eye safety."

The board said such protection is "readily appreciated" in machine shops and welding, but gets only "token acceptance" in many fields of work including carpentry, plastering, falling and bucking.

HOT HAZARDOUS

An analysis by the board pointed out the surprising fact that most eye injuries are caused to workers whose occupations would not generally be considered hazardous.

In the trade and service industry, 126 time-loss cases were reported. Among the most-injured in this group were maids, surveyors, gardeners and kitchen help.

Other occupations with a high time-loss injury rate included longshoreman, pipefitters, electricians, mechanics, sheet metal workers, laborers, car mechanics, garage attendants and linemen.

70 WELDERS

Perhaps surprisingly, 70 welders suffered eye injuries.

"Here is an occupation where danger to the eye is particularly obvious and where eye protective devices have been developed to near perfection," said the board.

"Yet most of the 70 cases occurred because those devices were not properly used or not used at all."

Since 1960, the Workmen's Compensation Board has paid out more than $2 million in compensation for treatment and wage loss following eye injuries.

In 1965 alone, the bill will be nearly $500,000.

The board said the irony of the present situation is the ease and low cost of providing protection against possible eye injuries.

PREVENTABLE

"Most eye injuries are wholly preventable by the use of the simplest mechanical devices and by the application of good, sound common sense," it said.

"Current eye injury statistics highlight the need for a genuine re-appraisal of thinking by both management and workers who are involved in occupations where a potential danger to eyesight is involved."

Sea Hero Continues Good Deeds

MONTREAL (CP) — Capt. John Letho of the Finnish freighter Finnpulp recently honored by the city of Miami for his work in rescuing 93 passengers from the cruise ship Yarmouth Castle, was credited Thursday with saving his own and two other ships from serious damage by ice in Montreal Harbor.

An ice pack from eight to 10 feet thick broke off up river from the Finnpulp and headed toward the piers where the Finnpulp and a Russian and Danish ship were docked.

The pack was spotted by the Canadian coast guard icebreaker Ernest Lapointe, clearing up an ice jam nearby, and she sounded an alarm.

Capt. Letho heard the signals, saw the problem, and managed to get up steam and change the alignment of his vessel to divert the ice pack away from the moored ships. The Finnpulp suffered only two broken shore lines.

Herb Land, chief engineer of the St. Lawrence River ship channel who was aboard the Finnpulp at the time, said there was little doubt the Finnish captain's manoeuvre prevented serious damage to his own vessel, the Russian freighter Segezha and the Danish ship Anita Dan.

Disturbance Conviction Thrown Out

DUNCAN — A magistrate's decision and sentence were quashed in county court here Wednesday.

The conviction was against Peter Craighead Wadsworth for allegedly causing a disturbance on Labor Day weekend at Maple Bay.

Judge L. A. Hanna, of Nanaimo, said: "In the original charge the scene of the incident was given as Beaumont Avenue, but it took place on a landing wharf and not near Beaumont Avenue at all."

The judge also noted that witness accounts differed and identification was not fully established.

Bomb in Parcel

ADEN (Reuters)—A bomb in a parcel similar to one which injured Robin Thorne, Britain's acting assistant high commissioner, Monday was found in the mail Wednesday. It was addressed to another of the high commission staff in this British colony in Southern Arabia, Nigel Pusinelli, director of establishments.

Man Jailed For Threat In Letter

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP)—A young white Rhodesian was sentenced today to one year in prison for sending an anonymous letter threatening to kill Prime Minister Keith J. Holyoake of New Zealand.

The magistrate sentencing Edward Samuel MacDonald, 21, a woolspinner who has lived in New Zealand for three years, also recommended his deportation to Rhodesia on his release.

Police said in evidence MacDonald hoped to sway Holyoake into supporting Rhodesia's declaration of independence.

MacDonald also was sentenced to nine months on four charges of burglary and on a charge of being in possession of burglar's tools, the sentence to be served concurrently with the one-year term.

His counsel said MacDonald was "very patriotic" and had committed burglaries to obtain money to take his mother and stepfather back to Rhodesia.

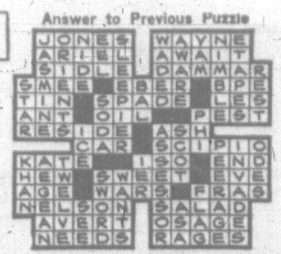
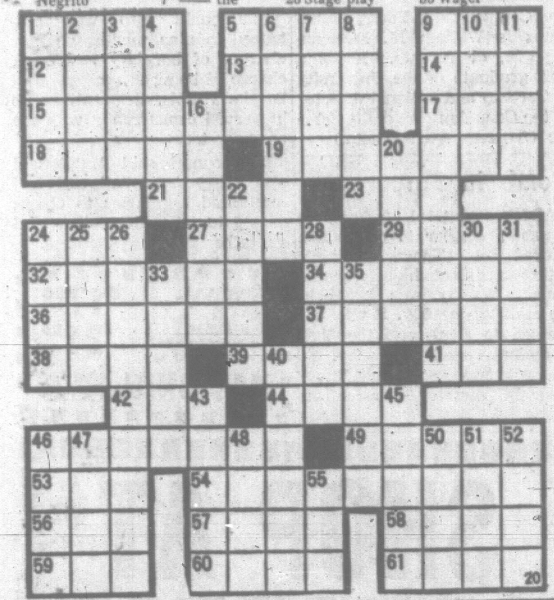
Answer to Previous Puzzle





HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable Books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Martin Teifeld, age 10, of Hastings, Minn., for his question:

Starfish love shellfish and often raid oyster beds in tidal waters. New England fishermen chopped the greedy raiders in halves and threw them back in the sea. Later, they found their problems doubled, for the halves of a severed starfish eventually became two starfish.

The starfish is a small miracle of the ocean. As a rule, he is shaped like a five or a 10-pointed star, but he is not a true fish. He shares his remarkable features with a group of animals called echinoderms, a term that refers to their spiney skins. He has no head, but he copes very well with harsh and risky conditions in the sea. He travels on dozens of strange feet, all out of step with each other. At the tip of each arm he has an eyespot that sees dim images of light and shade. Each tip also has sensitive feelers that can test the water's temperature and chemicals.

His most remarkable feature is called regeneration. In biology, regeneration is a creature talent for regrowing lost parts. You might suppose that his arms are limbs and the regeneration of a limb seems amazing, if not impossible. The arms, however, are extended parts of the starfish's body. We cannot regenerate a lost limb, let alone a major part of the human body. But the starfish can.

Regrows Lost Limbs

He often loses a limb as he stalks among his victims, the clams and oysters. The lost portion is left behind and the body of the starfish immediately sets about replacing it. A small bud appears, growing longer each day, and after a few weeks the regeneration is completed. He can regenerate two, three, four or even five lost arms.

The arms of the starfish are set around a central disk. This contains his mouth and stomach and systems of tubes radiating to the tips of his arms. Surely, you might suppose, this central disk is too vital to be regenerated, but if a portion of the disk is lost, it regrows itself. If an arm is torn loose with a part of the disk, this separated section grows into a whole new starfish. Meantime the original starfish has replaced its lost parts.

The starfish walks on rows of tiny tube-feet on the underside of his arms. They are operated by circulating sea water and act as suction cups. The arms and tube-feet are strong enough to pull open the shells of an oyster. This is a risky way to make a living and the victim often snaps his shell shut, nipping off one or two of the starfish's arms.

* * *

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Ronnie Schmick, age 10, of Calgary, Alta., Canada, for his question:

What are constellations?

You can pick out these starry patterns in the night sky, one by one. One reminds you of a square, and another looks like a crown. Most of the constellations looked the same in ancient days when they were named. But astronomers tell us that through the ages they change, though not enough to notice in 100 lifetimes.

We get a view of the vast stretches of space when we look up at the sky. And space is populated with fiery stars, near and far in all directions. When we see a constellation, we are looking at the star population in a certain section of outer space. The stars that abide in other sections of space are seen in groups as other constellations.

YOUR HEALTH

Mental Depression Is Common Disease

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

One of the commonest questions which I have to keep asking many a woman who comes into my office is, "Why do you look so sad? What terrible thing has happened in your life?"

Oftentimes then it turns out that the woman is depressed—she is melancholy — and her sadness is not due to any sorrow or disaster. Often she says, "I was born to be depressed; my mother went into a depression shortly after I was put into her arms," or "My brother committed suicide," or "My uncle Bill was so unhappy that he drank himself to death."

Alvarez

Often I learn all I need to learn about the person simply by asking, "Did you ever think of suicide?" And usually the answer is, "Yes, I think of it all the time," or "I tried it once."

* * *

These thousands of people feel so unhappy that they have a tendency to be self-destructive—to injure or hurt themselves, mentally or physically, in one way or another. What is sad is that when they come into a doctor's office, they rarely say, "I am terribly depressed"; they say, "I have a pain in my abdomen"; or "I am slightly nauseated"; or, "I feel tired and toxic, as if there were something terribly wrong with me."

Then, if the examination turns up a silent gallstone or a silent, knobby womb, the woman gets operated on—and usually that makes her much worse.

Like many physicians, I went through four good years of training in an excellent medical school, where I never heard a word about mental depression — which is one of the commonest diseases there is. In his splendid book on this subject, "Recognizing the Depressed Patient," my friend Dr. Frank Ayd of Baltimore said truly depression is the disease most commonly misdiagnosed today. Why do we doctors so often fail to think of it or to diagnose it? Because we were never trained to notice the sadness in the faces of these patients; also, we were never told that a common cause of abdominal pain, with feelings of fatigue and ill health, is a mental depression.

* * *

Also, of late, young doctors are being trained to ask, and find out, that a sad-faced person has perhaps a mother, an aunt, and a borther in a mental hospital.

Some depressed people suffer so much from it that they keep demanding and getting big operations. Before I saw her, one of my depressed patients — between trips to a mental hospital—had removed, in succession, her appendix, an ovary, her womb, the other ovary, half of her large bowel, and her gallbladder. Then for years she had a series of operations for "adhesions."

The suffering of depression is almost so unbearable that no wonder many of the patients attempt suicide to end it all. Because the patient so greatly craves relief, I have never been able to see any sense in his paying a psychiatrist to urge him to "snap out." It is no use telling the man that there is really no reason why he should be so blue; he knows that.

SOLUTION MONDAY

U.S. Novelist Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Kathleen Norris, author of more than 80 romantic novels and a militant feminist, died Tuesday at the San Francisco home of her son, Dr. Frank Norris. She was 85.

Ear Moved To Lower Habitat

ERIE, Pa. (UPI) — A 23-year-old Erie woman, who last week lost her right ear in an auto accident, has had the organ implanted in the wall of her abdomen until she is sufficiently well to receive a graft.

Doctors at St. Vincent's Hospital here made an incision in the abdomen of Mrs. Kathy Bobango and inserted the ear in a postion to receive a continuous supply of blood.

The head of the team of specialists which performed the insertion said the ear, which had been stripped of its epidermal layer, thus exposing the cartilage, could remain functional indefinitely.

Mrs. Bobango also suffered a fractured back and it will be several weeks before she is in condition to undergo plastic surgery.

NO AMERICANS, PLEASE!

We Have Know-How, Let's Go It Alone

By ELIZABETH FORBES

My telephone has rung more often than usual in the last couple of days. Each time, urgent voices have assailed me with the need to "do something" about the decision of the Greater Victoria Confederation-Centennial Committee to hire a United States company to handle the year-long celebrations in 1967.

Forbes

This committee may have valid reasons for its decision. There may be many points in favor of the company from across the line.

But the voices that have assailed me on the telephone feel there are just as many arguments—if not more—against bringing in an American company to do our work for us.

They point out—and righly so—that this is Canada's centenary. That in 100 years of progress we must surely have evolved the "know-how" to plan and produce the spectaculars our Canadian citizens would like to see and to remember as part of that centenary.

* * *

They mention the talent we have in this city. The theatrical groups, the original ways of producing, the well-trained dancers and their equally outstanding choreographers.

They pour names at you to prove we have men and women in the entertainment field, any one of whom, if entrusted with the 1967 celebrations program, could do a good job.

These voices on the telephone have long memories. They remind you that the last time we hired an American company to push us through a centennial year the company twisted and turned our history until it was hard to recognize some of it as our own.

Reason given was that the ordinary course of history does not lend itself to pageantry.

* * *

Nevertheless, even in pageantry, it should not be necessary to distort to a point where an audience may react favorably to the color and the noise and still hide a snicker behind its hand at what it looks upon as pure ignorance.

Memories are also long enough to remember that the young men sent here to represent the American company came with a pre-written pageant script in their hands.

With the same outline, mind you, that had been used in United States cities where special pageants had been produced by that particular company and in that same year.

All it was proposed to do was dub in some local incidents and a lot of local actors and actresses and put the show into production.

* * *

One incident, one of my callers said, was the fact that they intended to place our early Indians in teepees (like the Indians of the western plains in their own country).

Teepees, snorted the voice on the telephone, were not used on this coast.

One of the biggest was the fact that although these young men were competent, they had no real knowledge of our country, our history or our people.

It placed them at a serious disadvantage. If it had not been for the assistance of local men and women who were determined the pageant should not fail—and that it should have some resemblance to reality, they would never have overcome that disadvantage.

* * *

We do have men and women here who are well qualified to handle the 1967 centennial celebrations program — men and women with imagination, originality and the ability to create.

We have theatrical groups. We have historians who know the story of Canada's hundred years, the highlights that bring that story to life and the deeds that give it color.

Put them all together and we'd have a 1967 centennial year program of which we could really be proud.

It has been said that the Greater Victoria Confederation-Centennial Committee may take another look and cancel the decision it has made.

If it does, let's hope it gives its second nod to Canada and not to the United States.

'People Complaining Over U.S. Promoter'

People are angry over the appointment of the John B. Rogers Co. to organize 1966-67 centennial celebrations in Victoria, Chamber of Commerce assistant manager Lou Worrell said Thursday.

He said numerous people had phoned or stopped him on the street complaining about the decision of Greater Victoria centennial committee Tuesday to hire an American firm.

Mr. Worrell said it is "somehow a repetition of the 1962 affair," when Victoria citizens complained of the same professional promoters being engaged to handle the city's centennial celebrations.

He said the Chamber's public affairs group likely would discuss the matter when it meets Tuesday at the Dominion Hotel to hear centennial secretary C. C. Wyatt give a progress report.

Rites Saturday For Ex-Official Of Veteran Body

Funeral services will be held in Victoria Saturday at 10:30 a.m. for John V. (Harold) Evans, 77, who died Wedenesday at Veterans' Hospital.

Mr. Evans was a resident in the city for 19 years. For 15 years he conducted a dancing school. He lived at 1120 Blanshard.

Mr. Evans served in both world wars, first with the British Army and then with the Canadian forces. He had been secretary of the Victoria branch Old Contemptibles Association since its formation. He was also a member of the Red Chevrons Association.

He leaves three sisters-in-law in England. He had no relatives in Canada.

Canon George Biddle, padre of the Old Contemptibles Association wil conduct the service at Chaplin's funeral chapel, 1155 Fort Street. Interment will be at Veterans' Cemetery.

Religious Liberty Saturday Topic

Pastor S. G. White will speak on Religious Liberty in Seventh Day Adventist Church, Pandora and Vancouver streets, Saturday at 11 a.m.

"Deliberations of the Vatican Council on religious liberty have brought this subject into prominence," says Pastor White.

He added that 1966 marks the 60th anniversary of Liberty magazine, the Adventist publication on religious freedom, which has a circulation exceeding 400,000.

. . . to take a vacation

City Honors Ex-Alderman

Ex-alderman Millard Mooney, defeated as a candidate for mayor in the last civic election, received an engraved silver tray from city council Thursday.

Mayor A. W. Toone made the presentation in the council chamber.

Mr. Mooney said his years on council had been enjoyable and that he is confident the present council will lead Victoria to higher things.

"Victoria has never been more beautiful," he said. "And services have never been better."

Students Balk At Settlement

MONTREAL (CP) — Faced with strong opposition to a student strike settlement proposed Wednesday night by Education Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie, leaders have adopted a policy which amounts to continuation of the strike.

The strike seemed to have been settled Wednesday when trade and specialized schools—agreed to return to classes following acceptance of the education minister's proposal.

However, the arrangement, which had been agreed to by student leaders, displeased many of the 27,000 students they represent. Although many students returned to classes Thursday, they refused to study. Other students did not show up at all.

The students went on strike Monday in protest against the lengthening of the school year by 2½ weeks, saying this would hurt their summer employment earnings.

STUDY QUESTION

In the agreement Wednesday, the Quebec government did not back down to student demands that the old calendar be reinstituted, but agreed to establish a committee to study the question and also to set up a student employment agency.

Michel Delorme, president of the Quebec Technical Schools Federation, said a meeting of representatives of each of the province's technical schools is scheduled to be held in Quebec City today and a decision made whether to advise students to continue the strike.

Thursday, Grade 11 commercial students at Quebec City also went on strike against the school year extension. However, in the same schools, the Grade 12 and 13 students decided not to strike.

There are still 18,000 French-speaking, Roman Catholic students who are without classes because of strikes by 750 teachers in the Hull, Papineau and Le Gardeur regions. Most teachers have been on strike for more than two weeks. At issue are salaries, seniority and working conditions.

Overheated Furnace

The fire, caused by an overheated furnace, destroyed the chimney in the frame building. Damage was estimated at $125.

LEADER in the B.C. fishing industry, James M. Buchanan, will be nominated for the post of chancellor of the University of British Columbia, a Vancouver newspaper said Thursday. Mrs. Frank Ross, the present chancellor, who has held the post since 1962 was not expected to seek another term. Mr. Buchanan, 69, stepped down as president and chairman of the board of B.C. Packers Ltd., Canada's largest fish packing firm, in July, 1964.

Gov't Co-Operation On Freeway Sought

VANCOUVER (CP)—City council passed a formal motion Thursday asking Premier Bennett to co-operate so that a $145,000,000 freeway system could be built in Vancouver.

The co-operation of the premier is the only possible solution to a worsening traffic problem here, aldermen agreed.

"I don't care how much power the man has," Mayor Bill Rathie told aldermen. "It is time to stand up and be counted on a vital issue."

The city wants the provincial government to ask Ottawa to redesignate the Trans-Canada Highway, routing it through Vancouver. Using a freeway system the city would get $59,500,000 in federal aid.

Victoria would have to put up $63,000,000 and the city $22,000,000.

Premier Bennett has said he will never allow the Trans-Canada Highway to cut through Vancouver because he is against freeways through the heart of a city.

BRITISH INDUSTRY REELS

Hundreds Injured On Icy Streets

LONDON (AP) — Europe's cold wave crippled British industry today, packed hospitals and threatened major embarrassment for Prime Minister Wilson's government.

Cuts in gas supplies disrupted the English Midlands, the hub of British industry. Thousands of workers were laid off for the rest of the week as assembly lines halted in automobile and engineering plants.

Hospitals reported hundreds of fracture cases brought in from the icy streets. Some set up special wards for old people with hypothermia, a dangerous drop in body temperature. One London hospital reported 212 casualties from falls Thursday night, most of them broken wrists. Brighton, on the south coast, had 160.

Hundreds of cars were abandoned in snowdrifts around Dover on the English east coast. Ice and snow delayed trains throughout Britain.

In Norway, the intense cold seemed to be lifting slightly and the temperature reached 14 degrees. Oslo's weather for the last three months was the coldest since official records started 132 years ago.

43 SHIPS ICEBOUND

By these standards Britain, with temperatures only a few degrees below freezing, was enjoying a "heat wave" but the consequences were considerable.

Cuts by the government gas and electricity authorities gave the Conservative Opposition a springboard for attack on Wilson's Labor government, which has a majority of only two votes in the House of Commons.

Conservatives said the attack will start as soon as Parliament returns Tuesday from the Christmas recess. It will culminate Thursday in an attempt to bring the government down by forcing a vote of censure.

One issue the Opposition will raise is what happened to the winter emergency committee set up by the government after similar power cuts last November.

The government's answer is that it is concerned only with long-term solutions. The main cause of the current trouble is failures in two major gas plants in the Midlands.

MAN FROZE TO DEATH 100 YARDS FROM HOUSE

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP)—An Edmonton man froze to death just 100 yards from shelter after he and a companion walked seven miles Thursday in 50-below-zero weather.

M. A. Hendriks and Leon Peterson headed for Bell Rock after abandoning their stalled truck 32 miles from Fort Smith.

Sketchy reports indicated the men were 100 yards from the only occupied house in the community when Hendriks collapsed and died.

Peterson was in serious condition in Fort Smith Hospital.

$60 Million Increase In Education Grants

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal grants to universities will be bosted to $100,000,000 from the present $40,000,000 in the 1966-67 year if Parliament approves, Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday night.

He said this would be an interim arrangement to help universities pending a federal-provincial conference on education. It would bring the federal per capita grant to $5 from the present $2, he announced in the Commons.

Meanwhile, a special formula had been worked out by which more money would be given provinces with a high percentage of out-of-province students.

It would be applied by the Association of Universities and Colleges in all provinces except Quebec. But special arrangements would be made so Quebec would get an equal increase.

Mr. Pearson, speaking in the throne speech debate, said an interim arrangement to boost grants had been suggested in December.

The government hoped to work out long-term approaches through a federal-provincial conference on education to be arranged in the next few months.

The Executive Council of Canada in its second annual review had recommended that education at all levels be given a high priority. Education was a crucially important factor in the economy.

The prime minister said there

Increased Aid Hailed by Uvic

A spokesman at the University of Victoria this morning welcomed news that the federal government is increasing grants for higher education.

Dean R. T. Wallace said the increase in grants may signal "a turning point in university development."

The federal government announced Thursday that operating grants would go up from $2 to $5 per capita for the academic year of 1966-67.

Dean Wallace, who is acting president of the university in the absence of President Malcolm Taylor, (in Ottawa on a business trip) said Canadian universities have emphasized the need for more money for higher education.

He said this early response by the federal authorities "is most gratifying." He also hailed the decision of the federal government to review university development along with the provinces.

Dean Wallace said: "All parties recognize the importance of further national investment in our human resources."

He added, "our own provincial government and the academic community in British Columbia have shown by their actions that B.C. is ready to meet the challenge of our times."

Operating grants from the province to Uvic have increased 126 per cent over the past two years.

Tax Series Starts In Times Saturday

Property taxes. Soaring property taxes.

The subject — a sore one — is foremost in every homeowner's mind as the time nears when he will be opening tax notices with trepidation.

Are they out of line?

Are municipalities doing enough to keep taxes down?

The Times recently assigned reporter Pete Loudon to find the answers to these questions and a lot more which have been plaguing what has been called "the poor-put-upon-homeowner."

His findings—in a four-part series—will start Saturday in The Times.

BIG RAISE BY BENNETT NEEDED

VANCOUVER (CP) — University of B.C. president John B. Macdonald said Thursday the provincial government should follow the federal government's lead in increasing grants to universities.

Dr. Macdonald said in a statement the increase in per capita federal grants to $5 from $2 a "useful temporary measure."

He said the grant increase still falls short of the Bladen commission's recommendation of a $6 per capita grant for 1966-67.

"It is crucially important, as indicated by the prime minister, that the provinces as well as the federal government recognize the pressing needs of the universities for annual increases in financial support," Dr. Macdonald said.

"In the light of Premier Bennett's statement that education is among the highest priorities of his government, we should be able to anticipate a significant increase in provincial supportment to complement the assistance being provided by the federal government."

U.S. Patrol Attacked

SAIGON (AP)—The Viet Cong jolted the lunar new year ceasefire today by attacking a U.S. marine patrol near Da Nang and engaging South Korean marines in a two-hour close quarter battle near the central coast.

Two U.S. marine sergeants were killed when the guerrillas caught a marine platoon in a flooded rice paddy.

HUNGER HAUNTS INDIA

NEW DELHI (AP) — India's food crisis has thrown more than 12,000,000 people into "dire distress" and threat of starvation, government figures disclosed today.

A food ministry spokesman said a survey of drought-stricken areas shows at least 100,000,000 of the country's 480,000,000 people will feel a severe pinch before the crisis is past.

The survey is continuing, the spokesman said, and final figures in both categories are bound to increase despite emergency measures to get more U.S. food grains into India.

People in "dire distress" will have to be moved into relief camps or fed almost entirely by relief supplies now being rushed to many parts of the country, the spokesman said.

SET UP CAMPS

Relief camps already are being set up in Rajasthan and Gujarat states in western India, the area hardest hit by the 1965 drought.

In Admeer district of Rajasthan, the government found 806 villages out of 956 were living under "scarcity conditions." In Bikaner district, 497 out of 529 were hard hit.

Of 16 districts in Gujarat state, 11 had crop yields less than 25 per cent of normal.

Other hard-hit states are Madhya Pradesh, Masharashtra, Andhra Pradesh and Mysore.

In many areas, the government also has started emergency shipments of drinking water and cattle fodder.

SHIP IN RICE

The government meanwhile announced 15,000 tons of rice is being shipped from Orissa state in the east to Kerala state, a southwest Communist hotbed where food demonstrations are erupting.

More than 1,000 pro-Moscow Communists and 3,000 students marched on government offices Thursday demanding increased rations of rice—their principal food.

Even states that normally are surplus producers of food grains now are reporting difficulties.

Rattan Singh, the Punjab's minister of agriculture, told reporters in Chandigarh his state is likely to have a 500,000-ton deficit in wheat production.

American grain shipments under the Food for Peace program have been averaging 600,000 tons monthly and are expected to hit more than 1,000,000 tons a month.

Subsidy Began Jan. 1

OTTAWA (CP)—New subsidies on ships built in Canada are intended to apply only to construction started after Jan. 1, 1966, Transport Minister Pickersgill told the Commons today.

Thompson Pledge Assures Majority

OTTAWA (UPI) — Social Credit leader Robert Thompson today promised the minority Liberal government the support it needs to withstand its first non-confidence challenge of the 27th Parliament later in the day.

And in another heartening break for the government, Liberal house leader George McIlraith announced that agreement has been reached in behind-the-scenes negotiations on the potentially explosive rules question.

The support of Thompson's five Social Credit members gave the Liberals a narrow majority with a possible 135 in the 265-seat Commons on a New Democratic Party motion scheduled to come up later today. The Conservative motion will come up Tuesday.

Thompson said that although agreeing with the motion based on government failure to increase the old age pension to $100 a month and make it available to age 65, he could not support any measure designed to defeat the government because the country would not stand for another election at this time.

WOULD BE REJECTED

Any political party that brought about an election at this time would be completely rejected by the electorate, Mr. Thompson said.

He deplored the fact that pensions and Canadian senior citizens should become the subject of political manoeuvring and strategy.

His statement meant the government also could count on Socred support for further Throne Speech amendments, including the Conservative motion.

McIlraith's announcement on rules question ended several days of party negotiations and uncertainty and meant that with a few minor exceptions, rules passed in the previous Parlia-

Queen's Act 'Illegal', Lifts Death Sentence

SALISBURY (Reuters)—The Rhodesian government refused today to recognize Queen Elizabeth's decree lifting the death sentence on a Negro convicted of trying to start a fire in Rhodesia.

A government statement said it regards the exercise of the royal prerogative in the case as an illegal act.

An announcement in London Thursday said the Queen had commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence passed on the Negro named Lazarus.

Lazarus was convicted by a Rhodesian court of attempting to set fire to two buildings.

The death sentence, passed before the Rhodesian white-minority regime's unilateral declaration of independence from Britain last November, was mandatory under the colony's Law and Order (Maintenance) Act.

Referring to the royal announcement, the Salisbury statement said

"This is a political move designed to embarrass the Rhodesian government and it is a pity that once again the British government should have shown its willingness to embroil Her Majesty the Queen in politics."

'BRAINWASHING CANADIAN PEOPLE'

Dief Blasts CBC for Portraying U.S. as Villains

By IAN MacDONALD
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker Thursday accused the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation of portraying America as an imperialist, war-mongering villain in South Viet Nam.

Diefenbaker ripped into the corporation for its handling of news about the Asian hot spot.

He accused it of brainwashing the Canadian public.

"According to its programs you would think the United States was one of the great enemies of mankind," Diefenbaker told parliament.

He demanded that the top brass of the corporation be brought before parliament to explain.

Diefenbaker launched into his CBC attack after he accused the Liberal government of using the network to spread propaganda during the last election campaign.

The Tory leader, speaking in the throne speech debate, said that External Affairs Minister Paul Martin takes the stand that the U.S. is in Viet Nam because it is trying to stop the spread of Communism throughout Southeast Asia.

Diefenbaker said propaganda is spread in every part of Canada about how terrible the Americans are acting.

He said he, at times, has been critical of the U.S., "but the CBC programs picture the most diabolical cruelties being perpetrated by the Americans.

"Why does it do that?"

The CBC, he said, had even brought in Tim Buck, retired general secretary of the Communist Party in Canada, and presented him on television "to tell Canadians what is wrong with the U.S.A."

"Shame," a handful of MP's erupted.

Parliament, he said, should look into this "among the people in the CBC." He did not mean the employees but the people at the top who are "brainwashing, or endeavoring to brainwash the Canadian people."

That, he thundered, was not what the CBC was established for.

"We wanted it to be an institution above those considerations that ordinarily separate us," he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he had considered programs one by one.

The Tory leader said he would press as strongly as he could for "these people (at CBC) to come before Parliament to let us in on these things."

Mr. Diefenbaker then reverted to his attack on the CBC for its conduct in the election.

He mocked the "tremendous influence of the propaganda that was put out in the last few days of the campaign regarding the sweep that was to take place."

"That," he said bitterly, "was not done as an impersonal act for the benefit of the people of Canada."

Later in the throne speech, Prime Minister Pearson said Mr. Diefenbaker's charge against the CBC's election conduct was "very serious indeed."

Mr. Pearson said, "That is a serious charge and perhaps my right honorable friend (Mr. Diefenbaker) will have an opportunity to prove it.

"And it is the kind of charge to which we in this house are becoming accustomed, made without evidence and by insinuation and innuendo."

Mr. Pearson's statement was greeted by loud Liberal applause.

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — When Barry Schneider, 22, and his wife, Nedra, 21, found and returned a bag containing $300,000 in payroll cheques to the U.S. Steel plant in nearby Torrance recently, they were given a reward they couldn't afford to accept.

Pacific Southwest Airlines offered the Schneiders and another couple with them when they returned the cheques airline tickets to fly anywhere they desired.

Schneider declined the offer because, as a student at San Fernando Valley State College, he could not afford a vacation.

Wednesday, U.S. Steel sent the Schneiders a $500 cheque to finance the vacation. Three anonymous donors also sent the couple another $80.

NEW YORK — The New York Mercantile Exchange said today it is considering inaugurating trading in scotch whisky futures.

John Scanlon, president of the exchange, said he expects the trading will begin before the end of this year.

Initial trading will be on a "spot," or more or less immediate delivery basis.

In granting scotch the status of a staple, the exchange would put whisky in the same category as the eggs, potatoes and aluminum contracts it now trades.

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

B.C. SYNOPSIS—A complex weather system moving off the B.C. coast continues to give extensive precipitation over the province this morning. Rain along the outer coast was to give way to snow along the mainland. At Vancouver rain and snow mixed were forecast as the system approaches during the day, changing to snow as it moved inland over the Washington coast this evening. Snow amounts are forecast to be 4 inches at Abbotsford and 2 inches at Vancouver city. In the Cariboo 8 inches of new snow had fallen at Prince George up to 4 a.m. this morning. Another 5 inches was likely before it tapers off later today. Another Pacific storm moving from the Gulf of Alaska will bring more rain to the north coast late Saturday.

Lagos Denies PM's Death

LAGOS (AP)—Nigeria's military government officially denied Thursday reports published overseas that Lagos authorities had announced the death of former federal Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa.

Information Director Cyprian Ekwensi said no announcement had been made on the fate of Balewa, who was kidnapped in the early hours of last Saturday.

Balewa's press secretary, Moses Awoyinfa, also said no announcement was made and "I know nothing of what happened."

Canadians Recaptured By Posse

NEW IBERIA, La. (AP)—Two young Canadians escaped jail here Thursday and dodged a sheriff's posse all around town until their recapture Thursday night.

Sheriff Jerry Wattigny identified them as Lawrence A. Lazeo, 19, and Ernest des Rosier, 19, both of Vancouver.

Des Rosier, trailed by bloodhounds through the freezing night, swam the Bayou which cuts across the middle of New Iberia. Chilled to the bone, he rang the doorbell at a house near the Bayou — the home, though he didn't know it, of Deputy Dave LaSalle.

Mrs. LaSalle, realizing the youth was one of the escapees her husband was working overtime chasing, let him in. She provided a blanket and sent her son out the back door for Deputy LaSalle.

Lazeo was caught hiding in a used car lot.

The youths were being held for federal officials on a stolen car charge, Wattigny said.

Deputy Drozin Broussard said the two scrambled past him when he opened the door to a hallway leading past some jail cells.

"They were supposed to have been locked in their cells, but they were out in the hall," he said. "They got past me and ran out of the building."

There had been some question of whether they would continue to be valid because of the election and the new Parliament.

Thursday, in their first chance to criticize the Throne Speech, the opposition parties responded with two amendments each of which could have led to the fall of the government.

The non-confidence motions introduced by the Tories and NDP Thursday press the Liberal government to boost old age pensions to $100 monthly.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker opened the eight-day Throne Speech debate with an 80-minute attack on the government's legislative program and policies.

Borrowing an argument used exactly eight years ago by Mr. Pearson, then Opposition leader, he said the government should resign if defeated in a confidence vote and give the Opposition an opportunity to attempt to form a new government without another election.

Mr. Pearson rejected this idea, using the arguments invoked in 1958 by then prime minister Diefenbaker. He warned that if the Liberals are defeated on a non-confidence motion a new election would follow.

RECALLS REJECTION

NDP Leader Douglas commented that Mr. Diefenbaker wants to be named prime minister by the Commons after being rejected by the electorate by a 2-to-1 ratio. The people would dislike an early election, but they would dislike even more having "the Tories back in office."

Mr. Diefenbaker's non-confidence motion criticizes the government for failing to propose in the throne speech that monthly pensions now paid to all those aged 69 or over be increased by $25 to $100.

Mr. Douglas endorsed the Conservative move but added a motion of his own regretting that $100 pensions are not being paid immediately from age 65.

COST 'IMPOSSIBLE'

Mr. Pearson said it would cost an extra $855,000,000 annually to pay $100 pensions at 65. It would be impossible to finance the increase with contributions from the Canada Pension Plan fund as the Conservatives proposed, since Ottawa was committed to turn the fund over to the provinces for investment purposes.

It would be unreasonable to finance the increase through federal taxes as the NDP proposed because of fast-rising expenses in other social security programs.

Recorded Vote Lost By Tories

OTTAWA (CP)—In the first roll-call vote of the new Parliament, the Commons voted 123 to 65 Thursday night to permit Creditiste Leader Caouette to speak ahead of a Conservative MP.

A Conservative motion challenging the rotation of party speakers was introduced shortly before the normal 10 p.m. adjournment and forced the House to sit an extra hour for the recorded vote.

When Speaker Lucien Lamoureux recognized Mr. Caouette as the fourth party leader to speak on the opening day of the throne speech debate, Hugh Horner (PC—Jasper-Edson) also sought the floor.

Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) moved that Mr. Horner be allowed to speak instead of Mr. Caouette. Only the 65 Conservatives voting supported the motion.

Lining up against the bid were 90 Liberals, 18 New Democrats, eight Creditistes, five Social Credit MPs and the two independents.

SURVEILLANCE

'Under What Authority?'

OTTAWA (UPI)—The opposition went to the defence today of a man accused of spying in Canada for the Soviet Union.

Leading off the attack against the government's handling of the spy case that broke last year, Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker demanded to know under what law the government was keeping the suspect under constant survillance without laying any charge against him.

Diefenbaker has asked for a royal commission inquiry into the case that resulted in the expulsion from Canada last May of two minor Russian diplomats who allegedly offered two Canadians "thousands of dollars" to spy for them.

One of the Canadians helped police nab the Russians and the other — identified as Victor G. Spencer of Vancouver — was fired from his civil service job with the post office but never charged.

New Democratic leader T. C. Douglas asked Prime Minister Pearson if the government would at least give Spencer "an opportunity of clearing his name."

WARM welcome to the House of Commons Thursday was given Grace MacInnis (NDP-Vancouver-Kingsway) by Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker. Both praised her father, J. S. Woodsworth, and late husband, MP Angus MacInnis, founders of the old CCF party. Mrs. MacInnis was elected in the Nov. 8 vote.

should be a joint federal-provincial response to the challenge.

The increased federal grants would be "a constructive step forward in making an adequate contribution to the advancement of education."

There would be no infringement on the jurisdiction of the provinces in education.

The speech from the throne setting out government legislative aims for the session mentioned increased aid to universities but did not spell out any details.

The first mention of what specific steps the government had in mind came when Mr. Pearson rose Thursday to answer criticisms by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker of the speech.

PREMIER MORO
. . . embarrassing defeat

Undercover Rebellion Responsible

Moro's resignation was triggered by an embarrassing defeat in the Chamber of Deputies Thursday on his bill to set up a state nursery school. He had described the measure as a key reform that the Socialists demanded when entering the coalition in December 1963.

The cabinet meeting lasted only five minutes. When Moro walked out he told reporters: "The government decided to resign."

He went to the Quirinal Palace to inform President Giuseppe Saragat of the resignation.

President Saragat, acting in accord with custom, asked Moro to stay on in an interim capacity until a new government can be formed.. In effect, he reserved decision on the resignation when Moro submitted it formally to him.

No Strike Plea Puzzles Officials

WASHINGTON (AP)—Organized labor, already puzzled by President Johnson's anti-strike proposal, was further mystified Wednesday by a somewhat similar suggestion from one of the top union chiefs in the U.S.

Walter Reuther, United Auto Workers president, gave no details in proposing a "new mechanism" to prevent strikes in public service industries as well as major industries such as big steel and auto makers.

Many highly placed officials found it astonishing that any strike limiting suggestion should come from a labor leader of Reuther's stature.

Reuther, second most powerful man in the AFL-CIO, made his proposal in a speech to the Detroit Economic Club six days after Johnson's anti-strike reference in his State of the Union message Jan. 12.

Johnson said he would ask Congress to consider measures to deal with "strikes which threaten irreparable damage to the national interest."

130-DAY STRIKE OVER

Union, B.A. Sign New Pact

A 130-day strike by truck drivers and warehousemen of British-American Oil ended today.

Leaders of both sides signed a new two-year contract to replace the one that ran out last April.

Among the 59 marketing division men involved are eight in Victoria and five in Nanaimo. They are members of Local 9-601 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union.

Seniority was the last stumbling block to settlement. The company wanted to split the province into three seniority zones to protect some union members who worked during the strike.

The union wanted to keep the former seniority list to protect those who did strike.

Company spokesmen have said a "very large" percentage of the company's industrial accounts were lost during the strike and some men might not be needed immediately.

Union members accepted a company proposal that a joint union-management committee study the seniority question. If recommendations from this committee are accepted by both sides, the proposals will become part of the new contract.

Pickets outside the B-A storage depot in Victoria were withdrawn Thursday pending signing of the new contract. The eight men are expected to return to work Monday.

The new contract is identical to others signed with major oil companies, and based on the provincial government formula that averted a general strike in B. C. last November.

It provides for a 35-cent wage increase, advance notice of technological change and union-management committees on automation.

Formal settlement was also expected today in Moose Jaw, where refinery workers have been on strike since Sept. 19. Strikes at the Kamloops and Port Moody refineries were settled earlier.

Rolling Hills Trade Halted

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Stock Exchange today suspended trading in Rolling Mills mining stock, pending an assay report on its Pine Point, N.W.T., holdings.

Jack Vanluven, president of the exchange, said trading was suspended as of opening today. He gave no reason for the suspension.

Rolling Mills trading sparked a market rush Thursday, during which the stock rose to more than $3 from a Wednesday close of $2.65. But it tumbled to $2.15 on what company president Earl Glick called a press and radio "foul up." The stock traded 610,000 shares Thursday.

Mr. Glick said the reports gave the impression that the company believed it had no commercial mineralization. He said in fact no one to his knowledge had seen the drill core recently taken from the company's Pine Point site.

"As far as we are concerned no one has given an opinion except to say there is mineralization, but the grade of mineralization will not be determined until the assay," he said.

Patricia Silver Drill Work Slow

HAY RIVER, N.W.T. (CP) — Severe cold and water problems have slowed the drilling schedule of Patricia Silver Mines Ltd., Louis Cadesky, a company promoter and supervisor of drilling, said today in a telephone interview. The over-burden had not yet been penetrated.

He said there is nothing new to report after being told shares of Patricia Silver increased swiftly today on the Montreal Stock Exchange before dropping back.

The company has property on the southwest end of Pine Point holdings, 600 miles north of Edmonton. Pine Point has rich lead-zinc deposits.

Mr. Cadesky said the temperature was 50 degrees below zero this week when drilling resumed.

The stock opened up 15 cents at $1.74, then jumped rapidly to $2.90 before falling back. After an hour's trade it was selling at about $1.90.

The spokesman said the company moved a drill onto its holdings in the Pine Point area of the Northwest Territories earlier this week, but no news had been received from the exploration site.

SUMMARIES

Mines Feature Trading

Patricia Silver was in the spotlight at Vancouver and Montreal today while D'Eldona and Satellite spurted at Toronto in heavy speculative trading.

AT TORONTO, D'Eldona, which had been fluctuating most of the day, climbed 25 cents to 3.45 on more than 254,000 shares. Satellite showed a spurt about 307,000 shares.

Vandoo led speculative oils as it gained 2 to 16 cents on 254,000 shares, while Spooner fell 3 cents to 48 cents.

Gold issues were much stronger with McIntyre and Dome ahead ½ each at 100 and 41. Hollinger advanced ¼ to 27 and giant Yellowknife ⅛ to 15.

In the industrial list Bank of Montreal was off ¾ to 66¼ with Nova Scotia down ⅝ to 76¼ and Massey Ferguson ½ to 33¾.

AT VANCOUVER Bata, which closed Thursday at .86, was trading at .68. Kamloops was off .05 to .70.

A leader today was Patricia Silver, which went from $1.58 to as high as $2.90. The company announced that diamond drilling operations have started on claims in the Pine Point area.

AT MONTREAL a sharp climb by Patricia Silver mines in heavy turnover provided the main feature. It opened at $1.59 then jumped rapidly to $2.90 before falling back to $2.21.

Banks were down. Montreal and Royal each dropped ½ to 66½ and 80½, respectively. Imperial Commerce slipped ⅜ to 69½.

Industrials moved lower with Imperial Tobacco falling ¼ to 15¼.

AT NEW YORK stocks were irregularly lower late this afternoon in active trading.

Volume for the day was estimated at 9,000,000 shares, compared with 8,680,000 Thursday.

Prices firmed somewhat after early losses. Trading eased in active, low-priced issues as the day wore on.

AT LONDON the market was quietly firm today. Gilt-edged often advanced and dollar stocks were mixed.

Arthur Mayse

Today I'd like to tell you about three happy South Island people I know. They are mother, father and only son, a close-knit and loving family, and they have been party to a quiet miracle that began for them late in 1964.

We'll call the boy Bob.

He is 18 and a high school senior, and it is upon him that the miracle centres.

If you saw Bob on the street or in a bus or out with a girl, you would catalogue him casually as a nice-looking young fellow of medium height, or perhaps just a trifle on the short side.

That's today. Fifteen months ago, nobody who saw Bob would indulge in that kind of hair-splitting. He wouldn't be out with a girl, either.

Back then, his height with his school shoes on was a trifle over five feet. He and his parents had waited through his early and middle teens, with declining hopes, for the growing streak which relatives and friends assured them would eventually stretch him out like a string-bean.

But it never came; and at 17 turned, Bob was a moody little introvert whose parents doubled as his friends.

They knew, however, that the family bond wasn't enough for a 17-year-old; and against their own conviction that the pattern of their son's life was already set, they took his case to a doctor.

On that day, the groundwork of the miracle was laid, even though the doctor's first words seemed more discouraging than otherwise. Bob, he warned them, might remain at or about his present height for the rest of his days.

He suggested further that lack of inches needn't be a crushing handicap; that the world is plentifully supplied with spunky short men who lack neither friends nor success.

With these facts established, he informed them there was a chance — but only a chance — that medical techniques developed in the last very few years might lengthen Bob out.

Then the doctor passed them on to an associate who had made an intensive study of growth retardation, and their personal miracle got under way.

It began with a hospital week during which Bob was subjected to tests of one sort or another in wearying succession. As a layman, I'm not qualified to detail these, and can state the results only in broad terms.

Bob's failure to reach normal height resulted from a "lazy" pituitary—the master-gland that controls growth. If the gland could be stimulated to more active functioning, and if the subject's bones hadn't removed all possibility of further growth by "sealing off" at the joints, his height might be increased.

X-rays revealed that the hardening-off process hadn't began. Bob came out of hospital and returned to school. His treatment consisted of carefully-balanced injections given once a week in the doctor's office.

Nothing happened. A month went by, and another, with Bob's height unchanged. Then one day he came home from his visit to the doctor and announced in careful-casual tones, "He says I've started to grow."

That was the start of it Since the miracle began, Bob has added a further six-and-a-half inches. He gets phone calls now. He goes to parties, and comes home skinned and muddy from school soccer, and his parents complain happily that he doesn't spend enough time with them.

The injections have been replaced by tablets, but he's about done with medication. Although the big surge is over, Bob may make a fraction of an inch more before he stops growing.

That's the story, and I hope the parents of some other painfully short boy in his late teens will read it. The treatment that gave Bob his inches could help their son.

UNITED CHURCH MINISTER PREACHES AT CATHOLIC CATHEDRAL

'Work Together Before We Worship Together'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

A prayer of intercession for the Roman Catholic Church was offered in St. Andrew's Cathedral Thursday night by a black-gowned minister of the United Church.

Rev. Albert King asked for a blessing on the Roman church and all its members and prayed "that the Holy Spirit may give His blessing to the work and decisions of the Second Vatican Council."

Mr. King, who is minister of Metropolitan United, was guest preacher at an inter-church service in the cathedral sponsored by the Roman Catholic diocese of Victoria and the Victoria Council of Churches.

He was supported by the Sanctuary Choir of Metropolitan, which sang in a Roman Catholic church for the first time since it was founded by David Spencer in 1862.

Speaking from the red-carpeted altar steps, Mr. King said:

"We know there are areas in which we are tragically divided, but these divisions are not as strong as the holy spirit which unites us.

"We are meeting together tonight because God has called us and we have answered His call."

Mr. King said there are many areas of common concern in which churches of all denominations could work together, regardless of their differences in creed and dogma.

"We have a common concern in all aspects of family life and in the current problems created by automation, delinquency, alcoholism and drug addiction. In these and other fields of human welfare we could work together for good.

"I feel that closer co-operation at this level is both desirable and necessary. We must learn to work together before we can truly worship together."

Mr. King said the current series of inter-church services in Victoria and in other parts of Canada could be "a portent of great things to come."

In St. Andrew's Cathedral tonight at 7:30, Rev. Philip Hanley of the Roman Catholic church will be the preacher and the music will be led by the choir of St. John's Anglican Church, directed by Kenneth Ansdell.

On Sunday at 3 p.m. Anglican Archbishop Howard Sexton and Roman Catholic Bishop Remi De Roo will lead a massed service in the cathedral, supported by Victoria ministers of many denominations.

The principal speakers will be Dean Brian Whitlow of Christ Church Anglican Cathedral and Rev. William Klempa, DD, of St. Paul's Gorge Presbyterian Church.

Passages of scripture will be read by Rev. John Watson of First Baptist Church, Rev. Marvin Fowler of First United and Bishop Denys Rankilor of the Reformed Episcopal Church of Our Lord.

Also participating will be Rev. Samuel Parsons, DD, of Centennial United; Capt. Don McMillan of the Salvation Army, Rev. J. E. Bergbusch of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church and Rev. H. Gordon Walker, vicar of the Anglican Church of St. David-by-the-Sea, Cordova Bay.

$180 STOLEN FROM HOME IN OAK BAY

A break-in Thursday night at the home of J. D. Laurie, 585 Linkleas, yielded $180.

It was the second house burglary in Oak Bay in two days.

Police said the thief smashed a window to gain entry.

High-Living Youth Given 18 Months' Cooling-Off Time

By RON SUDLOW, Times Police Reporter

Wayne Thornington, 2518 Quadra, will be kept away from his expensive girl friends for the next 18 months.

He was sentenced today in central court to spend the next year and a half in the young offenders' unit at Oakalla Prison.

Thornington, 18, pleaded guilty to 15 break-ins at a hearing last week.

'SPENT ON GIRLS'

He stole $470 and police recovered only $3. He told detectives he "spent it all on girls."

Jan. 3 was his busiest night when he broke into seven businesses.

Magistrate William Ostler said that must be "some sort of record."

They were Minnie Beveridge, 764 Fort; Sebastian's of Victoria, 774 Fort; Marshall-Wells, 724 Fort, Molly's Cake Shop, 615 Yates; J. W. Bell, Chiropractor, 1024 Blanshard; Continental Pastries, 1026 Blanshard, and C. N. Montague, 1028 Blanshard.

Oct. 6 he burgled Roelefson's Restaurant, 769 Fort. Three weeks later he entered the Nutshell Restaurant, 627 Fort.

Nov. 4 he broke into Diversified Income Securities, 623 Yates, and Square Deal Shoe Repairs, 1224 Broad. He also entered the Fort-Cook Restaurant, 1031 Cook, Dec. 29.

MILLINERY STORE

Last week he broke into Rosalee Millinery Supplies, 1011 Blanshard, and Dutch Beauty Salon, 1009 Blanshard.

He was seen running from the beauty salon and police arrested him shortly after.

Magistrate Ostler said he "needed someone to take an interest in you."

"There is nothing smart about this sort of thing at all. It will just lead to misery."

BBB Checks Bible Salesman

A Bible salesman who canvassed Victoria during the pre-Christmas buying season is being checked out by the Better Business Bureau.

"We've had complaints from six people who paid the man $20 deposits on a $55 Bible

"I'm somewhat skeptical that the people will ever get their Bibles," Mr. Tindall said.

No one inquired about the man's credentials before buying, he pointed out.

An inquiry to the book club disclosed that anyone could purchase the Bibles in wholesale lots from the American firm, which denies any responsibility from that point.

Six-Month Term For Car Theft New Year's Day

A man with a lengthy police record was sentenced in city court today to six months for theft of an auto Jan. 1.

Court was told he had a record of possession of stolen goods, break-ins and theft dating back to 1955.

Police said he took a car belonging to James Walker, 2312 Belmont, and drove it about a block on the morning of New Year's Day.

The car stalled and the owner called police when Rowlinson ran from the scene.

Police found him in another vehicle about eight blocks away.

When his previous history was read to the court Magistrate William Ostler commented "Pretty gloomy record isn't it?"

Sweaters Theft Brings Jail Term

Clarence Book, no fixed address, was sentenced in city court today to six months for theft of two sweaters Tuesday.

He pleaded guilty to taking sweaters valued at $23.60 each from the Toggery Shop, 1329 Douglas.

MISERABLE SHACK on Uvic campus this week was designed to dramatize need for money to help an orphan in Viet Nam. But it hasn't worked that way. Christian clubs at university hoped to raise $750 from students, an average of 25 cents each. Up to this morning all they had got was $125. Motorcyclist, Pedestrian Termed 'Fair'

Two traffic victims are reported in fair condition in hospital today following overnight accidents.

Mr. McConnell was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital when he was thrown from his machine at Douglas and Dallas at 8:33 p.m Thursday.

LEG INJURY

Mr. Cherry was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital with leg and possible internal injuries after he was in collision with a car as he crossed Dallas from north to south Thursday at 5:12 p.m.

Police said motorist Kenneth Whitelaw Thompson, 1860 Crescent Road, was proceeding east on Dallas Road at the time.

Mrs. Russell Ruth Low, 76, of Fulford Harbor, was treated and released from hospital following a two-car collision Thursday afternoon at Richmond and Richardson.

Police said she was a passenger in a car driven by W. H. Russell Low, also of Fulford Harbor, as they drove south on Richmond.

They were in collision with a car driven east on Richardson by Marlyn Ingvaldson, 1783 Richardson, police said.

POLICE HUNT SNIPER IN ARMOURY DISTRICT

Tuesday night Mrs. Vera Cook, 31, of 1554 Hillside, reported to police she was hit in the head by a pellet.

Another pellet chipped paint off her car, police said.

Thursday night a second-storey window in the armoury was broken.

The shots are apparently coming from bushes or a vacant house across from the armoury on Bay Street.

30 VOLUNTEERS

City NDP Circulates Insurance Petition

The petitions, organized by the Victoria New Democratic Party, seek non-profit government car insurance.

"This is the only way we can bring attention to the government that any considerable body of citizens have given any thought to the matter," said association president Fred Bevis.

30 VOLUNTEERS

He said petitions will be circulated at shopping centres, the local motor vehicles branch and door-to-door by 30 volunteers starting Saturday.

"We would welcome more volunteers," he added.

The party has run off 1,000 petition papers each with space for 30 names, or a potential 30,000 names. More will be printed if needed.

"We hope it spreads to other parts of B.C.," said Mr. Bevis. "Any other place that is prepared to do something, we'll be glad to supply the forms."

The petitions follow three increases in car insurance in the past year — an average 27.7 per cent a year ago, 8 per cent last May and 10 per cent starting this month.

'GREAT CONCERN'

The petition form reads

"We the undersigned residents of the province of British Columbia view with great concern the serious increases in the cost of automobile insurance during recent years.

"We believe that the premiums charged by the private insurance companies far exceed the amount necessary to operate a satisfactory provincial car insurance system.

"We therefore petition our provincial government to set up a publicly-owned and operated automobile insurance agency, forthwith, to provide adequate protection to the public at cost."

The move locally coincides with a national campaign by the Labour Congress for "automobile compensation boards," or government car insurance similar to Saskatchewan.

The CLC program to be carried out during February as the theme for its Citizenship Month, will involve many affiliated unions and all provincial federations of labor and local labor councils.

In Victoria, the campaign has been handed to the labor council's political education committee.

PROTEST SIGNS POSTED

Students Clash on Fee Decision

By SUE PELLAND
Uvic Correspondent

It started Thursday with an announcement from the students' council that students should pay their fees in full by this afternoon.

In an emergency "speakeasy" called at noon Thursday, council president Paul Williamson said

"It was not fear that has forced this change.

Council originally advised the students to withhold $56 increase in fees until next Thursday.

The move was designed to dramatize to MLAs, who open their legislative session Thursday, that more financial aid is required for higher education.

Mr. Williamson said legal restrictions prevent the council from directly paying the $10 penalty levied on students for late payment of fees.

PAY PENALTIES

He promised an ad hoc committee would be set up to raise funds to pay the penalties. Penalties total $7,000 for the 700 students who have withheld so far.

But council member Gordon Pollard told students at the speakeasy:

"I see this as a complete sell-out. I feel we should at least hold out until Jan. 27."

This was the date originally set by council for payment of fees.

"If possible we should hold back payment until a revelation is made of next year's fee schedule," Mr. Pollard said.

Mr. Williamson denied that it is "a case of our backing out. It is a matter of not knowing what is going to be in the registrar's letter"

This referred to the letter the registrar will send Saturday to all students who have not paid. This letter may threaten immediate expulsion for all delinquent students.

Protest signs appeared today in the Students' Union Building asking students to pay their $56 in coins and $1 bills.

The signs advised students to make payment in "20 pennies; 96 nickels and 31 one-dollar bills."

The notices said that according to the Canada Currency Act, this is legal tender.

Bursar Steve McQueen said about 250 students have paid their fees since Thursday at noon.

Lifejacket Picked Up Near Boat

Little Hope for Trio; Father Continues Hunt

By TERRY IZZARD, Times Marine Reporter

A lifejacket, inner tube and pail were picked up today only one-half mile from the spot where the boat of three missing Victoria boys was found late Thursday.

Although the articles had not been identified at press time, U.S. coast guard authorities said the lifejacket was of Canadian origin.

Discovery of the battered boat left little hope for the survival of the trio.

It was spotted in shallow water off Dungeness Point, 12 miles east of Port Angeles.

First to see it was Keith Hynds, uncle of one of the boys, who was flying over the area with Victoria Flying Services pilot, Al Rouat.

The 12-foot turquoise clinker boat was air-lifted to Victoria where it was identified by owner Ralph Wherry.

NO CLUES

The boat gave no leads as to the fate of its occupants.

It was upside down when found and the five-horse-power engine had been torn from its housing. The boat appeared to have been on the shore line some time judging by the pounding it had taken.

They are: Dennis Powell, 18, 1240 Newport; Ronald Hynds, 18, 2428 Dalhousie, and Wade Squire, 17, 2741 Dewdney.

BRANT-HUNTING

The three set out at midnight Saturday, saying they were going to hunt brant on Chatham Island two miles away.

But a classmate from Oak Bay High School said he had seen the three returning earlier from Chatham Island.

They had talked about going to San Juan to shoot rabbits. San Juan is 15 miles from Oak Bay Marina.

What they decided on may never be known.

The weather was good Saturday night.

But a veteran mariner today said a small boat could still get into trouble in the treacherous waters.

CROSS-CHOP

Or the boys could have hit a deadhead, panicked, and been plunged into the water.

Even a strong swimmer would have trouble surviving long in the 45-degree seas.

Search and Rescue headquarters in Vancouver Thursday called off an intense search involving aircraft, ships and small boats.

STILL LOOKING

Meanwhile, RCMP have issued a description of the trio to all local and Washington State police forces, in the event they should have tried hitch-hiking through the States.

However, there is no indication this is the case.

The U.S. Coast Guard said it is unlikely to continue the search Saturday unless specifically asked by RCMP.

The three boys have now been listed in the "Missing Persons" file.

Easy-to-Make Treat Is Delicious to Eat

By Penny Saver

Remember the days when you carried your school bag and little lunch bucket down the beaten path to school each morning? I recall that the highlight of my lunches were those days that mother used to pack delicious oatmeal cookies for my dessert. At that time, nothing could beat those sweet, chewy cookies.

Mother's oatmeal cookies served a better purpose than just lunch-time desserts. They were her favorite tea-time treats, and a delight to me to have with a glass of milk after school.

Now, you can make those same oatmeal cookies with no extra trouble at all. The trick is a cookie mix, that yields 120 big cookies. All you have to do is mix water with the packaged mix, drop the cookies onto a greased pan, and bake them from 10 to 15 minutes in a 375-degree oven.

To make frozen dough cookies, prepare the dough, and form it into rolls. Wrap these in waxed paper, and freeze. Cut into one-quarter-inch slices, and bake at 335 degrees F. for 19 to 22 minutes.

This remarkable mix sells for just $1.19. It is also available in a smaller quantity, for 69 cents, which yields 60 cookies.

If your family likes oatmeal cookies, they'll love oatmeal muffins. A packaged mix is priced at 59 cents, which is enough mix to make 24 large muffins. You add egg and water, beat, and bake in a 425-degree oven for 20 minutes. It's a simple process for such delicious results!

Many recipes call for squares of unsweetened chocolate. There is a new product that just needs to be added to your ingredients. It is an unsweetened chocolate-flavored ingredient that pours from a little envelope. One envelope is equivalent to one ounce of unsweetened baking chocolate, or one-quarter cup of unsweetened cocoa. A box containing eight of these envelopes sells for 59 cents.

Give Penny a call at 382-3131 if you want to know where she found these versatile time-saving mixes.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Munching for Dieters

Lowman

Q. I am counting calories because I must lose weight, for health as well as good looks. I have read that a reducer can munch on celery sticks to her heart's content because celery has so few calories. I have found this to be a very filling and pleasant way to "fill up" between reducing meals. However, my doctor tells me that celery is too high in sodium for my special condition.

A. Try carrot sticks, cauliflower buds and radishes.

Q. My mother is 65 years old. In the past six or eight months little bags have appeared around her eyes. I have noticed this same thing in women even younger than my mother. This is affecting her life in every way. Can anything be done about it?

A. These can be successfully removed by plastic surgery.

Q. I am 19 years old. Can you tell me if electrolysis on the breasts is dangerous? I have long dark hairs around the nipples and would like to have them removed.

A. See a competent skin specialist. This is not dangerous when properly done.

Q. I used to have a wonderful figure until about eight months ago. Now I have a roll of fat hanging over my belt. It is very embarrassing! I would like to get rid of it. Do you recommend certain exercises for the weight between my shoulders and my waist?

A. Since this roll appeared so suddenly I guess that you have gained at least 10 pounds. Count calories in order to lose. Also do the following exercise. Stand tall with your feet comfortably separated. Raise your arms sideward, shoulder height. Keep the arms in this position as you twist your trunk as far to the right as you can. Now twist to the left. Continue alternating left and right. Try to look at the back of the room with each twist.

Q. I'm five feet one and weigh 97 pounds. I have very skinny legs which look out of proportion to my body. To top that off, I have very big feet. Skinny legs and big feet just don't go together. Is there any way to make my legs larger (without eating) or my feet smaller?

A. You did not give me your age but even if you are only 15 you are about 10 pounds underweight. A gain will make your legs larger. You can also increase their size by developing the calf muscles. I can't help you with the feet.

BE SMART—

OLD FAVORITE 'STAR' OF BREAKFAST TABLE

No Waste—Just Wonderful Taste

Building breakfast around bacon takes a flavorful turn with cornbread and apple butter as partners. Bacon pieces provide a decorative touch atop the cornbread and the drippings are used for flavor in the batter. It solves the problem of what to do with the drippings.

Since no bacon lover will be content with bacon as mere decoration, a platter full of crisp slices accompanies the cornbread. Soft-cooked eggs and fresh fruit or melon complete the breakfast plan.

Bacon, cornbread, and apple butter have been popular breakfast fare since the days of the early settlers. When packaged sliced bacon came on the market it was welcomed as one of the very first convenience foods. Modern processing and transportation bring the brown sugar cured bacon with the sweet smoked taste to breakfast tables across the country.

Cooking bacon by the panfull may be done either in the skillet or in the oven. When skillet or griddle are used there is no need to separate the slices in advance. As the cluster of slices start to cook they may be separated easily. When only two or three slices are to be cooked at one time, use the tip of a rubber scraper to peel off the desired number of slices before returning the balance of the package to the refrigerator.

Oven-baking bacon is a good choice when a large quantity is to be served. Slices are arranged on a rack set in a baking pan. Bake in a hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 10 to 12 minutes. No turning needed.

BACON CORNBREAD

One pound sliced bacon, 1 cup yellow cornmeal, 1 cup sifted flour, ¼ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese, ½ cup milk, 3 tablespoons bacon drippings, 2 eggs, beaten; apple butter or apple jelly.

Cut 4 slices of bacon into thirds. Partially cook bacon pieces. Remove partially cooked bacon pieces from skillet and drain off 3 tablespoons drippings.

Sift cornmeal, flour, sugar, baking powder, salt, and cheese together. Stir in milk, bacon drippings, and eggs. Mix well. Rub the bottom of a 9 by 9 by 2 inch baking pan with shortening.

Bake in a hot oven (400°F.) about 20 minutes.

Pan-fry remaining bacon and serve with cornbread. Makes six servings.

Fashion Revolution Seen In European Style Centres

ROME (AP) — New fashions are a mild form of divorce, a stylist once said, because they satisfy a woman's hunger for change.

If this is so, then Rome and Paris soon will be dishing out this form of freedom to a world of women.

This is the year every designer promises, or threatens, drastic style changes—fashion revolution, not mere evolution.

In this city the haute couture houses opened their showrooms to press and buyers for style parades lasting through the week.

The French have no peers in prestige, despite the growing renown of Italian couture houses such as De Barentzen, Pucci, Fabiani, Fontana and Galitzine. On the other hand, the Romans lead all of Europe in capturing dollars with apparel exports to North America.

Whether the status label in a woman's garment this spring will be French or Italian, the chances are the costume will be visible and geometrical, and there will be very little of it.

Designers north and south talk of splicing together two and three bold colors as if they were making flags instead of dresses. Only one thing is certain—the Mondrian-inspired geometrical costumes created by Yves St. Laurent last summer are out.

Andre Courreges, whose architecturally constructed apparel has left its mark on the works of many Italian designers, has bowed out of the race for the time being. But he has a new showroom and new backing, and plans to explode style ideas at a later date.

How high can a hem go before there is no dress at all? This spy-the-thigh mystery thriller will be taken up first by Italians who have always been the first to approve long-stemmed beauties. Short as Roman fashions will be, which is well above the knee in some cases, they will not be as short as forthcoming Paris styles or as some extreme North American fashions are today.

Tiziani, a Texas-born Roman, showed slim, neat Courreges-like costumes, in a patchwork of colors and wide-V-necklines.

Valentino sent his models out in a swish of feathers and a blinding glitter of beads for evening. Daywear will be slim and narrow through the shoulders.

Enzo, of Milan, has modified that kangaroo sleeve that held the arms close to the body, down to the elbows.

Carosa called his line much younger than before. But it followed the same soft, drapey tendencies of former seasons.

Biki, the house where Alain Renaud designs for Maria Callas, wanted to put women in horizontal stripes from necks to stockings.

Galitzine is said to have deserted her dizzying spiral designs of last season in favor of what she calls a kaleidoscope scheme — a juxtaposition of colored angels and squares.

Patric de Berentzen tagged his collection "sweet arrogance." His dresses flare dramatically.

Meanwhile back in Paris:

Balenciaga indicated he is through with the sculptured costumes which have been his forte for five years. What's new is his secret.

Yves St. Laurent still loves the baby chemise.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Good Heavens!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law died over a year ago, and since then my husband insists on staying nights with his father—even on weekends. I know the old man isn't afraid to stay alone because I've heard him tell my husband he didn't need to stay. But my husband says we shouldn't leave the old man alone because his loneliness might lead to a second marriage, which might complicate legal settlements later. Abby, is this fair to me and the children? I have tried to be a good sport, but I find myself harboring resentments. Should I not complain, and at the same time look forward to the time when his father dies (he is 67 and in good health) so we can be a family again?

WIDOW WITH A HUSBAND

DEAR WIDOW: Of all the grasping, scheming, materialistic characters that have been brought to my attention, your husband takes the prize. Not only is he cheating you and the children, but he is cheating his father as well. If the gentleman (and he is NOT old at 67) has any interest in female companionship, he should be encouraged in it. Tell your husband to get on home where he belongs and to quit playing self-appointed guardian of his father's estate.

DEAR ABBY: I am a boy, 14, and my parents and I don't see eye to eye on my clothes. I have a long waist, and when they buy my pants, they can get my waist size, but they can't get my leg size in the same pair of pants.

When I get a new pair of pants I look like a midshipman from the war of 1812. I ask my mother to peg them for me, but my father says, "No. Boys look like girls in pegged pants!" Can you help me? DISTRESSED

DEAR DISTRESSED: You are helpless, but I have a few words for your mother: "Peg the kid's pants! Most boys look like girls today anyway."

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I'm making a mountain out of a molehill, but after being married to Jerry for only six months, one of his habits is really driving me out of my mind. When he sits down to eat (whether we are at home, dining out, or are guests in someone's home) the first thing Jerry does is to salt everything that requires seasoning, and I mean he salts it up, but good! Abby, he doesn't even TRY it first, he just pours the salt on. People look at him in disbelief. At the homes of friends, I'm sure they think there's something wrong with their food. Shouldn't he take a little taste first? And if he likes things saltier, add a bit more salt instead of doing it in these great broad gestures? Or am I wrong to criticize him?

JERRY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If your husband likes salt, he should be a little more subtle in applying it, especially when he's a dinner guest. And he should take a token taste first, even though he knows he's going to add more salt. His craving for salt may be embarrassing for you, but it could have more serious implications. Tell him to mention this to his physician.

DEAR ABBY: What can parents do about a situation like this? We have always taught our children to address adults as, "Mr." and "Mrs." We have some neighbors who are older than we are and they keep telling our children not to address them in that manner but as, "Jennie and Hank." Training children is hard enough nowadays without neighbors like these to complicate matters. Can you tell us what to do? We've always been on friendly terms with all our neighbors and don't want any trouble now.

ANNOYED PARENTS.

DEAR PARENTS: Tell your neighbors (privately, of course) that you have instructed your children to address adults as Mr. and Mrs., and when adults ask to be addressed by their first names, they confuse children and encourage them to disregard their parents' wishes. If you tell them in a nice way and ask for their co-operation, you'll have no trouble.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

British Editor Strikes Back

LONDON (Reuters)—The high priest of British men's clothing today struck back at Hollywood tailors by Devore's charge that British clothiers favor the effeminate look.

"If a man wants to show what sex he is, it would be better if he wore no clothes at all," declared John Taylor, editor of the trade bible, Tailor and Cutter, in the latest outbreak of a war of needle-wielders.

Taylor said Devore's "effeminate" charge was merely an American attempt to strike back after his magazine labelled President Johnson's style of dress as "adding up to a fat, round nothing."

Devore makes Johnson's shirts.

Devore, tailor to Jerry Lewis, Dean Martin and William Holden, said British tailors long have been trying to introduce styles that would make men look like their sisters.

Taylor replied that clothes are neuter and British fashions didn't need to make men look manly—they were men already.

SEW SIMPLE WITH Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer:

My husband asked me to write to you and ask you how to sew on a coat button that "hangs."

Mrs. R. T.

Dear Mrs. R.T.:

First may I tell you how delightfully and accurately you expressed the way a button should be sewn to a garment. What your husband is referring to is the shank that is necessary to keep the button from being sewn too close to the coat itself and not leaving enough room to be buttoned. If you gals would learn to sew on a button that "hangs," you wouldn't have to replace so many.

When you are sewing on a button, begin with a double thread and make a tiny stitch on the RIGHT side of the garment at the exact spot the button will be sewn. When thread is secure, hold button away from garment and thread the needle through a hole in the button. Next, take a stitch almost clear through the coat, etc. The distance between the button and the coat will depend on the thickness of the garment. For a topcoat leave about ¼ to ⅜ inch. You will be sewing through the button and then through the coat fabric in two separate operations. When you have done this four or five times, hold the button away from fabric and twist the thread counter-clockwise around loose thread which will form the shank of the button. Complete by fastening the thread through the shank. The best part of it is that you will merely see a small indentation and, at the most, a tiny stitch on the wrong side of the fabric. After the lower button is sewed on, button the coat before placing the second in position, etc., until they are all sewed on.

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — When Barry Schneider, 22, and his wife, Nedra, 21, found and returned a bag containing $300,000 in payroll cheques to the U.S. Steel plant in nearby Torrance recently, they were given a reward they couldn't afford to accept.

Pacific Southwest Airlines offered the Schneiders and another couple with them when they returned the cheques airline tickets to fly anywhere they desired.

Schneider declined the offer because, as a student at San Fernando Valley State College, he could not afford a vacation.

Wednesday, U.S. Steel sent the Schneiders a $500 cheque to finance the vacation. Three anonymous donors also sent the couple another $80.

NEW YORK — The New York Mercantile Exchange said today it is considering inaugurating trading in scotch whisky futures.

John Scanlon, president of the exchange, said he expects the trading will begin before the end of this year.

Initial trading will be on a "spot," or more or less immediate delivery basis.

In granting scotch the status of a staple, the exchange would put whisky in the same category as the eggs, potatoes and aluminum contracts it now trades.

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

B.C. SYNOPSIS—A complex weather system moving off the B.C. coast continues to give extensive precipitation over the province this morning. Rain along the outer coast was to give way to snow along the mainland. At Vancouver rain and snow mixed were forecast as the system approaches during the day, changing to snow as it moved inland over the Washington coast this evening. Snow amounts are forecast to be 4 inches at Abbotsford and 2 inches at Vancouver city. In the Cariboo 8 inches of new snow had fallen at Prince George up to 4 a.m. this morning. Another 5 inches was likely before it tapers off later today. Another Pacific storm moving from the Gulf of Alaska will bring more rain to the north coast late Saturday.

Lagos Denies PM's Death

LAGOS (AP)—Nigeria's military government officially denied Thursday reports published overseas that Lagos authorities had announced the death of former federal Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa.

Information Director Cyprian Ekwensi said no announcement had been made on the fate of Balewa, who was kidnapped in the early hours of last Saturday.

Balewa's press secretary, Moses Awoyinfa, also said no announcement was made and "I know nothing of what happened."

Canadians Recaptured By Posse

NEW IBERIA, La. (AP)—Two young Canadians escaped jail here Thursday and dodged a sheriff's posse all around town until their recapture Thursday night.

Des Rosier, trailed by bloodhounds through the freezing night, swam the Bayou which cuts across the middle of New Iberia. Chilled to the bone, he rang the doorbell at a house near the Bayou — the home, though he didn't know it, of Deputy Dave LaSalle.

Mrs. LaSalle, realizing the youth was one of the escapees her husband was working overtime chasing, let him in. She provided a blanket and sent her son out the back door for Deputy LaSalle.

Lazeo was caught hiding in a used car lot.

The youths were being held for federal officials on a stolen car charge, Wattigny said.

Deputy Drozin Broussard said the two scrambled past him when he opened the door to a hallway leading past some jail cells.

"They were supposed to have been locked in their cells, but they were out in the hall," he said. "They got past me and ran out of the building."

There had been some question of whether they would continue to be valid because of the election and the new Parliament.

Thursday, in their first chance to criticize the Throne Speech, the opposition parties responded with two amendments each of which could have led to the fall of the government.

The non-confidence motions introduced by the Tories and NDP Thursday press the Liberal government to boost old age pensions to $100 monthly.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker opened the eight - day Throne Speech debate with an 80-minute attack on the government's legislative program and policies.

Borrowing an argument used exactly eight years ago by Mr. Pearson, then Opposition leader, he said the government should resign if defeated in a confidence vote and give the Opposition an opportunity to attempt to form a new government without another election.

Mr. Pearson rejected this idea, using the arguments invoked in 1958 by then prime minister Diefenbaker. He warned that if the Liberals are defeated on a non-confidence motion a new election would follow.

RECALLS REJECTION

NDP Leader Douglas commented that Mr. Diefenbaker wants to be named prime minister by the Commons after being rejected by the electorate by a 2-to-1 ratio. The people would dislike an early election, but they would dislike even more having "the Tories back in office."

Mr. Diefenbaker's non-confidence motion criticizes the government for failing to propose in the throne speech that monthly pensions now paid to all those aged 69 or over be increased by $25 to $100.

Mr. Douglas endorsed the Conservative move but added a motion of his own regretting that $100 pensions are not being paid immediately from age 65.

COST 'IMPOSSIBLE'

Mr. Pearson said it would cost an extra $855,000,000 annually to pay $100 pensions at 65. It would be impossible to finance the increase with contributions from the Canada Pension Plan fund as the Conservatives proposed, since Ottawa was committed to turn the fund over to the provinces for investment purposes.

It would be unreasonable to finance the increase through federal taxes as the NDP proposed because of fast-rising expenses in other social security programs.

Recorded Vote Lost By Tories

OTTAWA (CP)—In the first roll-call vote of the new Parliament, the Commons voted 123 to 65 Thursday night to permit Creditiste Leader Caouette to speak ahead of a Conservative MP.

A Conservative motion challenging the rotation of party speakers was introduced shortly before the normal 10 p.m. adjournment and forced the House to sit an extra hour for the recorded vote.

When Speaker Lucien Lamoureux recognized Mr. Caouette as the fourth party leader to speak on the opening day of the throne speech debate, Hugh Horner (PC—Jasper-Edson) also sought the floor.

Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) moved that Mr. Horner be allowed to speak instead of Mr. Caouette. Only the 65 Conservatives voting supported the motion.

Lining up against the bid were 90 Liberals, 18 New Democrats, eight Creditistes, five Social Credit MPs and the two independents.

SURVEILLANCE

'Under What Authority?'

OTTAWA (UPI)—The opposition went to the defence today of a man accused of spying in Canada for the Soviet Union.

Leading off the attack against the government's handling of the spy case that broke last year, Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker demanded to know under what law the government was keeping the suspect under constant survillance without laying any charge against him.

Diefenbaker has asked for a royal commission inquiry into the case that resulted in the expulsion from Canada last May of two minor Russian diplomats who allegedly offered two Canadians "thousands of dollars" to spy for them.

One of the Canadians helped police nab the Russians and the other — identified as Victor G. Spencer of Vancouver — was fired from his civil service job with the post office but never charged.

New Democratic leader T. C. Douglas asked Prime Minister Pearson if the government would at least give Spencer "an opportunity of clearing his name."

WARM welcome to the House of Commons Thursday was given Grace MacInnis (NDP-Vancouver-Kingsway) by Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker. Both praised her father, J. S. Woodsworth, and late husband, MP Angus MacInnis, founders of the old CCF party. Mrs. MacInnis was elected in the Nov. 8 vote.

should be a joint federal-provincial response to the challenge.

The increased federal grants would be "a constructive step forward in making an adequate contribution to the advancement of education."

There would be no infringement on the jurisdiction of the provinces in education.

The speech from the throne setting out government legislative aims for the session mentioned increased aid to universities but did not spell out any details.

The first mention of what specific steps the government had in mind came when Mr. Pearson rose Thursday to answer criticisms by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker of the speech.

PREMIER MORO
. . . embarrassing defeat

Undercover Rebellion Responsible

Moro's resignation was triggered by an embarrassing defeat in the Chamber of Deputies Thursday on his bill to set up a state nursery school. He had described the measure as a key reform that the Socialists demanded when entering the coalition in December 1963.

The cabinet meeting lasted only five minutes. When Moro walked out he told reporters: "The government decided to resign."

He went to the Quirinal Palace to inform President Giuseppe Saragat of the resignation.

President Saragat, acting in accord with custom, asked Moro to stay on in an interim capacity until a new government can be formed.. In effect, he reserved decision on the resignation when Moro submitted it formally to him.

No Strike Plea Puzzles Officials

WASHINGTON (AP)—Organized labor, already puzzled by President Johnson's anti-strike proposal, was further mystified Wednesday by a somewhat similar suggestion from one of the top union chiefs in the U.S.

Walter Reuther, United Auto Workers president, gave no details in proposing a "new mechanism" to prevent strikes in public service industries as well as major industries such as big steel and auto makers.

Many highly placed officials found it astonishing that any strike limiting suggestion should come from a labor leader of Reuther's stature.

Reuther, second most powerful man in the AFL-CIO, made his proposal in a speech to the Detroit Economic Club six days after Johnson's anti-strike reference in his State of the Union message Jan. 12.

Johnson said he would ask Congress to consider measures to deal with "strikes which threaten irreparable damage to the national interest."

130-DAY STRIKE OVER

Union, B-A Sign New Pact

A 130-day strike by truck drivers and warehousemen of British-American Oil ended today.

Leaders of both sides signed a new two-year contract to replace the one that ran out last April.

Among the 59 marketing division men involved are eight in Victoria and five in Nanaimo. They are members of Local 9-601 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union.

Seniority was the last stumbling block to settlement. The company wanted to split the province into three seniority zones to protect some union members who worked during the strike.

The union wanted to keep the former seniority list to protect those who did strike.

Company spokesmen have said a "very large" percentage of the company's industrial accounts were lost during the strike and some men might not be needed immediately.

Union members accepted a company proposal that a joint union-management committee study the seniority question. If recommendations from this committee are accepted by both sides, the proposals will become part of the new contract.

Pickets outside the B-A storage depot in Victoria were withdrawn Thursday pending signing of the new contract. The eight men are expected to return to work Monday.

The new contract is identical to others signed with major oil companies, and based on the provincial government formula that averted a general strike in B. C. last November.

It provides for a 35-cent wage increase, advance notice of technological change and union-management committees on automation.

Formal settlement was also expected today in Moose Jaw, where refinery workers have been on strike since Sept. 19. Strikes at the Kamloops and Port Moody refineries were settled earlier.

BRITISH INDUSTRY REELS

Hundreds Injured On Icy Streets

LONDON (AP) — Europe's cold wave crippled British industry today, packed hospitals and threatened major embarrassment for Prime Minister Wilson's government.

Cuts in gas supplies disrupted the English Midlands, the hub of British industry. Thousands of workers were laid off for the rest of the week as assembly lines halted in automobile and engineering plants.

Hospitals reported hundreds of fracture cases brought in from the icy streets. Some set up special wards for old people with hypothermia, a dangerous drop in body temperature. One London hospital reported 212 casualties from falls Thursday night, most of them broken wrists. Brighton, on the south coast, had 160.

Hundreds of cars were abandoned in snowdrifts around Dover on the English east coast. Ice and snow delayed trains throughout Britain.

In Norway, the intense cold seemed to be lifting slightly and the temperature reached 14 degrees. Oslo's weather for the last three months was the coldest since official records started 132 years ago.

43 SHIPS ICEBOUND

By these standards Britain, with temperatures only a few degrees below freezing, was enjoying a "heat wave" but the consequences were considerable.

Cuts by the government gas and electricity authorities gave the Conservative Opposition a springboard for attack on Wilson's Labor government, which has a majority of only two votes in the House of Commons.

Conservatives said the attack will start as soon as Parliament returns Tuesday from the Christmas recess. It will culminate Thursday in an attempt to bring the government down by forcing a vote of censure.

One issue the Opposition will raise is what happened to the winter emergency committee set up by the government after similar power cuts last November.

The government's answer is that it is concerned only with long-term solutions. The main cause of the current trouble is failures in two major gas plants in the Midlands.

MAN FROZE TO DEATH 100 YARDS FROM HOUSE

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP)—An Edmonton man froze to death just 100 yards from shelter after he and a companion walked seven miles Thursday in 50-below-zero weather.

M. A. Hendriks and Leon Peterson headed for Bell Rock after abandoning their stalled truck 32 miles from Fort Smith.

Sketchy reports indicated the men were 100 yards from the only occupied house in the community when Hendriks collapsed and died.

Peterson was in serious condition in Fort Smith Hospital.

Socreds Back Pearson In First of Test Votes

Thompson Pledge Assures Majority

OTTAWA (UPI) —Social Credit leader Robert Thompson today promised the minority Liberal government the support it needs to withstand its first non-confidence challenge of the 27th Parliament later in the day.

And in another heartening break for the government, Liberal house leader George McIlraith announced that agreement has been reached in behind-the-scenes negotiations on the potentially explosive rules question.

The support of Thompson's five Social Credit members gave the Liberals a narrow majority with a possible 135 in the 265-seat Commons on a New Democratic Party motion scheduled to come up later today. The Conservative motion will come up Tuesday.

Thompson said that although agreeing with the motion based on government failure to increase the old age pension to $100 a month and make it available to age 65, he could not support any measure designed to defeat the government because the country would not stand for another election at this time.

WOULD BE REJECTED

Any political party that brought about an election at this time would be completely rejected by the electorate, Mr. Thompson said.

He deplored the fact that pensions and Canadian senior citizens should become the subject of political manoeuvring and strategy.

His statement meant the government also could count on Socred support for further throne speech amendments, including the Conservative motion.

McIlraith's announcement on rules question ended several days of party negotiations and uncertainty and meant that with a few minor exceptions, rules passed in the previous Parlia-

HUNGER HAUNTS INDIA

NEW DELHI (AP) — India's food crisis has thrown more than 12,000,000 people into "dire distress" and threat of starvation, government figures disclosed today.

A food ministry spokesman said a survey of drought-stricken areas shows at least 100,000,000 of the country's 480,000,000 people will feel a severe pinch before the crisis is past.

The survey is continuing, the spokesman said, and final figures in both categories are bound to increase despite emergency measures to get more U.S. food grains into India.

People in "dire distress" will have to be moved into relief camps or fed almost entirely by relief supplies now being rushed to many parts of the country, the spokesman said.

SET UP CAMPS

Relief camps already are being set up in Rajasthan and Gujarat states in western India, the area hardest hit by the 1965 drought.

In Admeer district of Rajasthan, the government found 806 villages out of 956 were living under "scarfcity conditions." In Bikaner district, 497 out of 529 were hard hit.

Of 16 districts in Gujarat state, 11 had crop yields less than 25 per cent of normal.

Other hard - hit states are Madhya Pradesh, Masharashtra, Andhra Pradesh and Mysore.

In many areas, the government also has started emergency shipments of drinking water and cattle fodder.

SHIP IN RICE

The government meanwhile announced 15,000 tons of rice is being shipped from Orissa state in the east to Kerala state, a southwest Communist hotbed where food demonstrations are erupting.

More than 1,000 pro-Moscow Communists and 3,000 students marched on government offices Thursday demanding increased rations of rice—their principal food.

Even states that normally are surplus producers of food grains now are reporting difficulties.

Rattan Singh, the Punjab's minister of agriculture, told reporters in Chandigarh his state is likely to have a 500,000-ton deficit in wheat production.

American grain shipments under the Food for Peace program have been averaging 600,000 tons monthly and are expected to hit more than 1,000,000 tons a month.

PEARSON GIVES DETAILS

$60 Million Increase In Education Grants

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal grants to universities will be bosted to $100,000,000 from the present $40,000,000 in the 1966-67 year if Parliament approves, Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday night.

He said this would be an interim arrangement to help universities pending a federal-provincial conference on education. It would bring the federal per capita grant to $5 from the present $2, he announced in the Commons.

Meanwhile, a special formula had been worked out by which more money would be given provinces with a high percentage of out-of-province students.

It would be applied by the Association of Universities and Colleges in all provinces except Quebec. But special arrangements would be made so Quebec would get an equal increase.

Mr. Pearson, speaking in the throne speech debate, said an interim arrangement to boost grants had been suggested in December.

The government hoped to work out long-term approaches through a federal-provincial conference on education to be arranged in the next few months.

The Economic Council of Canada in its second annual review had recommended that education at all levels be given a high priority. Education was a crucially important factor in the economy.

The prime minister said there

BIG RAISE BY BENNETT NEEDED

VANCOUVER (CP) — University of B.C. president John B. Macdonald said Thursday the provincial government should follow the federal government's lead in increasing grants to universities.

Dr. Macdonald said in a statement the increase in per capita federal grants to $5 from $2 a "useful temporary measure."

He said the grant increase still falls short of the Bladen commission's recommendation of a $6 per capita grant for 1966-67.

"It is crucially important, as indicated by the prime minister, that the provinces as well as the federal government recognize the pressing needs of the universities for annual increases in financial support," Dr. Macdonald said.

"In the light of Premier Bennett's statement that education is among the highest priorities of his government, we should be able to anticipate a significant increase in provincial supportment to complement the assistance being provided by the federal government."

Boost in Aid Hailed by Uvic

A spokesman at the University of Victoria this morning welcomed news that the federal government is increasing grants for higher education.

Dean R. T. Wallace said the increase in grants may signal "a turning point in university development."

The federal government announced Thursday that operating grants would go up from $2 to $5 per capita for the academic year of 1966-67.

Dean Wallace, who is acting president of the university in the absence of President Malcolm Taylor, (in Ottawa on a business trip) said Canadian universities have emphasized the need for more money for higher education.

He said this early response by the federal authorities "is most gratifying." He also hailed the decision of the federal government to review university development along with the provinces.

Dean Wallace said: "All parties recognize the importance of further national investment in our human resources."

He added, "our own provincial government and the academic community in British Columbia have shown by their actions that B.C. is ready to meet the challenge of our times."

Operating grants from the province to Uvic have increased 126 per cent over the past two years.

U.S. Patrol Attacked

SAIGON (AP)—The Viet Cong jolted the lunar new year cease-fire today by attacking a U.S. marine patrol near Da Nang and engaging South Korean marines in a two-hour close quarter battle near the central coast.

Two U.S. marine sergeants were killed when the guerrillas caught a marine platoon in a flooded rice paddy.

OTTAWA (CP)—New subsidies on ships built in Canada are intended to apply only to construction started after Jan. 1, 1966, Transport Minister Pickersgill told the Commons today.

Queen's Act 'Illegal', Lifts Death Sentence

SALISBURY (Reuters)—The Rhodesian government refused today to recognize Queen Elizabeth's decree lifting the death sentence on a Negro convicted of trying to start a fire in Rhodesia.

A government statement said it regards the exercise of the royal prerogative in the case as an illegal act.

An announcement in London Thursday said the Queen had commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence passed on the Negro named Lazarus.

Lazarus was convicted by a Rhodesian court of attempting to set fire to two buildings.

The death sentence, passed before the Rhodesian white-minority regime's unilateral declaration of independence from Britain last November, was mandatory under the colony's Law and Order (Maintenance) Act.

Referring to the royal announcement, the Salisbury statement said:

"This is a political move designed to embarrass the Rhodesian government and it is a pity that once again the British government should have shown its willingness to embroil Her Majesty the Queen in politics."

Tax Series Starts In Times Saturday

Property taxes. Soaring property taxes.

The subject — a sore one — is foremost in every home-owner's mind as the time nears when he will be opening tax notices with trepidation.

Are they out of line?

Are municipalities doing enough to keep taxes down?

Is the provincial government generous enough with the municipalities?

The Times recently assigned reporter Pete Loudon to find the answers to these questions and a lot more which have been plaguing what has been called "the poor-put-upon-home-owner."

His findings—in a four-part series—will start Saturday in The Times.

'BRAINWASHING CANADIAN PEOPLE'

Dief Blasts CBC for Portraying U.S. as Villains

By IAN MacDONALD
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker Thursday accused the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation of portraying America as an imperialist, war-mongering villain in South Viet Nam.

Diefenbaker ripped into the corporation for its handling of news about the Asian hot spot.

He accused it of brainwashing the Canadian public.

"According to its programs you would think the United States was one of the great enemies of mankind," Diefenbaker told Parliament.

He demanded that the top brass of the corporation be brought before Parliament to explain.

Diefenbaker launched into his CBC attack after he accused the Liberal government of using the network to spread propaganda during the last election campaign.

The Tory leader, speaking in the throne speech debate, said that External Affairs Minister Paul Martin takes the stand that the U.S. is in Viet Nam because it is trying to stop the spread of Communism throughout Southeast Asia.

Diefenbaker said propaganda is spread in every part of Canada about how terrible the Americans are acting.

He said he, at times, has been critical of the U.S., "but the CBC programs picture the most diabolical cruelties being perpetrated by the Americans.

"Why does it do that?"

The CBC, he said, had even brought in Tim Buck, retired general secretary of the Communist Party in Canada, and presented him on television "to tell Canadians what is wrong with the U.S.A."

"Shame," a handful of MPs erupted.

Parliament, he said, should look into this "among the people in the CBC." He did not mean the employees but the people at the top who are "brainwashing, or endeavoring to brainwash the Canadian people."

That, he thundered, was not what the CBC was established for.

"We wanted it to be an institution above those considerations that ordinarily separate us," he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he had considered programs one by one.

The Tory leader said he would press as strongly as he could for "these people (at CBC) to come before Parliament to let us in on these things."

Mr. Diefenbaker then reverted to his attack on the CBC for its conduct in the election.

He mocked the "tremendous influence of the propaganda that was put out in the last few days of the campaign regarding the sweep that was to take place."

"That," he exclaimed, "was not done as an impersonal act for the benefit of the people of Canada."

Later in the throne speech, Prime Minister Pearson said Mr. Diefenbaker's charge against the CBC's election conduct was "very serious indeed."

Mr. Pearson said, "That is a serious charge and perhaps my right honorable friend (Mr. Diefenbaker) will have an opportunity to prove it.

"And it is the kind of charge to which we in this house are becoming accustomed, made without evidence and by insinuation and innuendo."

Mr. Pearson's statement was greeted by loud Liberal applause.

CAREFUL BUSTER! Better watch your language around Albemarle County's newest deputy sheriff—she's a lady. Miss Nancy Norvelle, shapely and 22, was sworn in Thursday, the first female officer in the Virginia county's history. She's been a secretary and dispatcher for the past two years.

MAC-POWELL LOGGING

New Operation To Employ 200

A new logging operation, employing about 200 men, will be brought into production almost immediately by MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. on Vancouver Island.

Announcement of the new Cameron division, located in the Cameron River area, southeast of Port Alberni, was made by H. R. Chisholm, general manager of the company's logging group.

NEW LOADERS

Equipped with fresh-from-the-factory log loaders, huge trucks and steel yarding spars, it will be MacPowell's 19th logging operation. Its log production will supply expanded production facilities at the company's Alberni pulp and paper division and Alberni plywood division.

Logging will be carried out in rugged terrain in the Museum Creek and Corrigan Creek areas.

Some of the timber is within the E&N land grant and was purchased by the company last year, said Mr. Chisholm. The stands also include timber owned previously by the company.

NEW ROAD

In preparation for start of logging operations, 10 miles of road have been constructed and a log dump is nearing completion on the Alberni Canal near the mouth of China Creek.

An additional 28 miles of logging road will be built by the company this year to provide access.

All employees in the division will reside in the Alberni area and will be able to commute between home and the logging operations.

Of MacPowell's 18 other logging operations, 10 are located on Vancouver Island

MAC-POWELL OFFICIALS INVITED

PORT ALBERNI — Mayor Les Hammer Thursday called on MacPowell officials to attend a pollution control meeting Sunday.

He said without the officials' presence, the meeting, called by private citizens, would be pointless.

The meeting will try to decide on a course of action to force the giant company to reduce the amount of smoke and fly ash from its Port Alberni mill.

On Thursday, George McKnight, pollution fighter, said he will appeal tax assessment on behalf of citizens in badly affected areas.

NEW TACK IN TAX PROTEST

VANCOUVER (CP) — MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. has taken a new direction in its protest against a provincial tax levy on land purchased from the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway.

A portion of the Vancouver Island property, bought by MacPowell, in 1964, has been assessed at $35,000,000 and an $8,000,000 tax has been levied on this assessment.

The company now has asked Mr. Justice Victor Dryer in B.C. Supreme Court to declare invalid the taxation notice. Mr. Justice Dryer has reserved decision.

TOTAL TRACT

The companuy says it is not seeking to avoid taxation, but claims it is entitled to have the tax levy based on the total tract purchase.

Purchase price for the entire tract was about $35,000,000.

Mr. Justice Dryer was told the firm's protest against the assessment figure before a court of revision has been postponed pending the outcome of the Supreme Court hearing.

Provincial government legislation requires that any land sold by the railway for purposes other than railway use is subject to a 25 per cent tax on its value.

The land was originally granted by the Canadian government in B.C.'s early days to encourage building of the railway on the island.

Premier Asked To Open Museum

NORTH COWICHAN—Premier W. A. C. Bennett will be invited to open the Cowichan Valley Forest Museum June 4.

The opening date coincides with the 100th anniversary of the logging industry in B.C.

The first stage coach used between Duncan and Lake Cowichan will be in operation for the two-day opening celebrations.

'Never Had a Thought of Giving Up'

The Lady Logger Followed Her Man

MRS. GROSSKLEG
. . . 'big, little company'

By DON DINGWALL

LAKE COWICHAN — Back in 1921, rough and tough old E. J. Palmer used to say he'd rather have 10 Bolsheviks in his logging camp than a woman.

He reckoned without Helen Grosskleg.

They went on a "speeder" pulled by two horses.

Today the same Helen Grosskleg owns and operates one of the logging industry's "big little companies."

The company last year had a payroll of $200,000.

Mrs. Grosskleg has run the whole show since the death of her husband, Bill, in 1952.

★

She will be 68 next month but says "I'll keep going as long as I have my health."

When the company's going full blast it employs 35 to 40 men in the woods.

Currently her crews are logging two million feet of timber at Franklin River.

Mrs. Grosskleg modestly states, "I'm no logger. I wouldn't know whether to make a landing here or somewhere else.

"I deal with the companies."

How well does she deal?

Well, Grosskleg & Trueman consistently makes money.

Mrs. Grosskleg says "I never had a thought of giving up when Bill died. It's our livelihood.

"We've never made any fortune but we made money."

About her dealings, Mrs. Grosskleg says

"We set a price and then dicker with the companies.

"The companies don't want the contractors to go broke.

"And they have to give 30 per cent logging to the small contractors or lose their tree farm licences from the government.

★

"A couple of times when we didn't make money they raised the price so we've no
Mrs. Grosskleg seldom goes into the woods now.
complaint."

She said "If I had to go through some of the back roads I'd likely get lost."

She says she has never known resentment among the men toward her as a "lady logger."

But Mrs. Grosskleg admitted "Some of them took advantage of me with sob stories.

"I lost a few thousand dollars advancing money to some of them but I never garnisheed any man's wages. "Now I'm careful and have good crews."

She points out "Orders to the men don't come direct from me but from my foreman."

Early memories include living in a rail boxcar in the mountains behind Ladysmith.

She recalls "When we came out it was on a speeder without a motor.

"I had a nine-month-old baby in my arms and my husband's instructions were that if he yelled I was to roll off on to the mountainside."

Later she lived in a Lake Cowichan houseboat for five years

The houseboat used to move around tied to boomsticks.

One day she stepped "next door" to visit a neighbor.

The step back was half a mile — the houseboat had moved on.

★

The "big little company" had the first gas caterpillar tractor on Vancouver Island, if not in B.C.

It was brought from the U.S. with a man to train someone else to run it.

Mrs. Grosskleg is jealous of what bosses feed loggers.

She agrees with getting away from camp cookhouses — but only because they lose the company money.

She says "Cookhouse meals in camp were better than most families sit down to.

"An average breakfast was porridge, bacon and egg, hotcakes, toast, jam, and there was cake and pie on the table."

Mrs. Grosskleg also objects to the popular misconception of the logger as a man who stays in camp six months and then blows all his pay in two weeks in the big city.

She says: "Today, most loggers live at home and are just like any other working man.

"And he's no ordinary laborer. He has to understand machinery."

While Mrs. Grosskleg herself is no laborer or machine hand, no one who knows her will deny she's a logger — and a good one.

Trustees Try Again

It will have a second go at the department of education to get doorstep-to-doorstep transportatin for seven of its class of retarded children.

ISLAND DIGEST

Denture Choked Highway Victim

DUNCAN—Lawrence Richard Lawson, 24, was remanded in custody on a criminal negligence charge Thursday after announcing he would try to obtain legal aid.

Lawson, of Duncan, was unable to raise the $3,000 bail.

The preliminary hearing will continue Feb. 9 after Lawson has had a chance to contact the John Howard Society.

He is charged with causing the death of Donald Larry Olson, 20, of Duncan, Dec. 28, by criminally negligent driving.

Olson was walking on Cowichan Lake Road when hit.

DOCTOR TESTIFIES

Only medical evidence was admitted at Thursday's brief hearing.

He said he saw Olson lying in the centre of the road near Butler's gravel pit.

He was already dead

Dr. Pawlowski said Olson may have been semi-conscious before asphyxiation due to a trauma of the head.

EXTERNAL FORCE

He said: "It would have needed external force to put the plate in that position."

Dr. Pawlowski said this was about 4:45 a.m

At 6 a.m. the same day he examined Lawson in a Duncan RCMP cell.

He said: "Lawson appeared quite excited and was walking back and forth but talked coherently.

BRUISES

"There were numerous bruises to his face and scalp.

Mrs. Rolande Rouen, RCMP laboratory, Vancouver, said a blood test showed Lawson had a .12 alcohol content at the time of his examination.

School On Saturday!

The suggestion was made this week by school board education chairman Joseph Shook for senior secondary students who missed five days at the beginning of the term due to snow.

"The elementary schools are not quite as important," Mr. Shook said. "But the senior students should have the opportunity to make up lost time."

Funeral Saturday For 'Ma Miller'

Funeral services will be held Satuday for Mrs. Mary Ann (Ma Miller) Smith, 90, who died in Victoria Wednesday.

She was given the affectionate nickname because of her concern for people, says her grandnephew, Earl Cairns of Victoria. Miller was the name of her first husband who died in a car accident on the Malahat.

Mrs. Smith rebuilt the Goldstream Inn, which is still known by many as "Ma Miller's," after a fire destroyed it in the late 1920s. She owned it until 1946. She also was a former owner of the Colwood Inn.

She is survived by her husband, Asa, at home; a niece, Mrs. Daisy Cairns of Victoria, and grand-nephews and grand-nieces.

Rev. T. G. Griffiths will officiate at the service at 4 p.m. at Sands Mortuary, followed by cremation.

The 'School-State' Of Dr. Kurt Hahn

SCALA INTERNATIONAL
Frankfurt-am-Main

The problem of educating the young is as old as the human race, and it has occupied the finest minds. The extent to which this problem was solved has always influenced the verdict on the cultural stature of a people or an age. The thoughts and ideas on education are as manifold as the society in which we live.

One of the outstanding educationalists of our age is Dr. Kurt Hahn, whose ideas on training young people have been put into effect in several countries.

The best known of his schools is Salem on Lake Constance, which has been in existence for some 40 years. It was founded shortly after the end of the Second World War, on April 21, 1920, by Prince Max of Baden, the last chancellor of Imperial Germany.

But the school's spiritual father, creator and, for many years, headmaster was Dr. Kurt Hahn, who is now 80 years old. The school began with two dozen pupils. Today, there are more than 500, some of whom are not at Salem itself but at three other schools which are closely connected with Salem.

Spread Far

The educational ideas which Salem represents have long since spread beyond the country of their origin. Kurt Hahn, who moved to Britain in 1933 and still spends several months of every year there since his return to Germany after the war, founded Gordonstoun in the North of Scotland, a school which today also has more than 500 pupils and which has since been joined by a number of further boarding schools in various countries.

The basic idea of pupil co-administration, which was developed to full maturity by Dr. Hahn, means that responsibility for the "school state" is borne to a considerable extent by the pupils themselves. It means that the school provides an opportunity for dedication to a common cause and is a field for the practicing of the civil virtues of responsibility, self-discipline and consideration for one's fellows.

Under proper guidance, all this develops best through self-education, the importance of which is known to every father and mother from their own experience.

To achieve this, Salem has set up a whole hierarchy. Even the ten-year-old "junior" has his duties in the house, the kitchen, the garden and on the playing fields. He is not allowed to wear the grey school uniform until his seniors are satisfied with him. If he continues to make good, he may join those who are allowed to wear the school's violet colors on their sleeves.

Unlike other schools, punishments are not handed out at Salem on the basis of an authoritarian system of discipline. Salem trains its pupils to develop self-discipline. Pupils are not expected to get "caught." The normal thing is for them to confess their misdeeds.

One of Salem's most proved methods of building character is sport. Many problems which threaten the futures of young people, at least in all industrialised countries, do not exist at Salem. The lack of exercise, which leads to circulatory disturbances, muscular atrophy, as well as vegetative and psychic disturbances, is unknown there.

Every morning begins with a run; there is also an hour of physical exercise every morning and games every second afternoon. Team games are highly regarded because they not only encourage strength and toughness, endurance and physical resistance, the power of observation and reaction speed, but also the idea of fairness.

Successful cheating in sport is not regarded as a sign of prowess at Salem any more than cheating in school work or examinations.

His friendship with British Air Marshal Sir Lawrence Darvall led Hahn to draw up a plan for a number of genuinely international schools. These schools would be set up in a number of countries and would accept selected boys of all nations without regard to their origin or their parents' financial situation and educate them to a higher school certificate level to be recognized in all countries concerned. Communal living on the Salem pattern would enable these boys to grow up into men free of all the racial, religious and cultural prejudices which still poison the human race today.

The first of these schools, the "Atlantic College," was founded in the autumn of 1960 at St. Donat's Castle on the coast of South Wales. It began with 55 pupils from twelve countries, who mostly receive public scholarships. The College is equipped to take 450 pupils.

Revolution In Teaching Of English

By PETER PRESTON
The Manchester Guardian

LONDON—The beginnings of a total revolution in teaching English language and literature emerged last week from a new working paper of the School's Council of Britain.

For the first time in Britain, an official committee has started to look at the whole gamut of English teaching, relating it unequivocally to social justice and the coming of comprehensive schooling, and treating English as the core of schooling, not just another subject.

Demolition First

First, however, there has to be demolition. The working paper tears down more than it sets up. It begins with profound dissatisfaction: universities complaining about illiterate scientists, teachers chafing against antique curricula, children who are only semi-literate leaving school with an abiding grudge against the staff.

Part of the blame for this malaise, the council says, concepts — gramatical exercises which do not help a child to speak or write fluently, stilted essays on the "Adventures of a Penny," mechanical work which stultifies the imagination. Part of the blame belongs elsewhere.

"From experience in a variety of schools it seems to us that too many teachers who lack conviction, depth of interest, or basic qualifications (or all three) are pressed into taking English. They rely heavily on English coursebooks, and their pupils, instead of operating on the open road, go through the motions shut up inside the garage."

This dead hand, the report maintains, over-emphasizes correctness before fluency is attained. "Such an approach tends to produce over-teaching and underlearning; it relies excessively on tests and examinations to provide an incentive which the work itself lacks."

Creative Tack

In direct contrast, the council argues almost exclusively for a creative tack. "Children cannot grow up adequately if they are inarticulate; their inner life is in sound condition only if it finds outlet through the two basic forms of self-expression—physical activity and speech."

Communication, mastery of words, is the fundamental essential which divides children from an early age, depending on their home environment. The council's suggested path to communication lies through easy, frequent conversations with their teachers, improvised drama, personal writing about personal experience, experiments with poetry.

The over-riding principle is that children write best when they have something they want and need to communicate. Impersonal, descriptive, or explanatory writing can come only at a late stage.

B.C.'s MEDICARE A VITAL ISSUE

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

The legislative session opens next week and, as usual, it's hard to predict what major legislative changes the government will bring in.

But there are clues that point to three areas where there should be some mighty big bills and all of them, not too strangely, will provide links between this week's Speech from the Throne in Ottawa and the one Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will read Thursday.

Mika

The three areas are: medicare, higher education and automation. Last year, when the legislature was debating the legislation which founded the B.C. Medical Plan, Premier Bennett met New Democratic Party criticism that it was "tin cup medicare" with the assertion that it was a "first step" towards a comprehensive medicare program for all British Columbians.

It is within the realm of possibility, for three reasons, that he will take the second and final step towards full medicare at this session.

The first of these reasons is that, assuming an election this year, it would be a natural issue for seeking (and ensuring) a new mandate for the government, once again, as in the B.C. Electric takeover, reducing the NDP to a frustrating "we promised it first" campaign slogan.

Won't Say

Second is the fact that whereas Mr. Bennett proudly said his first steps would help up to 445,000 persons — one-quarter of the province—it has in fact only given coverage to something under 200,000. But, most crucial of all, the government officials refuse to divulge how many of the 97,000 subscribers are drawing the 50 and 25 per cent subsidies.

It has been revealed that about 34 per cent of the subscribers are over 65 years and a good number of these can be assumed to qualify for the low-income members. But MSI last year revealed 15,000 of its individual plan subscribers were expected to transfer to BCMP for the subsidy. CU & C Health Services said it expected 6,000 to shift. Fraser Valley Medical Services Society added 800 to the list and an unknown number from other private plans would bring the total to about 23,000 tranfers, probably close to the total number of subsidies.

No Wonder

If this analysis is correct, there is little wonder that the government has been able to count the number of subscribers and dependents in its plan but can't, no matter how ofen it is asked, remember the number obtaining subsidies. Premier Bennett certainly wouldn't relish admitting to the legislature that his plan had failed his own stated objectives of increasing—as opposed to transferring those already covered—the number of needy persons who have medicare coverage.

The third reason for expecting a medicare plan is the federal throne speech references to coming medicare talks and major increases in grants for higher education, promptly followed by a private telegram which obviously delighted Mr. Bennett.

If considerable aid in this field is received by the provincial government then a relatively modest dip into the huge surplus would enable Mr. Bennett to give Health Minister Eric Martin — privately an ardent proponent of full government medicare—the green light for telling the Jan. 31 federal-provincial health ministers conference that B.C. will not wait any longer for federal help but will follow Saskatchewan's lead of full medicare now.

The appointment of Dr. Neil Perry as deputy education minister last fall, and certain statements by Education Minister Leslie Peterson and Mr. Bennett, all pressage some major legislation to increase the opportunities for higher education in this province. Federal moves in this field won't hinder that possibility and the Jan. 27 fee-withholding resolve of many varsity students will strengthen it.

Once again, the tone of Mr. Peterson's remarks recently, the government's satisfaction with its success in its oil industry settlement formula, the near-general strike and the determination of the opposition to score off the government all point towards a start towards ushering automation into the statute books—possibly with incentives for firms that co-operate with the government's call for on-the-job retraining programs.

Not all these points will necessarily appear in the throne speech because no less an authority than Premier Bennett, in criticizing the federal program this week, said: "to be fair, no government gives too much of its policy in the Speech from the Throne because policy takes money and money means the budget speech."

Caucus Starts

Be that as it may, all of these points definitely will be under searching discussion when the first of the three parties, the New Democratic Party, begins its caucus of MLAs to plan both strategy and tactics.

The Liberals will hold their caucus in Vancouver Tuesday and Wednesday and the Socred caucus will open here Wednesday afternoon.

By Thursday, when the formal opening ceremonies are held at 3 p.m., the annual pitched battle we call politics already will be in full swing and the first wounds will have been inflicted in those caucuses.

LESLIE PETERSON
. . . education priority

Everyone knows who the officers and privates are on both sides but, for those interested, here's a list of the all-important "sergeants" expected to run each camp this session:

The Socreds will have Herb Bruch as caucus chairman and Bert Price as whip. For the NDP it will be Randolph Harding and John Squire, respectively. And for the Liberals it will be Dr. Pat McGeer and Harry McKay.

Hedging Against Inflation Through Investing in Art

By WILLIAM DAVIS
The Manchester Guardian

LONDON—No one has a monopoly on inflation. My table, based on the latest International Monetary Fund's official statistics, showed what happened to the cost of living in 20 different countries in the 12 months to October, 1965.

The British pound buys less today than it did a year ago. The same goes for every one of the world's other 121 currencies: Just about the only place you get more for your money than you used to is on a weighing machine.

Pick's World Currency Report, which keeps a check on these sort of things, notes that the "conservation of assets in this 16th year of post-war inflation remained as difficult as ever.'

29 Devaluated

West European and North American units did relatively well; elsewhere the year saw 29 full or partial devaluations.

Twenty-two currencies sank to historic lows—including those of Afghanistan, Albania, Algeria, Argentina, Burma, Cambodia, Ceylon, Chile, Colombia, Egypt, Ghana, Guinea, India, Indonesia, Israel, South Korea, Laos, Pakistan, Rhodesia, Syria, Uruguay, Viet Nam, and Yugoslavia.

The decline in money values, of course, is always held to be the greatest argument for holding ordinary shares. As a debating point, this has merit. But shares don't offer guaranteed protection. Most stock markets put up disappointing performances in 1965, though two notable exceptions were Wall Street and Milan.

Could one have done better in, say, antiques or paintings? According to Pick's Survey, the answer is "yes" — providing one chose carefully.

Actually, the world of art and culture yielded top place for the third year running to "the rather prosaic item" of well selected unimproved land, bordering on large cities (excluding Switzerland and the Iron Curtain countries). Price increases of 80 per cent to 100 per cent were shown from the United States to the Far East and from Scandinavian countries to Australia.

Manuscripts and rare books also did very well; The survey says prices were 80 to 90 per cent up on 1964. A 14th-century Icelandic manuscript, "Lives of the Apostles," was sold for around $100,000 at Sotheby's. Robert Herrick's "Political Commonplace Book" printed in 1612, fetched $95,000, and a 1484 edition of the "Canterbury Tales," printed by Caxton, drew $84,000. A William Harvey letter, commenting on blood circulation in 1637, was bought for $15,250 by Manhattan's H. P. Kraus at Sotheby's, and a letter, written by Professor I. P. Semmelweiss, mid-19th century, and dealing with childbed fever, which had been bought earlier at $1,100, sold at $12,600 in a London auction.

COST OF LIVING INCREASES
(Oct. 1964—Oct. 1965)

United States	2 0/0

Enamels, rarely enjoying great demand, scored price increases of 60 to 65 per cent— bringing fame to collectors A French enamel plaque, only 4 inches by 4 inches, fetched $100,000 (the price of five Rolls-Royce cars) in London. Says Pick's Report: "The rather small sizes of these objects, ideal for capital flight, contributed to their attraction."

Drawings had gains of 50 to 60 per cent over 1964 levels. About 160 drawings and sketches of Giovanni Tiepoli were sold for $240,000 at Christie's. Two small Rembrandt pen-and-ink sketches were bought for $21,000 and around $8,000 respectively.

Chippendale furniture rose by about 50 per cent: a writing desk by Thomas Chippendale, about 1700, fetched a record $123,000. Prices for French furniture did not show any real rise, but remained at 1964's high level.

Sculpture continued to rise in international auctions, and reached about 40 to 50 per cent higher prices than in 1964. An 11-inch gilt bronze figure of Christ, circa 1150, fetched more than $61,000 in London. Parke Bernet in New York sold a Henry Moore "seated nude" at $40,000 and a bronze head of Emperor Claudius, circa 100 B.C., found by a boy about five years ago in an English river, fetched $30,000.

Paintings remained in demand. Old masters were about 50 per cent above 1964 levels. French impressionists, still in collectors' favor, rose about 40 per cent in 1965 auctions. A "fantastic" $105,000 was paid for a 6¼ by 10-inch Seurat at Christie's. Again, suggests the survey, the small size served as an incentive for buying. Modern painters gained about 25 per cent in price, especially in Paris sales. American paintings are around 20 per cent higher than a year ago: there was "some better tone for the non-objective class of paintings which sold at historic lows in 1964."

Record Price

Silver, up about 40 per cent over last year, showed high quality sales. A French 1820 Vermeil service by Biennais and others made for the Russian Grand Duke Michael, reached a record price of around $154,000. A Louis XV soup tureen and stand by Francois German, 1758, made for the Russian Imperial Court, was bid up to $126,000. Snuffboxes did not do very well and sold generally at about 30 per cent lower levels than in 1964.

Diamonds had only a fair year. Small sizes such as 100 and 50 to the carat soared about 16 to 18 per cent in active trading. One and two-carat gems eased about 1 per cent and four-carat sizes declined 3.8 per cent in paper dollar value in Manhattan's dealings.

So much for the record, as presented in New York. Clearly there are some highly successful ways of protecting against inflation. Not many people, of course, can afford a Rembrandt or a Cezanne. But there is quite a wide range of modestly priced treasures to choose from. Providing one knows how to pick.

What Is So Frightening About a Broadcasting 'Czar?'

By DOUGLAS FISHER

Alphonse Ouimet of the CBC, the private broadcasters, and most editorial writers agree that it would be very wrong to have enacted the Fowler recommendation of a Canadian broadcasting authority "with an all-purpose, powerful czar."

Fisher

As one newspaper put it: "It would lead to a dangerous concentration of responsibility in the hands of one civil servant." The CBC said: "Surely it is the full board which should have this tremendous responsibility. The corporation finds the delegation of such power to one man to be unacceptable in either principle or practice. It would constitute an unprecedented departure from the traditional Canadian approach to allocation of discretionary power."

★ ★ ★

This kind of criticism seems to dismiss without any consideration the certainty that such a one-man direction would be created by Parliament and answerable in some way to it. The CBC president and the others seem to have forgotten James Coyne, former head of the Bank of Canada. In the Coyne crisis, it seemed to prove out that Mr. Coyne had the very kind of authority concentrated in his office that the recommended authority for broadcasting would have

Before you say: and look what happened to Mr. Coyne, remember that he had his day in court and was over-ridden in the end by the government and Parliament. He could not continue directing and advocating policies that went contrary to the general sense of the government and thus the country.

If one looks, even cursorily, at the recent operations of two other boards with discretionary powers, the Board of Broadcast Governors and the Board of Transport Commissioners, one could leap to the conclusion that it has been the very presence of a group responsibility, rather than a one-man leadership, that has given both the impression and the reality of ineffective, inconsistent leadership. Surely democracy comes finally to the point of giving authority to one man, a president or prime minister.

It is not being facetious to point out that Mr. Johnson in the U.S., Mr. Pearson in Canada, Donald Gordon with the CNR, even Mr. Ouimet of the CBC, symbolize their jurisdictions and represent the ultimate responsibility to their constituents or boards. What's so unprecedented about this? What so unusual in principle? Aren't there both utility and common sense in having one man with the final responsibility, one man with the overall authority in a field.

If I see any fault in the one-man authority it is not any anticipation of a reign of terror or of stupidity but simply the difficulty in findiny the man of courage and ability to take it on. On the other hand the selection of a board or committee to do the job or to make the division of the duties between two boards isn't any cinch. There are certain to be overlaps and conflicts between the authorities.

And in the face of a timid or inadequate performance, we cannot nail one man but a group or two groups. Better a single person than an anonymity.

Over the years in Ontario, I have heard a lot of complaints about Judge Robb, the man responsible for licensing of outlets for alcoholic beverages. He has had immense discretionary powers, both in awarding licences, revoking licences, and in stipulating necessary improvements if they are to be retained and renewed. But the advantage of this power in one man, proved by Judge Robb himself over the years, was that applicants and licensees knew who they were dealing with. They got a measure of the man, and the general public got a view and a reiteration on many occasions of his policies and methods.

When changes in liquor control policy of a substantial kind became necessary or seemed politically right or ripe, the government of Ontario announced new intentions, produced new regulations and laws, and Judge Robb interpreted them.

The uproar over the broadcasting czar cannot help but make one suspicious that the CBC and the private broadcasters want an authority that really isn't an authority but a pressurable, compromising group which embraces no singleness of purpose and ideal in national broadcasting and so will let them ease along in a pragmatic, day-to-day way, putting off indefinitely the key questions about their performance. It happens that I haven't felt their performance was so poor that the one-man, full-authority supervision in their field should so frighten them.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices were firm in light trading today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Export interest was quiet.

There was some activity in oilseeds where advances in Chicago soybean prices were reflected. Hedging sales were light, reflecting severe prairie weather conditions.

Rolling Hills Trade Halted

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Stock Exchange today suspended trading in Rolling Hills mining stock, pending an assay report on its Pine Point, N.W.T., holdings.

Jack Vanluven, president of the exchange, said trading was suspended as of opening today. He gave no reason for the suspension.

Rolling Hills trading sparked a market rush Thursday, during which the stock rose to more than $3 from a Wednesday close of $2.65. But it tumbled to $2.15 on what company president Earl Glick called a press and radio "foul up." The stock traded 610,000 shares Thursday.

Mr. Glick said the reports gave the impression that the company believed it had no commercial mineralization. He said in fact no one to his knowledge had seen the drill core recently taken from the company's Pine Point site.

"As far as we are concerned no one has given an opinion except to say there is mineralization, but the grade of mineralization will not be determined until the assay," he said.

Patricia Silver Drill Work Slow

HAY RIVER, N.W.T. (CP) — Severe cold and water problems have slowed the drilling schedule of Patricia Silver Mines Ltd., Louis Cadesky, a company promoter and supervisor of drilling, said today in a telephone interview. The over-burden had not yet been penetrated.

He said there is nothing new to report after being told shares of Patricia Silver increased swiftly today on the Montreal Stock Exchange before dropping back.

The company has property on the southwest end of Pine Point holdings, 600 miles north of Edmonton. Pine Point has rich lead-zinc deposits.

Mr. Cadesky said the temperature was 50 degrees below zero this week when drilling resumed.

The stock opened up 15 cents at $1.74, then jumped rapidly to $2.90 before falling back. After an hour's trade it was selling at about $1.90.

The spokesman said the company moved a drill onto its holdings in the Pine Point area of the Northwest Territories earlier this week, but no news had been received from the exploration site.

SUMMARIES

Mines Feature Trading

Patricia Silver was in the spotlight at Vancouver and Montreal today while D'Eldona and Satellite spurted at Toronto in heavy speculative trading.

AT TORONTO, D'Eldona, which had been fluctuating most of the day, climbed 25 cents to 3.45 on more than 254,000 shares. Satellite showed a spurt near the early afternoon market as it rose 17 to 83 cents on about 307,000 shares.

Vandoo led speculative oils as it gained 2 to 16 cents on 254,000 shares, while Spooner fell 3 cents to 48 cents.

Gold issues were much stronger with McIntyre and Dome ahead ½ each at 100 and 41. Hollinger advanced ¼ to 27 and giant Yellowknife ⅛ to 15.

In the industrial list Bank of Montreal was off ¾ to 66¼ with Nova Scotia down ⅝ to 76¼ and Massey Ferguson ⅛ to 33¾.

AT VANCOUVER Bata, which closed Thursday at .86, was trading at .68. Kamloops was off .05 to .70.

A leader today was Patricia Silver, which went from $1.58 to as high as $2.90. The company announced that diamond drilling operations have started on claims in the Pine Point area.

AT MONTREAL a sharp climb by Patricia Silver mines in heavy turnover provided the main feature. It opened at $1.59 then jumped rapidly to $2.90 before falling back to $2.21.

Banks were down. Montreal and Royal each dropped ½ to 66½ and 80½, respectively. Imperial Commerce slipped ⅝ to 69½.

Industrials moved lower with Imperial Tobacco falling ¼ to 15¼.

AT NEW YORK stocks were irregularly lower late this afternoon in active trading.

Volume for the day was estimated at 9,000,000 shares, compared with 8,680,000 Thursday.

Prices firmed somewhat after early losses. Trading eased in active, low-priced issues as the day wore on.

AT LONDON the market was quietly firm today. Gilt-edged often advanced and dollar stocks were mixed.

NO AMERICANS, PLEASE!

We Have Know-How, Let's Go It Alone

By ELIZABETH FORBES

My telephone has rung more often than usual in the last couple of days. Each time, urgent voices have assailed me with the need to "do something" about the decision of the Greater Victoria Confederation-Centennial Committee to hire a United States company to handle the year-long celebrations in 1967.

Forbes

This committee may have valid reasons for its decision. There may be many points in favor of the company from across the line.

But the voices that have assailed me on the telephone feel there are just as many arguments—if not more—against bringing in an American company to do our work for us.

They point out—and rightly so—that this is Canada's centenary. That in 100 years of progress we must surely have evolved the "know-how" to plan and produce the spectaculars our Canadian citizens would like to see and to remember as part of that centenary.

* * *

They mention the talent we have in this city. The theatrical groups, the original ways of producing, the well-trained dancers and their equally outstanding choreographers.

They pour names at you to prove we have men and women in the entertainment field, any one of whom, if entrusted with the 1967 celebrations program, could do a good job.

These voices on the telephone have long memories. They remind you that the last time we hired an American company to push us through a centennial year the company twisted and turned our history until it was hard to recognize some of it as our own.

Reason given was that the ordinary course of history does not lend itself to pageantry.

* * *

Nevertheless, even in pageantry, it should not be necessary to distort to a point where an audience may react favorably to the color and the noise and still hide a snicker behind its hand at what it looks upon as pure ignorance.

Memories are also long enough to remember that the young men sent here to represent the American company came with a pre-written pageant script in their hands.

With the same outline, mind you, that had been used in United States cities where special pageants had been produced by that particular company and in that same year.

All it was proposed to do was dub in some local incidents and a lot of local actors and actresses and put the show into production.

* * *

One incident, one of my callers said, was the fact that they intended to place our early Indians in teepees (like the Indians of the western plains in their own country).

Teepees, snorted the voice on the telephone, were not used on this coast.

One of the biggest was the fact that although these young men were competent, they had no real knowledge of our country, our history or our people.

It placed them at a serious disadvantage. If it had not been for the assistance of local men and women who were determined the pageant should not fail—and that it should have some resemblance to reality, they would never have overcome that disadvantage.

* * *

We do have men and women here who are well qualified to handle the 1967 centennial celebrations program — men and women with imagination, originality and the ability to create.

We have theatrical groups. We have historians who know the story of Canada's hundred years, the highlights that bring that story to life and the deeds that give it color.

Put them all together and we'd have a 1967 centennial year program of which we could really be proud.

It has been said that the Greater Victoria Confederation-Centennial Committee may take another look and cancel the decision it has made.

If it does, let's hope it gives its second nod to Canada and not to the United States.

'People Complaining Over U.S. Promoter'

People are angry over the appointment of the John B. Rogers Co. to organize 1966-67 centennial celebrations in Victoria, Chamber of Commerce assistant manager Lou Worrell said Thursday.

He said numerous people had phoned or stopped him on the street complaining about the decision of Greater Victoria centennial committee Tuesday to hire an American firm.

Mr. Worrell said it is "somehow a repetition of the 1962 affair," when Victoria citizens complained of the same professional promoters being engaged to handle the city's centennial celebrations.

He said the Chamber's public affairs group likely would discuss the matter when it meets Tuesday at the Dominion Hotel to hear centennial secretary C. C. Wyatt give a progress report.

Rites Saturday For Ex-Official Of Veteran Body

Funeral services will be held in Victoria Saturday at 10:30 a.m. for John V. (Harold) Evans, 77, who died Wedenesday at Veterans' Hospital.

Mr. Evans was a resident in the city for 19 years. For 15 years he conducted a dancing school. He lived at 1120 Blanshard.

Mr. Evans served in both world wars, first with the British Army and then with the Canadian forces. He had been secretary of the Victoria branch Old Contemptibles Association since its formation. He was also a member of the Red Chevrons Association.

He leaves three sisters-in-law in England. He had no relatives in Canada.

Canon George Biddle, padre of the Old Contemptibles Association will conduct the service at Chaplin's funeral chapel, 1155 Fort Street. Interment will be at Veterans' Cemetery.

Religious Liberty Saturday Topic

Pastor S. G. White will speak on Religious Liberty in Seventh Day Adventist Church, Pandora and Vancouver streets, Saturday at 11 a.m.

"Deliberations of the Vatican Council on religious liberty have brought this subject into prominence," says Pastor White.

He added that 1966 marks the 60th anniversary of Liberty magazine, the Adventist publication on religious freedom, which has a circulation exceeding 400,000.

MOONEY
. . . to take a vacation

City Honors Ex-Alderman

Ex-alderman Millard Mooney, defeated as a candidate for mayor in the last civic election, received an engraved silver tray from city council Thursday.

Mayor A. W. Toone made the ppresentation in the council chamber.

Mr. Mooney said his years on council had been enjoyable and that he is confident the present council will lead Victoria to higher things.

"Victoria has never been more beautiful," he said. "And services have never been better."

CONTINUE STRIKE

Students Balk At Settlement

MONTREAL (CP) — Faced with strong opposition to a student strike settlement proposed Wednesday night by Educaion Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie, leaders have adopted a policy which amounts to continuation of the strike.

The strike seemed to have been settled Wednesday when trade and specialized schools—agreed to return to classes following acceptance of the education minister's proposal.

However, the arrangement, which had been agreed to by student leaders, displeased many of the 27,000 students they represent. Although many students returned to classes Thursday, they refused to study. Other students did not show up at all.

The students went on strike Monday in protest against the lengthening of the school year by 2½ weeks, saying this would hurt their summer employment earnings.

STUDY QUESTION

In the agreement Wednesday, the Quebec government did not back down to student demands that the old calendar be reinstituted, but agreed to establish a committee to study the question and also to set up a student employment agency.

Michel Delorme, president of the Quebec Technical Schools Federation, said a meeting of representatives of each of the province's technical schools is scheduled to be held in Quebec City today and a decision made whether to advise students to continue the strike.

Thursday, Grade 11 commercial students at Quebec City also went on strike against the school year extension. However, in the same schools, the Grade 12 and 13 students decided not to strike.

There are still 18,000 French-speaking, Roman Catholic students who are without classes because of strikes by 750 teachers in the Hull, Papineau and Le Gardeur regions. Most teachers have been on strike for more than two weeks. At issue are salaries, seniority and working conditions.

Overheated Furnace

The fire, caused by an overheated furnace, destroyed the chimney in the frame building. Damage was estimated at $125.

LEADER in the B.C. fishing industry, James M. Buchanan, will be nominated for the post of chancellor of the University of British Columbia, a Vancouver newspaper said Thursday. Mrs. Frank Ross, the present chancellor, who has held the post since 1962 was not expected to seek another term. Mr. Buchanan, 69, stepped down as president and chairman of the board of B.C. Packers Ltd., Canada's largest fish packing firm, in July, 1964.

Gov't Co-Operation On Freeway Sought

VANCOUVER (CP)—City council passed a formal motion Thursday asking Premier Bennett to co-operate so that a $145,000,000 freeway system could be built in Vancouver.

The co-operation of the premier is the only possible solution to a worsening traffic problem here, aldermen agreed.

"I don't care how much power the man has," Mayor Bill Rathie told aldermen. "It is time to stand up and be counted on a vital issue."

The city wants the provincial government to ask Ottawa to redesignate the Trans-Canada Highway, routing it through Vancouver. Using a freeway system the city would get $59,500,000 in federal aid.

Victoria would have to put up $63,000,000 and the city $22,000,000.

Premier Bennett has said he will never allow the Trans-Canada Highway to cut through Vancouver because he is against freeways through the heart of a city.

Tax Series Starts In Times Saturday

Property taxes. Soaring property taxes.

The subject — a sore one — is foremost in every home-owner's mind as the time nears when he will be opening tax notices with trepidation.

Are they out of line?

Are municipalities doing enough to keep taxes down?

The Times recently assigned reporter Pete Loudon to find the answers to these questions and a lot more which have been plaguing what has been called "the poor-put-upon-home-owner."

His findings—in a four-part series—will start Saturday in The Times.

Thompson Pledge Assures Majority

OTTAWA (UPI) — Social Credit leader Robert Thompson today promised the minority Liberal government the support it needs to withstand its first non-confidence challenge of the 27th Parliament later in the day.

And in another heartening break for the government, Liberal house leader George McIlraith announced that agreement has been reached in behind-the-scenes negotiations on the potentially explosive rules question.

The support of Thompson's five Social Credit members gave the Liberals a narrow majority with a possible 135 in the 265-seat Commons on a New Democratic Party motion scheduled to come up later today. The Conservative motion will come up Tuesday.

Thompson said that although agreeing with the motion based on government failure to increase the old age pension to $100 a month and make it available to age 65, he could not support any measure designed to defeat the government because the country would not stand for another election at this time.

WOULD BE REJECTED

Any political party that brought about an election at this time would be completely rejected by the electorate, Mr. Thompson said.

He deplored the fact that pensions and Canadian senior citizens should become the subject of political manoeuvring and strategy.

His statement meant the government also could count on Socred support for further throne speech amendments, including the Conservative motion.

McIlraith's announcement on rules question ended several days of party negotiations and uncertainty and meant that with a few minor exceptions, rules passed in the previous Parlia-

HUNGER HAUNTS INDIA

NEW DELHI (AP) — India's food crisis has thrown more than 12,000,000 people into "dire distress" and threat of starvation, government figures disclosed today.

A food ministry spokesman said a survey of drought-stricken areas shows at least 100,000,000 of the country's 480,000,000 people will feel a severe pinch before the crisis is past.

The survey is continuing, the spokesman said, and final figures in both categories are bound to increase despite emergency measures to get more U.S. food grains into India.

People in "dire distress" will have to be moved into relief camps or fed almost entirely by relief supplies now being rushed to many parts of the country, the spokesman said.

SET UP CAMPS

Relief camps already are being set up in Rajasthan and Gujarat states in western India, the area hardest hit by the 1965 drought.

In Admeer district of Rajasthan, the government found 806 villages out of 956 were living under "scarcity conditions." In Bikaner district, 497 out of 529 were hard hit.

Of 16 districts in Gujarat state, 11 had crop yields less than 25 per cent of normal.

Other hard - hit states are Madhya Pradesh, Masharashtra, Andhra Pradesh and Mysore.

In many areas, the government also has started emergency shipments of drinking water and cattle fodder.

Even states that normally are surplus producers of food grains now are reporting difficulties.

Rattan Singh, the Punjab's minister of agriculture, told reporters in Chandigarh his state is likely to have a 500,000-ton deficit in wheat production.

Death Order Is at Stake

SALISBURY (Reuters) — The Rhodesian government refused today to recognize Queen Elizabeth's decree lifting the death sentence on a Negro convicted of trying to start a fire in Rhodesia.

A government statement said it regards the exercise of the royal prerogative in the case as an illegal act.

An announcement in London Thursday said the Queen had commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence passed on the Negro named Lazarus.

Lazarus was convicted by a Rhodesian court of attempting to set fire to two buildings.

The death sentence, passed before the Rhodesian white-minority regime's unilateral declaration of independence from Britain last November, was mandatory under the colony's Law and Order (Maintenance) Act.

Referring to the royal announcement, the Salisbury statement said:

"This is a political move designed to embarrass the Rhodesian government and it is a pity that once again the British government should have shown its willingness to embroil Her Majesty the Queen in politics."

Snow Hits Economy Of U.K.

LONDON (AP) — Europe's cold wave crippled British industry today, packed hospitals and threatened major embarrassment for Prime Minister Wilson's government.

Cuts in gas supplies disrupted the English Midlands, the hub of British industry. Thousands of workers were laid off for the rest of the week as assembly lines halted in automobile and engineering plants.

Hospitals reported hundreds of fracture cases brought in from the icy streets. Some set up special wards for old people with hypothermia, a dangerous drop in body temperature. One London hospital reported 212 casualties from falls Thursday night, most of them broken wrists. Brighton, on the south coast, had 160.

Hundreds of cars were abandoned in snowdrifts around Dover on the English east coast. Ice and snow delayed trains throughout Britain.

In Norway, the intense cold seemed to be lifting slightly and the temperature reached 14 degrees. Oslo's weather for the last three months was the coldest since official records started 132 years ago.

Sweden, enduring its coldest winter since 1881, reported 43 ships icebound in the northern Baltic. Inland temperatures ranged from four below zero to 38 below.

Cuts by the government gas and electricity authorities gave the Conservative Opposition a springboard for attack on Wilson's Labor government, which has a majority of only two votes in the House of Commons.

Fifth Victim

Hospital officials said today Raymond Denault, 17, died of injuries received in the accident that claimed the lives of his parents, Agnes and Archie Denault.

$60 Million Increase In Education Grants

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal grants to universities will be bosted to $100,000,000 from the present $40,000,000 in the 1966-67 year if Parliament approves, Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday night.

He said this would be an interim arrangement to help universities pending a federal-provincial conference on education. It would bring the federal per capita grant to $5 from the present $2, he announced in the Commons.

Meanwhile, a special formula had been worked out by which more money would be given provinces with a high percentage of out-of-province students.

It would be applied by the Association of Universities and Colleges in all provinces except Quebec. But special arrangements would be made so Quebec would get an equal increase.

Mr. Pearson, speaking in the throne speech debate, said an interim arrangement to boost grants had been suggested in December.

The government hoped to work out long-term approaches through a federal-provincial conference on education to be arranged in the next few months.

The Economic Council of Canada in its second annual review had recommended that education at all levels be given a high priority. Education was a crucially important factor in the economy.

The prime minister said there

Boost in Aid Hailed by Uvic

A spokesman at the University of Victoria this morning welcomed news that the federal government is increasing grants for higher education.

Dean R. T. Wallace said the increase in grants may signal "a turning point in university development."

The federal government announced Thursday that operating grants would go up from $2 to $5 per capita for the academic year of 1966-67.

Dean Wallace, who is acting president of the university in the absence of President Malcolm Taylor, (in Ottawa on a business trip) said Canadian universities have emphasized the need for more money for higher education.

He said this early response by the federal authorities "is most gratifying." He also hailed the decision of the federal government to review university development along with the provinces.

Dean Wallace said: "All parties recognize the importance of further national investment in our human resources."

He added, "our own provincial government and the academic community in British Columbia have shown by their actions that B.C. is ready to meet the challenge of our times."

Operating grants from the province to Uvic have increased 126 per cent over the past two years.

Four Arrested In Gun Battle

MONTREAL (CP)—Four men were arrested today following an attempted bank robbery, a police chase and a gun battle in suburban Ville d'Anjou.

Police said a constable and one of the holdup men were slightly injured in the battle. The manager of the Royal Bank of Canada branch where the attempted robbery took place was struck on the face.

Doctors Riled

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — The Belgian government today gave the country's 9,000 doctors a five-per-cent increase in fees and banned them from imposing the 25-per-cent increase they have demanded.

The move immediately renewed threats of a strike by the doctors, who warned they would walk out Jan. 28 unless their demands are met.

'BRAINWASHING CANADIAN PEOPLE'

Dief Blasts CBC for Portraying U.S. as Villains

By IAN MacDONALD
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker Thursday accused the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation of portraying America as an imperialist, war-mongering villain in South Viet Nam.

Diefenbaker ripped into the corporation for its handling of news about the Asian hot spot.

He accused it of brainwashing the Canadian public.

"According to its programs you would think the United States was one of the great enemies of mankind," Diefenbaker told Parliament.

He demanded that the top brass of the corporation be brought before Parliament to explain.

Diefenbaker launched into his CBC attack after he accused the Liberal government of using the network to spread propaganda during the last election campaign.

The Tory leader, speaking in the throne speech debate, said that External Affairs Minister Paul Martin takes the stand that the U.S. is in Viet Nam because it is trying to stop the spread of Communism throughout Southeast Asia.

Diefenbaker said propaganda is spread in every part of Canada about how terrible the Americans are acting.

He said he, at times, has been critical of the U.S., "but the CBC programs picture the most diabolical cruelties being perpetrated by the Americans.

"Why does it do that?"

The CBC, he said, had even brought in Tim Buck, retired general secretary of the Communist Party in Canada, and presented him on television "to tell Canadians what is wrong with the U.S.A."

"Shame," a handful of MPs erupted.

Parliament, he said, should look into this "among the people in the CBC." He did not mean the employees but the people at the top who are "brainwashing, or endeavoring to brainwash the Canadian people."

That, he thundered, was not what the CBC was established for.

"We wanted it to be an institution above those considerations that ordinarily separate us," he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he had considered programs one by one.

The Tory leader said he would press as strongly as he could for "these people (at CBC) to come before Parliament to let us in on these things."

Mr. Diefenbaker then reverted to his attack on the CBC for its conduct in the election.

He mocked the "tremendous influence of the propaganda that was put out in the last few days of the campaign regarding the sweep that was to take place."

"That," he exclaimed, "was not done as an impersonal act for the benefit of the people of Canada."

Later in the throne speech, Prime Minister Pearson said Mr. Diefenbaker's charge against the CBC's election conduct was "very serious indeed."

Mr. Pearson said, "That is a serious charge and perhaps my right honorable friend (Mr. Diefenbaker) will have an opportunity to prove it.

"And it is the kind of charge to which we in this house are becoming accustomed, made without evidence and by insinuation and innuendo."

Mr. Pearson's statement was greeted by loud Liberal applause.

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — When Barry Schneider, 22, and his wife, Nedra, 21, found and returned a bag containing $300,000 in payroll cheques to the U.S. Steel plant in nearby Torrance recently, they were given a reward they couldn't afford to accept.

Pacific Southwest Airlines offered the Schneiders and another couple with them when they returned the cheques airline tickets to fly anywhere they desired.

Schneider declined the offer because, as a student at San Fernando Valley State College, he could not afford a vacation.

Wednesday, U.S. Steel sent the Schneiders a $500 cheque to finance the vacation. Three anonymous donors also sent the couple another $80.

NEW YORK — The New York Mercantile Exchange said today it is considering inaugurating trading in scotch whisky futures.

John Scanlon, president of the exchange, said he expects the trading will begin before the end of this year.

Initial trading will be on a "spot," or more or less immediate delivery basis.

In granting scotch the status of a staple, the exchange would put whisky in the same category as the eggs, potatoes and aluminum contracts it now trades.

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

B.C. SYNOPSIS—A complex weather system moving off the B.C. coast continues to give extensive precipitation over the province this morning. Rain along the outer coast was to give way to snow along the mainland. At Vancouver rain and snow mixed were forecast as the system approaches during the day, changing to snow as it moved inland over the Washington coast this evening. Snow amounts are forecast to be 4 inches at Abbotsford and 2 inches at Vancouver city. In the Cariboo 8 inches of new snow had fallen at Prince George up to 4 a.m. this morning. Another 5 inches was likely before it tapers off later today. Another Pacific storm moving from the Gulf of Alaska will bring more rain to the north coast late Saturday.

Lagos Denies PM's Death

LAGOS (AP)—Nigeria's military government officially denied Thursday reports published overseas that Lagos authorities had announced the death of former federal Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa.

Information Director Cyprian Ekwensi said no announcement had been made on the fate of Balewa, who was kidnapped in the early hours of last Saturday.

Balewa's press secretary, Moses Awoyinfa, also said no announcement was made and "I know nothing of what happened."

Canadians Recaptured By Posse

NEW IBERIA, La. (AP)—Two young Canadians escaped jail here Thursday and dodged a sheriff's posse all around town until their recapture Thursday night.

Des Rosier, trailed by bloodhounds through the freezing night, swam the Bayou which cuts across the middle of New Iberia. Chilled to the bone, he rang the doorbell at a house near the Bayou — the home, though he didn't know it, of Deputy Dave LaSalle.

Mrs. LaSalle, realizing the youth was one of the escapees her husband was working overtime chasing, let him in. She provided a blanket and sent her son out the back door for Deputy LaSalle.

Lazeo was caught hiding in a used car lot.

The youths were being held for federal officials on a stolen car charge, Wattigny said.

Deputy Drozin Broussard said the two scrambled past him when he opened the door to a hallway leading past some jail cells.

"They were supposed to have been locked in their cells, but they were out in the hall," he said. "They got past me and ran out of the building."

There had been some question of whether they would continue to be valid because of the election and the new Parliament.

Thursday, in their first chance to criticize the Throne Speech, the opposition parties responded with two amendments each of which could have led to the fall of the government.

The non-confidence motions introduced by the Tories and NDP Thursday press the Liberal government to boost old age pensions to $100 monthly.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker opened the eight-day Throne Speech debate with an 80-minute attack on the government's legislative program and policies.

Borrowing an argument used exactly eight years ago by Mr. Pearson, then Opposition leader, he said the government should resign if defeated in a confidence vote and give the Opposition an opportunity to attempt to form a new government without another election.

Mr. Pearson rejected this idea, using the arguments invoked in 1958 by then prime minister Diefenbaker. He warned that if the Liberals are defeated on a non-confidence motion a new election would follow.

RECALLS REJECTION

NDP Leader Douglas commented that Mr. Diefenbaker wants to be named prime minister by the Commons after being rejected by the electorate by a 2-to-1 ratio. The people would dislike an early election, but they would dislike even more having "the Tories back in office."

Mr. Diefenbaker's non-confidence motion criticizes the government for failing to propose in the throne speech that monthly pensions now paid to all those aged 69 or over be increased by $25 to $100.

Mr. Douglas endorsed the Conservative move but added a motion of his own regretting that $100 pensions are not being paid immediately from age 65.

COST 'IMPOSSIBLE'

Mr. Pearson said it would cost an extra $855,000,000 annually to pay $100 pensions at 65. It would be impossible to finance the increase with contributions from the Canada Pension Plan fund as the Conservatives proposed, since Ottawa was committed to turn the fund over to the provinces for investment purposes.

It would be unreasonable to finance the increase through federal taxes as the NDP proposed because of fast-rising expenses in other social security programs.

Recorded Vote Lost By Tories

OTTAWA (CP)—In the first roll-call vote of the new Parliament, the Commons voted 123 to 65 Thursday night to permit Creditiste Leader Caouette to speak ahead of a Conservative MP.

A Conservative motion challenging the rotation of party speakers was introduced shortly before the normal 10 p.m. adjournment and forced the House to sit an extra hour for the recorded vote.

When Speaker Lucien Lamoureux recognized Mr. Caouette as the fourth party leader to speak on the opening day of the throne speech debate, Hugh Horner (PC—Jasper-Edson) also sought the floor.

Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) moved that Mr. Horner be allowed to speak instead of Mr. Caouette. Only the 65 Conservatives voting supported the motion.

Lining up against the bid were 90 Liberals, 18 New Democrats, eight Creditistes, five Social Credit MPs and the two independents.

SURVEILLANCE

'Under What Authority?'

OTTAWA (UPI)—The opposition went to the defence today of a man accused of spying in Canada for the Soviet Union.

Leading off the attack against the government's handling of the spy case that broke last year, Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker demanded to know under what law the government was keeping the suspect under constant survillance without laying any charge against him.

Diefenbaker has asked for a royal commission inquiry into the case that resulted in the expulsion from Canada last May of two minor Russian diplomats who allegedly offered two Canadians "thousands of dollars" to spy for them.

One of the Canadians helped police nab the Russians and the other — identified as Victor G. Spencer of Vancouver — was fired from his civil service job with the post office but never charged.

New Democratic leader T. C. Douglas asked Prime Minister Pearson if the government would at least give Spencer "an opportunity of clearing his name."

WARM welcome to the House of Commons Thursday was given Grace MacInnis (NDP-Vancouver-Kingsway) by Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker. Both praised her father, J. S. Woodsworth, and late husband, MP Angus MacInnis, founders of the old CCF party. Mrs. MacInnis was elected in the Nov. 8 vote.

should be a joint federal-provincial response to the challenge.

The increased federal grants would be "a constructive step forward in making an adequate contribution to the advancement of education."

There would be no infringement on the jurisdiction of the provinces in education.

The speech from the throne setting out government legislative aims for the session mentioned increased aid to universities but did not spell out any details.

The first mention of what specific steps the government had in mind came when Mr. Pearson rose Thursday to answer criticisms by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker of the speech.

. . . embarrassing defeat

Undercover Rebellion Responsible

Moro's resignation was triggered by an embarrassing defeat in the Chamber of Deputies Thursday on his bill to set up a state nursery school. He had described the measure as a key reform that the Socialists demanded when entering the coalition in December 1963.

The cabinet meeting lasted only five minutes. When Moro walked out he told reporters: "The government decided to resign."

He went to the Quirinal Palace to inform President Giuseppe Saragat of the resignation.

President Saragat, acting in accord with custom, asked Moro to stay on in an interim capacity until a new government can be formed. In effect, he reserved decision on the resignation when Moro submitted it formally to him.

No Strike Plea Puzzles Officials

WASHINGTON (AP)—Organized labor, already puzzled by President Johnson's anti-strike proposal, was further mystified Wednesday by a somewhat similar suggestion from one of the top union chiefs in the U.S.

Walter Reuther, United Auto Workers president, gave no details in proposing a "new mechanism" to prevent strikes in public service industries as well as major industries such as big steel and auto makers.

Many highly placed officials found it astonishing that any strike limiting suggestion should come from a labor leader of Reuther's stature.

Reuther, second most powerful man in the AFL-CIO, made his proposal in a speech to the Detroit Economic Club six days after Johnson's anti-strike reference in his State of the Union message Jan. 12.

Johnson said he would ask Congress to consider measures to deal with "strikes which threaten irreparable damage to the national interest."

130-DAY STRIKE OVER

Union, B-A Sign New Pact

A 130-day strike by truck drivers and warehousemen of British-American Oil ended today.

Leaders of both sides signed a new two-year contract to replace the one that ran out last April.

Among the 59 marketing division men involved are eight in Victoria and five in Nanaimo. They are members of Local 9-601 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union.

Seniority was the last stumbling block to settlement. The company wanted to split the province into three seniority zones to protect some union members who worked during the strike.

The union wanted to keep the former seniority list to protect those who did strike.

Company spokesmen have said a "very large" percentage of the company's industrial accounts were lost during the strike and some men might not be needed immediately.

Union members accepted a company proposal that a joint union-management committee study the seniority question. If recommendations from this committee are accepted by both sides, the proposals will become part of the new contract.

Pickets outside the B-A storage depot in Victoria were withdrawn Thursday pending signing of the new contract. The eight men are expected to return to work Monday.

The new contract is identical to others signed with major oil companies, and based on the provincial government formula that averted a general strike in B. C. last November.

It provides for a 35-cent wage increase, advance notice of technological change and union-management committees on automation.

Formal settlement was also expected today in Moose Jaw, where refinery workers have been on strike since Sept. 19. Strikes at the Kamloops and Port Moody refineries were settled earlier.
